JAPAN DENIES LEAGUE PLEA TO WITHDRAW IN MANCHURIA

Rejects as Impractical Proposal to Remove Troops and Leave to Geneva Council Protection of Nationals.

POWERS CONSIDER PRESSURE ON TOKIO

Withdrawal of Envoys and Possibly Trade Boycott Mentioned—How far U. S. Will Participate Is Unknown.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—A polite refusal was Japan's reply today to a League of Nations resolution requesting withdrawal of its troops from Manchuria by Nov. 16. In a note to Aristide Briand of France, chairman of the League's Council, the Japanese Government rejected as impracticable the proposal that protection of Japan's Nationals and property be undertaken by the League on withdrawal of the soldiers.

Japan definitely asserted its intention to keep its forces in Manchuria until China gave assurance of the safety of Japanese subjects and agreed to respect Japan's treaty rights.

The note made public at the Japanese Embassy here said: "Having regard to the actual conditions in Manchuria the Japanese Government have regretfully been brought to the conclusion that the dangers involved in the precipitate recall of the Japanese troops could not be averted by measures of (League) supervision."

Insists on Five Fundamentals.

In emphatic terms, Japan announced its intention of demanding compliance with its "five fundamental principles" laid down on Oct. 24, before recalling its soldiers.

The five points—which Briand contends have already been met by China—include "respect for the treaty rights of Japan in Manchuria." The others are mutual repudiation of aggressive conduct, respect for territorial integrity; suppression of agitation and boycott; and protection of Japanese nationals.

"Unless and until an arrangement is reached between Japan and China on the basis of these principles, no measure of security for the lives and property of Japanese subjects, sufficient to enable the withdrawal of the Japanese troops to the railway zone can possibly be assured," the Japanese note said. "It is far from the thoughts (of the Japanese Government) to insist on the final adjustment of the whole series of pending questions between Japan and China.

For Direct Negotiation.

"As a condition precedent to the withdrawal of the troops, all that they urge upon China for the present is a frank recognition, by direct negotiations between the two parties, of the fundamental principles that should govern normal relations between any two nations.

"Such an accord will be a long step toward replacing the existing tension by a sense of stability between the peoples of the two nations, to whose interest it is, to be on the best of terms."

China throughout has refused to negotiate with Japan so long as Japanese troops occupy Chinese territory.

Japan's note also hinted that China in a recent communication to the League "had called into question the validity of some of the treaties constituting the basic embodiment of the relations between Japan and China." It asserted that "the Japanese Government could not for a moment entertain such a contention."

While making known its firm stand, Japan thanked Briand for his "sympathetic concern" and expressed a desire to withdraw its troops "with the minimum of delay."

Test of League's Power.

As no disposition was shown to withdraw by Nov. 16—the date set by the League—officials here saw the note as precipitating an important test of the League's power at the special council meeting which has been called by Briand for Nov. 17.

BOARD SUSTAINS HOOVER; CHARGES BY NAVY LEAGUE HEAD "FALSE, INACCURATE"

No Witnesses Are Called in Investigation by Hammond's Committee—Official Records Used to Refute Some of Accusations.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The report of the special committee appointed by President Hoover to investigate charges by William Howard Gardiner, president of the Navy League, that President Hoover is "abysmally ignorant" of naval affairs, was made public tonight.

Most of the statements in which Gardiner sought to show that President Hoover had neglected or impaired the naval power of the United States were declared by the committee to be deliberately false, or based on misunderstanding of the facts. In some instances official records were cited to refute Gardiner, but in one case the committee merely quoted President Hoover to the contrary, and in another it quoted Secretary of State Stimson as stating that Gardiner was mistaken. The "abysmal ignorance" charge and the circumstances which Gardiner cited in support of it were dismissed by the committee with the statement that they represented only Gardiner's general opinions and conclusions.

Proceedings at Private Club.

The circumstances under which the report was made public provided an appropriate climax to one of the most unusual episodes of the Hoover administration. The committee which the President chose to investigate the charges was composed of five of his personal and political friends and associates, two of them being his own appointees. No witnesses were called, and the proceedings were conducted behind closed doors in a private club—the exclusive Metropolitan.

When the report was completed Friday night, it was submitted first to President Hoover, in whose possession it remained until it was made public tonight at the White House, by the President's secretary, Theodore Joslin.

The chairman of the committee was John Hays Hammond, retired mining engineer, long time friend of the President, and former candidate for the Republican nomination for Vice President. The other members were Admiral Hugh Rodman, retired; Eliot Wadsworth, a member of the President's unemployment relief organization; Under Secretary of State William R. Castle, a Hoover appointee; and Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ernest Lee Jahncke, who recently returned from a speaking tour in behalf of the President's reelection.

Two Parts to Report.

The report, which was unanimous, consisted of two parts. The portion made public first consisted of a summary of Gardiner's charges, and the committee reply to each of them. The latter and bulkier portion contained the text of Gardiner's statement, opposite which, in parallel columns, appeared the committee's detailed analysis and answer.

The committee denies that President Hoover has failed to maintain the United States Navy at the ratio of strength agreed upon with Great Britain and Japan. It denies that he entered into any agreement with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald which have not been divulged to the Senate and the public. It denies that he suspended the construction of five cruisers, and asserts that such suspension as did occur was commensurately met by Great Britain. It denies that he intends to forego any of the nation's treaty rights under the proposed one-year naval "holiday."

"Inaccurate, False and Erroneous."

The report declares that 16 naval vessels, consisting of seven cruisers, five destroyers, three submarines and one aircraft carrier, are now under construction, to cost a total of $174,700,000. In addition it points out that three battleships are being modernized at a cost of $30,000,000.

President Hoover's proposal to cut $60,000,000 off the Navy's budget estimates for next year—which provoked Gardiner's statement and the present controversy—would not result in placing a single combatant vessel out of commission, the committee declares. It concludes as follows:

"Mr. Gardiner's statement contains many inaccuracies, false assertions and erroneous conclusions, and his assumption as to the President's attitude toward the Navy is wholly unwarranted."

Group Upholds Gardiner.

Gardiner has the support of the Navy League in his fight with the President, and secretly he has the support of most of the Navy. Sev-

TRAFFIC IN PANAMA CANAL HALTED BECAUSE OF FLOODS

Gatun Lake, Source of Water Supply, to Be Drained at Once.

By the Associated Press.

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Nov. 7.—Traffic in the Panama Canal was suspended this afternoon and every effort was made to drain Gatun Lake, the source of the canal's water supply, which has been flooded by torrential rains since early yesterday.

The Chagres and Pequeni rivers are swollen with waters from the mountains of the interior, which converged near the Madden dam at Alajuela and caused the worst flood since 1923. The Gatun spillways and the Pedro Miguel and Gatun locks were opened to discharge the surplus water.

Rainfall for the past 24 hours at Alajuela was 4.4 inches. No damage was reported, but it was feared that landslides might interrupt railroad and power service along the canal.

STATE DEPARTMENT HAS NEW WORLD PHONE SYSTEM

It Will Enable Several Persons to Listen in on Diplomatic Conversations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—A new long-distance telephone system was installed today at the State Department, which will place all its high officials within speaking distance of European capitals.

Secretary Stimson said the system was the first of its kind to be installed anywhere. He predicted the line would do a great deal of business when asked whether it was decided on with the approaching disarament conference at Geneva particularly in mind.

The trans-Atlantic telephone was used extensively in arranging President Hoover's debt moratorium last June, and has been called into service since over Premier's Laval's visit and the Manchurian controversy.

The new system is looked upon by Secretary Stimson as particularly valuable in that it will permit several members of his staff to listen in on important conversations on matters in which they are working in co-operation with the Secretary.

DRY REPEAL ECONOMIC AID, BUSINESS MEN THINK

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 7.—recovery would be definitely aided by repeal or revision of the Volstea act in the opinion of more than two-thirds of the business leaders of the country approached according to a report on a survey made in all parts of the United States by Bradstreet's and published today.

Of the six questions submitted to two or three business men in each community, one concerned repeal or amendment of the prohibition enforcement law, in answering the question said it was requested that they avoid personal and moral beliefs and consider only the economic aspect of the statute.

GRANDI LEAVES ITALY FOR HIS VISIT TO HOOVER

Youthful Foreign Minister to Discuss With President Means of Restoring World Confidence.

BRINGS GREETINGS FROM MUSSOLINI

Says He Hopes to Interpret to American People Real Friendship Italians Have for Them.

By the Associated Press.

NAPLES, Italy, Nov. 7.—Foreign Minister Dino Grandi sailed for the United States today to offer President Hoover Italy's assistance in putting the world's business back on its feet. Before sailing he talked for some time in excellent English with a group of American newspaper reporters.

The youthful Foreign Minister—he is 36—is going to Washington as the personal representative of Premier Mussolini, with whom he conferred at length in Rome yesterday.

Italy hopes that much will come from his visit. The disposition of the Italian Government, it is pointed out, is to co-operate with America wherever possible, notably in disarmament. Moreover, Signor Grandi only recently returned from Berlin, where he had a candid discussion of financial and political problems with Chancellor Heinrich Bruening. Thus he will be able to present Germany's story to the President, supplemented by the convictions of Premier Mussolini and by his own observations.

Accompanied by His Wife.

Signora Grandi, wearing a dark coat over a dark suit and a close-fitting hat, and carrying a large bouquet of orchids, accompanied her husband on the liner Conte Grande It is her first crossing of the Atlantic, and she was anticipating a pleasant time.

Grandi has been in America before. As Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs he was a member of the Italian mission that participated in the debt settlement negotiations in 1926. On that occasion he met Mr. Hoover.

"I'm glad to be going back to America," he said. "It's a great country and I never have forgotten the trip I made there five years ago.

"I am going this time as my country's Ambassador but also as an Italian to interpret to the American people the real friendship we have for them.

Greetings From Mussolini.

"I am taking to President Hoover the personal greetings of Premier Mussolini and I will tell the President how much we admire his courageous initiative in facing the crisis which is racking the world."

He expressed pleasure at the prospect of meeting Secretary of State Stimson again—the Secretary visited him and the Premier in Rome this summer—and said he hoped he would be able to renew his acquaintance with Senator William E. Borah, "for whose intelligence I have the highest respect."

When the reporters complimented the Foreign Minister on his command of English he smiled and remarked it is an important language these days. When his son, Franco, is 14, eight years hence, he will go to school in the United States, Grandi said.

Anti-Fascist Demonstrations Being Planned in U. S.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Anti-Fascist groups with headquarters here let it be known today that they are planning protest demonstrations in each of the cities to be visited by Dino Grandi, Italy's Foreign Minister, during his diplomatic sojourn in this country. Committees representing Italian-Americans opposed to the Mussolini regime in their native land have been formed, the leaders said, in Washington, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, the cities included in the Minister's official itinerary.

A meeting to make final preparations for the demonstrations is to be held here Tuesday night under auspices of the Anti-Fascist Alliance, which was disbanded but is now being reorganized to protest against the Grandi visit and what the anti-fascists believe to be its international implications.

Maj. William F. Deegan, chairman of the Mayor's Committee for the reception of distinguished guests, announced this afternoon that preparations had been made to give Grandi exactly the same public reception accorded Premier Pierre Laval of France if the Italian Foreign Minister comes direct to New York.

OPERATORS SEEK STATE PROTECTION AFTER MINE CLASH

35 NON-UNION WORKERS BEATEN

Attack Near Higginsville Laid to Organized Diggers—Executive Promises to Make Investigation.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 7.—A delegation of coal mine operators from Higginsville and Corder, Lafayette County, called on Gov. Caulfield today to request protection for their mines and non-union miners, following disorders near Higginsville last Thursday in which 35 miners were beaten, 10 severely, by a crowd of 150 men, because they had not joined the coal miners' union.

The operator told the Governor they had bee unable to obtain action by county authorities against ringleaders of a mob which assaulted the non-union miners as they were on their way to work in the mines and that the mines had been closed until some protection of property and employes was assured.

The Governor told the operators he would make an immediate investigation and would confer with Attorney - General Shartel. He pointed out that under existing laws the State had no authority over the Prosecuting Attorney and Sheriff of the county and could not intervene to institute prosecutions unless local authorities requested that the Attorney-General be assigned to aid in prosecutions, and then he would be in the capacity of an assistant to the local prosecutor. He said, however, that the National Guard could be called out to maintain order, if local authorities failed to function, to prevent violence.

Says Workers Are Satisfied.

J. L. Stratman, Higginsville, who headed the delegation, told the Governor virtually all of the mines in the district had been operating on an open shop basis for three or four years and that there was no controversy between the mine companies and their employes. He said the employes had been satisfied with the wage scale being paid, which is somewhat less than the scale provided in the United Mine Workers of America agreements, and that there had been no trouble until organizers for the union recently appeared in the field and attempted to organize the miners.

He said the organizers had demanded that the operators sign a four-year contract at the 1917 wage scale of $5 a day for certain workers and a sliding scale for tonnage workers. He said the operators were paying 70 to 85 per cent of that scale and could not pay more, under present conditions, because of competition from the Illinois coal fields where coal was

WIFE OF BERG AWAITS WORD FROM HUSBAND'S KIDNAPERS GIVING TERMS OF RANSOM

LETTER ADVISED HER TO GET 'SOME MONEY TOGETHER'

CUCKOO GANGSTERS SOUGHT BY POLICE

Herman Tipton and Carl Fiorito, Missing at Usual Haunts; Other Hangouts Searched — Chauffeur Again Questioned.

Further word from Alexander Berg, 57-year-old millionaire fur dealer, kidnaped for ransom at 6 o'clock Friday evening by two men who boarded his limousine in heavy Lindell boulevard traffic at Euclid avenue, was awaited anxiously by his wife and her advisers last night at her apartment in Park Plaza Hotel, two blocks from the scene of the abduction.

Mrs. Berg has had two messages from her husband. The first came indirectly in a telephone call from one of the kidnapers three hours after the kidnaping. The second was a note from Berg himself, received at 1 a. m. yesterday.

The note had been mailed special delivery from East St. Louis at 10 o'clock Friday night. In the brief message Berg, whose handwriting was identified by his wife, wrote "I am O K," added that his kidnapers were treating him "fine," asked his wife not to worry about him, indicated that an additional communication could be expected, and mentioned "getting some money together" for use on demand.

New Note Expected.

Obviously the note was written by Berg at the direction and probably at the dictation of the kidnapers. The text was not made public. The effect, however, was to give Mrs. Berg and her advisers hope that shortly they would receive another note setting forth ransom terms and conditions under which the kidnapers will release the fur dealer.

Anxiety of the family group for his early release was heightened by the fact that he has been ailing from neuritis and is in need of occasional medical attention.

The telephone call from the kidnapers was received by Mrs. Berg within an hour after Berg's 42-year-old Negro chauffeur, Albert Pike, had returned from northern St. Louis County, where the kidnapers had taken him and Berg, and had reported the circumstances of his employer's abduction.

"The man who called me had a soft, courteous voice," Mrs. Berg said. "He asked for Mrs. Berg. I told him Mrs. Berg was speaking and he said:

"'I am one of the men who have Mr. Berg. We don't want you to worry about him. He's all right. You'll get a letter from me some time tomorrow, telling you what to do. You do that and he'll be back home and everything will be all right. We're taking good care of him.'

"'But he's been sick,' I said.

"'We know that,' he told me. 'We'll take care of him.'

"Then he hung up."

Family's Policy in Doubt.

A full report of this telephone conversation and the text of the letter to Mrs. Berg were turned over to the police.

Nevertheless it was not evident whether the family group would co-operate with the police in effecting Berg's return or would adopt a policy of dealing directly with the abductors, meeting their terms without making an effort to

POLICEMAN SHOT IN CLASH WITH FLORIDA COMMUNISTS

Another Hit With Brick; 15 Arrests in Breaking Up Meeting at Tampa.

By the Associated Press.

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 7.—A policeman was shot, another was hit with a brick and 15 persons were arrested tonight as officers clashed with a crowd at a communist meeting here.

Patrolman J. N. Byrd was shot in the back and Sergeant D. B. Wilson was hit on the head as the officers attempted to clear the sidewalk in front of the Labor Temple.

Several hundred persons had gathered in and about the temple for a demonstration, celebrating the fourteenth anniversary of the founding of the Soviet union. Permits for a parade had been refused by city officials and policemen sent to the temple to prevent it.

Attempting to clear the sidewalk, 23 policemen rushed the crowd. Five shots were fired from the darkened second story of the temple, and policeman Byrd fell wounded.

A riot call brought 29 policemen and as many deputies to the scene. The officers walked into the meeting and arrested Carlos Lazana who was making a speech in Spanish. They found a revolver on him and said he admitted firing the shots.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 7.—Mexico now has enough churches for the use of its people, the Secretary of Interior said in a circular sent to state governments today, requesting them to grant no more permits for the building of new churches.

PHYSICIAN KILLS HIMSELF IN OFFICE

Insomnia and Financial Reverses Cause Dr. George Koenig's Suicide.

The body of Dr. George Koenig, 58 years old, with a bullet wound in the right temple and a revolver nearby, was found yesterday in his office at 740 South Fourth street.

A note said, "Insomnia and financial reverses are the sole cause of this act." The note directed that his medical books be given to a nephew and stated that his home at 2626 Louisiana avenue belonged to his brothers and sisters. He asked that his brother, C. William Koenig, be notified.

The revolver belonged to Maurice Gengler, a druggist at 736 South Fourth street, who told police he was unaware that Dr. Koenig, a familiar visitor in his store, had taken it.

The body was found by a cleaning woman.

NEW HAMPSHIRE PENITENTIARY TEAM LOSES FOOTBALL GAME

By the Associated Press.

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 6.—The team of New Hampshire State prison went down to defeat today in their first football game of this or any other season. The score was Penacook Panthers 7, New Hampshire State Prison 6.

A grass covered rectangular yard, 30 yards short of the regulation football field was the gridiron. The hydrant, a natural hazard, was surrounded, pyramid fashion, by bales of shavings from the workshop. The railroad track ran along the east side line and the cell blocks banked the other. One goal post, made in the workshop, stood at the north end of the field. Only one goal post was set up because a flagpole was in the way at the other end.

The hydrant spoiled line bucks and off-tackle smashes, the railroad tracks ruined the prospects of end runs, and the cold weather and sharp winds played havoc with the overhead game.

GENERAL REFORM IN HOUSE TIED UP WITH SPEAKERSHIP

Issues Are Committee Assignments, Rules Revision and Changes in the Party Machinery.

NO BUSINESS TILL ALL IS IRONED OUT

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
203-205 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—There is a likelihood that old history will be repeated and new history made when the House of Representatives convenes at noon one month from today and attempts to organize.

The question of whether a Republican or a Democrat will be elected Speaker is not the only one involved. Demands for committee assignments, rules revision and reforms in the party machinery will present a variety of problems which in turn will be tremendously complicated by personal ambition, sectional prejudice and partisan emotion.

If the Democrats elect a Speaker —as now seems probable—he will be John N. Garner of Texas. On the other hand, there are several candidates for the Republican nomination, including Bertrand Snell of New York and John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, surviving members of the old "iron triumvirate," lead by the late Speaker Nicholas Longworth. The fight between Tilson and Snell has engendered so much ill feeling that the Republican nomination may go to Carl Mapes of Michigan as a compromise candidate.

Business Waits on Speakership.

The House cannot proceed with any other business until it has elected a Speaker and adopted rules of procedure. Nevertheless, it would be neither surprising nor unprecedented if it failed to do either on the first day of the session. The difference in Republican and Democratic strength will be no more than two or three votes, and a formidable group, including members of both parties, have announced that they will not vote for either party candidate for the speakership until a drastic revision of the rules is agreed upon.

Failure to organize promptly would raise grave problems. President Hoover's proposed moratorium on war debts must be ratified by Dec. 15 to become effective before the payments fall due. That is only eight days after Congress convenes. Because of that situation, he has been urged to call Congress into session at least 10 days before the regular meeting date, in order to give both houses time to organize and act, but apparently he has rejected the idea.

It is customary for the President to withhold his message until formally notified that Congress is in session and ready to proceed with the transaction of business. In the event of a deadlock over the speakership and the rules, however, President Hoover would have precedent for sending his message without waiting for notification. True, it would lie on the clerk's desk without being read, but the country would read it, and might hold the House resonpsible for the delay in acting on his recommendations.

Importance Justifies Fight.

The depth of the feeling over the election of a speaker is fully justified by the importance of the office. Such great speakers as Henry Clay, Tom Reed, Joe Cannon and Champ Clark repeatedly declared the speakership to be second only to the presidency in rank and power, and recently Washington and the country have been treated to the amusing spectacle of a social war over the respective rank of the speaker and the Vice President.

Some historic parliamentary battles have been waged over the speakership, the first occurring in 1809. On the first ballot Joseph B. Varnum of Massachusetts received a plurality, but failed to get a majority since there were five candidates. His nearest competitor, Nathaniel Macon of North Carolina, chivalrously declared that a plurality was sufficient to elect, but John Randolph of Virginia insisted that a majority was required. He won the House to his view, and balloting continued until Varnum received a majority. This precedent has prevailed except in peculiar instances where the House expressly resolved that a plurality was sufficient.

The House is called to order on the first day of the session by the clerk. When the clerk called the House to order Dec. 2, 1839, he proceeded to call the roll by states until he reached the New Jersey delegation, whose credentials did not appear to be in proper order. The clerk asked whether he should call their names, and thus precipitated an acrimonious debate. After days of disorder, the House elected Representative John Quincy Adams—the only ex-President who ever served in the House—to act as temporary chairman until a Speaker could be chosen. Fourteen days of bitter wrangling finally culminated in the election of Robert M. T. Hunter of Virginia as Speaker.

Incidentally, when Clerk Tyler Page reaches the Illinois delegation next Dec. 2, he must decide whether to call the name of Peter Granata, Republican, or Stanley Kunz, Democrat, of Chicago. Granata was declared elected on the face of the returns, but Kunz charging that he had been defrauded of votes by Capone gangsters, obtained a recount which apparently showed him to be elected. Both men claim they are entitled to the seat, and with present close division, one vote may be important.

One of Most Prolonged Deadlocks.

One of the most prolonged and acrimonious deadlocks over the speakership began when the House met on Dec. 4, 1849. Again a clerk got into hot water by attempting to pass upon the credentials of some of the members, but that was merely the spark which started the fire. Four ballots were taken the first day, with no candidate receiving a majority. Six ballots were taken the next day with the same lack of result, whereupon Andrew Johnson of Tennessee, who later became President, offered the following resolution:

"Resolved, That if on the next vote of the House for Speaker, no individual shall receive a majority of all the votes cast, the individual receiving a plurality shall be declared Speaker."

Prolonged debate ensued, but the House stood pat on John Randolph's precedent, and Johnson's motion was tabled.

Another member moved that the candidate receiving the smallest number of votes on each ballot be eliminated from succeeding ballots until only two candidates remained. This was defeated. There was a motion to elect a temporary chairman, in the manner of 10 years earlier, but it was defeated. Some genius proposed that the names of all the candidates be put in a hat; but the House declined to choose a Speaker by lot.

After 59 futile ballots, the House adopted a resolution providing that three more ballots be taken, after which, if no candidate had received a majority, a fourth ballot would be taken, and the individual receiving the largest number of votes declared elected. At this stage there were 10 candidates. No majority was forthcoming. On the sixty-third ballot, Cobb of Georgia received 102 votes out of a total of 222, and was declared elected.

Record Contest of 1855.

But the record of all time, to date, was set by the House which met in December, 1855. The slavery question was the burning issue before the country and was the real issue behind the speakership fight.

Five candidates were in the running. After 129 ballots none had received a majority. The contest had been in progress for weeks. Finally the weary members adopted a resolution providing that the candidate receiving the highest number of votes be declared Speaker, providing his election could subsequently be confirmed by a majority vote. Nathaniel P. Banks of Massachusetts received 104 votes out of a total of 214 present, and his election was confirmed on the 133rd ballot.

The party which is willing to go farthest in permitting members of the House to vote on Pending legislation, is likely to elect the next Speaker. This may sound strange, considering that the House is supposed to be directly representative or the voters. Nevertheless, under the rules which have prevailed in recent years, members were often denied an opportunity to vote on some of the most important measures proposed in Congress.

This was especially true under the sway of the "iron triumvirate." When the Senate, by an overwhelming majority, adopted the Norris resolution to abolish "lame duck" sessions of Congress, and the measure went to the House, Speaker Longworth simply put it in his pocket.

Similarly, the House was prevented from voting on the Senate bill providing for Government operation of Muscle Shoals until the leaders had made sure of enough votes to defeat it on final passage. When the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, authorizing hundreds of rate increases, came up for action in the last House, the members were not permitted to vote on individual schedules, but were confronted with the simple alternative of passing the entire bill as it stood, or rejecting it. Th iron clad rules gave tremendous power to the leaders of the party in power.

Progressives' Ultimatum.

In the closing days of the last session, Representative La Guardia of New York, one of the leaders of the Progressive Republicans, served notice that the party which organized the next House would have to agree to sweeping changes in these rules. Members of the Progressive Republican delegation from Wisconsin recently met in Madison, and pledged themselves to the same end.

Snell, in his anxiety to win votes in the speakership contest, has publicly promised a liberalization of the rules in case he is elected, but the Progressives have not forgotten that Snell was chairman of the rules committee during the reign of the "iron triumvirate."

Most of the actual work of the House is performed by the standing committees. As contrasted with the Senate—where every important issue is fought out and decided on the floor—the tendency of the House is simply to ratify the decisions of the various committees.

Some committees are much more important than others, and in all committee proceedings the chairmen exercise great influence. Chairmanships and committee assignments usually go by seniority. Because Southern Democrats as a rule serve longer than Northern or Western Democrats, the seniority rule has given a preponderance of desirable committee assignments to Southerners, and in case the Democrats organize the House, would give them nearly all the important chairmanships.

Cochran on Record for Change.

Representative John J. Cochran (Dem.), St. Louis, called attention to this fact during the last Congress, and declared that there must be a change. Under present Democratic procedure in the House, the Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee make all other committee assignments.

Cochran wants a Democratic Committee on Committees. Moreover, he wants a conference of Democratic members held every two weeks to determine the party policy toward pending or prospective legislation.

Other Northern and Western Democratic members share his attitude, and Garner must satisfy them before he can be certain of their votes in the speakership contest.

Regardless, therefore, of which party organizes the next House, it is certain to be an entirely different kind of legislative body from that which has become known in recent years as a mere "party rubber stamp." It may even regain some of the prestige and popular interest which have been almost monopolized by the Senate.

Back on Job in Downing Street

Ransom Terms From Kidnapers Awaited determine their identity or effect their capture.

Chief Gerk said that so far Mrs. Berg and her friends appeared to be co-operating with his department, and that he hoped they would continue to do so.

Meanwhile the police are making an intensive effort to find the missing man and capture his abductors. Detective crews searching every known gang hangout, as well as beat policemen, are kept advised constantly of developments in the investigation. St. Louis County and East Side agencies have joined in the search.

Herman Tipton Sought.

St. Louis detectives are looking particularly for Herman Tipton, leader of the Cuckoo gang, and Carl Fiorito, one of his followers, both of whom were placed under bond last week on charges of carrying concealed weapons after pistols were found in their automobiles. Neither has been seen in his usual haunts since the kidnaping. The police opinion that the kidnaping was committed by St. Louis gangsters is strengthened by the fact, they declare, that the letter received by Mrs. Berg from her husband was postmarked East St. Louis. This detectives believe to be an obvious effort to give the impression that East Side gangsters are holding Berg prisoner. In the kidnaping of Dr. I. D. Kelley last April the abductors, believed to be East Side gangsters, deposited their ransom demands in rural mail boxes in St. Louis County.

Berg's last instructions to his chauffeur, before they were separated by the kidnapers, was to report to Berg's friend, Benjamin Harris of 9 Kingsbury place, president of the B. Harris Wool Co.

"Ask him to see what he can do for me," were the instructions of the fur dealer.

Says He Was "Discharged."

Yesterday morning, after a conference with Mrs. Berg and her advisers, however, Harris went to his office and there told reporters he had been "discharged." He would not enlarge on the statement, which was interpreted as meaning he was not going to take an active part in negotiations with abductors. Mrs. Berg is relying chiefly on the advice of an attorney, who is a friend of the family.

The chauffeur, who accompanied Chief of Detectives Kaiser and his men Friday night over the route traversed by the Berg limousine at the direction of the kidnapers, was requestioned at Police Headquarters yesterday afternoon in an effort to develop additional details that might be of assistance.

After three hours, during which the chauffeur went over his story in minute detail, he was excused and taken to his home at 4215W Finney avenue in a police automobile. He has been in the employ of the Berg family for six years and is highly regarded by members and friends of the family, the police were told.

Mrs. Berg's Anxious Wait.

Mrs. Berg's narrative of her apprehensive wait for her husband's arrival for dinner at their apartment Friday night was told by her to friends who gathered there to offer assistance.

"I waited until 6 o'clock for Mr. Berg," she said. "He's always very prompt and very considerate. He always calls me if he is going to be late. Well, he didn't call and he didn't come and I got desperately worried.

I said to Lizzie, the maid:—'Something has certainly happened to him.' About 8 o'clock Albert, the chauffeur, came along. I knew something was wrong then, because Mr. Berg always comes up before the chauffeur.

" 'Where's Mr. Berg?' I asked. He didn't answer me. Then he said, 'I hate to tell you, but I have to tell you.' That frightened me. 'Did he get hurt?' I asked. He said, 'No ma'am, he's been kidnaped.' Then he told me what had happened. How he made the stop for the traffic light and a man had got into the car—I guess it was two men—and ordered him not to look at them.

"Then they took him away. Why, they drove him right past here. As I remember, Albert told me that one of the men who got in opened one of the windows in the car and Mr. Berg asked him to close it, explaining he hadn't been well, and the man did.

She Telephoned Harris.

"Albert said that as the men put him out of the car, up there in the north part of the county some place, Mr. Berg called to him: 'Tell Mrs. Berg to call Ben Harris.'

"I telephoned Mr. Harris what had happened. He told me he would call me back in half an hour. It was half an hour or more after that that I had the call from the man who said he was one of the kidnapers."

A half hour before the kidnaping Pike had called for his employer at the plant of the Hill Bros. Fur Co., 300 North Main street, of which Berg is president. They took the usual route home, westward on Olive street and Lindell boulevard.

"We had just passed the automatic traffic signal at Euclid avenue (4900 west) and I was going slow in a lot of traffic," the chauffeur said, "when all of a sudden two men jumped on the right running board.

"One of them got in beside me. He had a pistol in his hand. The other got in the back seat with Mr. Berg. The man next to me said, 'look straight ahead and drive forward. We will tell you where to go.' "

Got Only Glimpse of Men.

Pike said he caught only a glimpse of the kidnapers as they boarded the machine and declared he could tell nothing about their appearance except that they were white men. He was under the impression they made no effort to conceal their faces from Berg. As far as he could tell, he said, their only precaution against discovery of their identity was the order to him to keep his eyes to the front.

At the direction of the kidnaper beside him, Pike continued, he drove west to Kingshighway in a heavy stream of traffic, turned north on Kingshighway, passing Berg's apartment, thence east on Washington, and north on Whittier street to Ashland avenue. Here, he said, he was told to turn east and proceeded over unfamiliar streets to Broadway. He was told to turn north in Broadway, then west on Hall's Ferry road which runs northwest from Broadway at Baden.

"Somewhere along in there on Hall's Ferry," he said, "I heard the man in the front seat turn around and say to the man in the back, 'Put the dark glasses on him.' I figured he meant put them on Mr. Berg."

Another Car Follows.

Throughout the trip he noted in the driving mirror that they were followed by another car which he thought a Ford, of what model he was unable to say. Finally, at a point which later proved to be a mile northwest of the settlement of Redlight on Hall's Ferry road, he was ordered to stop. Then he was told Mr. Berg wanted to talk to him.

"Mr. Berg leaned forward," he continued. "He said, 'Go to Mr. Harris and explain what has happened. Ask him to see what he can do for me.' That was the last I heard from Mr. Berg."

Then he was told to get out, walk down the road and stay away from the car for 15 minutes. He said he walked for 30 minutes toward St. Louis, then turned back again, so that altogether he was away from the machine for an hour.

When he returned he found that Berg's car had been backed into a roadside ditch, possibly in an effort to turn it around. Berg and the kidnapers were gone. Pike assumed they had been picked up by a man following them in the car he had thought to be a Ford.

As Pike drove the Berg limousine out of the ditch he was stopped by Deputy Constable John Franke, who happened along. The chauffeur told the deputy he had been held up, but made no mention of the kidnaping of his employer, intending first to report it to Mrs. Berg and Harris.

The deputy took him to the office at Jennings of Constable Rudolph Baumer, who allowed him to leave after he had repeated his story of a holdup. The incident was then reported by the constable to the St. Louis police as a holdup.

Kidnaping Route Retraced.

Police were notified by telephone of the kidnaping after Pike's return to the Berg apartment in the Park Plaza. Detective Lieut. Tom Wren and his men were immediately dispatched to the hotel by police radio and a special summons to his home brought Chief of Detectives Kaiser to the apartment a short time later. A description of Berg was broadcast at once, together with details of the kidnaping. Pike was taken over the route of the car to the county, as well as he could retrace it.

Fingerprint experts went carefully over Berg's car, developing prints which were then photographed. A varied collection was thus obtained and the work of sorting them out was begun. Many of them, it was pointed out, and possibly all, may have been left by Berg, his chauffeur, and passengers in the machine other than the kidnapers.

On Route to Bridge.

The point where Berg's car was abandoned is on a direct route to the Lewis and Clark bridges. In that direction the kidnapers within a short time could have made their way to a hideout either in St. Charles County or on the East Side. It would also have been possible to double back to one of the other bridges, but that plan would have made it necessary to travel through traffic with the consequent increase in the risk of discovery.

Whatever route the kidnapers followed, the mailing of the special delivery letter from Berg in East St. Louis within four hours of the abduction indicates the strong probability that Berg's captors took him at once to the East Side. The 10 o'clock postmark on the letter indicates only that it passed through the East St. Louis Postoffice at that time. It may have been dropped in a mail box an hour or more earlier.

Robert Isaacson, a friend of Berg, told reporters he called at the fur company office before 5 o'clock Friday afternoon, intending to ride part way to his home on Skinker road in Berg's car. Berg told him he was not leaving for half an hour or so, however, and Isaacson left the office to go home alone. As he went out, he said, another visitor, whom he described as having "a hard face," was talking to Berg. Isaacson described him as stockily built and well dressed.

Veteran U. S. Inspector Aids.

A. D. Bunsen, retired veteran Postoffice Inspector and now an agent for an anti-kidnaping organization of St. Louis business men, conferred with police and took part in their investigation. During a long career in Federal service he figured in many famous cases and was one of the group of Government men who finally succeeded in lodging the notorious Egan gang in prison for mail robberies.

To his restricted circle of friends, Berg is regarded as quiet, retiring, of simple tastes and conservative business practices. He only went infrequently to the Westwood Country Club, of which he is a member, but he often was seen at the old Columbian Club. More recently he had gathered with other members of the Criterion Club at Hotel Chase once or twice a week for an evening at cards.

He was never known, his friends say, to play cards with professional gamblers, nor to visit establishments like the Biltmore or Mounds clubs, combination gambling houses and night clubs. He spends most of his evenings with Mrs. Berg, either at home, at the theater or the homes of friends.

He came to St. Louis from Camden, Ark., and still speaks with a Southern accent. During his early business career he was in charge of the sample room of the Max Judge Cloak Co., on Eighth street near Locust. Later he became a salesman for the company and after that a salesman for Anheuser-Busch, Inc.

His first venture on his own capital was a downtown jewelry store. Then he went into the wholesale liquor business and when prohibition became effective he was already known by his friends to be a wealthy man. With prohibition he left the liquor trade and went into the fur business.

In business he shunned the spectacular and in his investments in the market he kept to high-grade securities of low yield. Almost daily he lunched at Benish's grill with the same group of friends: F. S. Bach, executive director of the Jewish Federation; Sol Roos, president of the Jewish Sanatorium, of which Berg is a director; E. J. Marx Sr., formerly with the B. Harris Wool Co.; Marcus Harris of the same firm, and Benjamin Harris, whom Berg directed his chauffeur to notify before his abductors took him from his car.

Mr. and Mrs. Berg have a daughter, Mrs. Lucille Baron, wife of William Baron of Newark, N. J. Word of the kidnaping was telephoned to her yesterday and she is keeping in touch with developments.

NATIONAL CASH REGISTER CO. TO PURCHASE ILION, N. Y., RIVAL

Court Grants Permit; Competitors Say Deal Will Give It 93 Per Cent of Trade in U. S.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 7.—Permission to complete a tentative contract to purchase the assets of the Remington Cash Register Co. of Ilion, N. Y., for $2,500,000, was granted the National Cash Register Co. of Dayton, O., in Federal Court here today. Pointing out that directors of the Remington Cash Register Co. had agreed to end 10 years of financial losses by suspending business by sale or liquidation, Judge Hough ruled that competition in the cash register field would not be lessened by the acquisition of Remington's assets by the National Cash Register Co.

Proposals for purchase of Remington assets were submitted to the Court under an antitrust decree entered in 1916 against the National Cash Register Co. Competitors of the National Cash Register Co had contended control of Remington assets would give National 93 per cent of the cash register business of the country.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 7.—D solution of the $300,000,000 Government-producer controlled ca sach nittrate combine, unles changes are made to take the industry out of the hands of foreigners, is recommended in the findings of a Government commission, announced today.

The finding of the commission, which has been investigating th dictatorship of former Preside Carlos Ibanez, is published in a 3 page report, listing five poin There are:

The Republic never should hav permitted foreign control of national industries nor associate with foreigners as a partner; changes in the cosach formation law by Ibanez were unconstitutional; evaluation of the companies financing the project within the partnership was a "scandal;" the so-called Guggenheim process for extraction of nitrates cost $30,000,000 in losses, and the sales system lost European markets.

Even Government officials were surprised at the harshness of terms applied to foreign control of the nitrate industry, to former President Ibanez and to Castr Ruiz and Pablo Ramirez, form Minsters of Finance.

The Government withheld comment on the recommendations while acting President Manuel Trucco and President-elect Montero studied them.

The Compania Salitre de Chile, the full name of the cosach combine, includes more than 75 per cent of the producing companies of Chile, with the Chilean Government as a half partner.

It was formed at a time wh the market for sodium nitrate w demoralized, in an effort to unify the natural industry so that it could offer a strong front in the world markets against synthetic nitrate from Europe. Production was centralized in two large plants on the Pampa back of Tocopilla, causing a loss to old nitrate points such as Iquique.

COMMUNITY FUND CAMPAIGN OPENS IN CITY TOMORROW

$3,000,000 to Be Sought in Joint Drive With Citizens' Committee on Relief.

This Year's Proposed Total Is $458,000 More Than Organizations Obtained in 1930.

The tenth annual campaign of the Community Fund, which has joined this year with the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment in an appeal for $3,000,000, will begin tomorrow.

More than 5000 volunteer solicitors, headed by Gale F. Johnston, campaign chairman, will take the field after a dinner tomorrow at Hotel Statler for 1500 campaign workers who will solicit contributions in the city and St. Louis County. The first report meeting will be held Wednesday noon, and the drive is scheduled to end Nov. 19.

The goal represents an increase of $458,000 over what the two organizations obtained during the past year by public subscription. Then the Community Fund collected $2,200,000 for its 51 member agencies, and Citizens' Committee, $342,000, to which was added an appropriation from city funds of $450,000.

Addressing workers in the county division last night at Hotel Chase, Johnston described the campaign as an appeal "not only to the heart but to reason."

"This $3,000,000 is a bulwark against disease, distress and crime," he said. "It is far cheaper to protect and to prevent than to pay the high cost of collapsed community life." Demands for relief, Johnston said, are three times as great as last year, but the situation can be met without further appeals for funds, if the goal be reached.

Committee's Resources Spent.

Resources of the Citizens' Committee will be exhausted before the campaign is over and its leaders agreed some time ago to join with the Community Fund in its appeal. It was determined that the goal should be $3,000,000, and that the amount obtained should be divided on the basis of 75 per cent to the Community Fund and 25 per cent to the Citizens' Committee. That will mean $2,250,000 for the Community Fund, if the goal is reached, and $750,000 for the Citizens' Committee.

The Citizens' Committee, of which Tom K. Smith is chairman, is an emergency organization set up last winter by Mayor Miller. It maintains three agencies directly, the Clothing Bureau at 2218 Locust street, the Employment Bureau and Joint Application Bureau at 2025 Washington avenue.

Those who seek help at the Joint Application Bureau are given immediate relief, when it is needed, and then referred to one of the established agencies affiliated with the committee. Until recently there were seven of these. The St. Vincent de Paul Society has withdrawn, leaving the Provident Association, Salvation Army, Bureau for Homeless Men, Jewish Federation, St. Louis County Welfare Association and the American Red Cross. All except the Jewish Federation are members of the Community Fund.

Committee Meets Expenses.

Expenditures of these agencies, above their own resources, are met by the Citizens' Committee. Services of the employment bureau are available to them, and they may issue orders on the clothing bureau.

The application bureau, up to the first of this month, received and arranged assistance for about 30,000 persons. The employment bureau, in 10 months, found temporary or permanent jobs for 4800 and has on file the names of 28,000 unemployed persons. The clothing bureau has provided 18,500 persons with more than 100,000 garments.

The policy of the Citizens' Committee, in working through established agencies, has won commendation from the Russell Sage Foundation, which after a survey, pronounced the St. Louis method a model for American cities. Its activities are administered by volunteers and overhead expense is kept as low as possible.

4,000,000 Free Meals.

The Community Fund, of which Sidney Maestre is president, has compiled statistics to show that its agencies, during the past 12 months, provided more than 4,000,000 free meals, 340,000 free medical treatments and visits by trained nurses, 381,000 free meals to charity patients in hospitals and assisted more than 82,000 children of needy families.

Campaign and administration expense of the fund last year was 8 per cent, leaving 92 cents of each dollar for distribution among the member agencies. The distribution this year was as follows: Character building and citizenship organizations, 27.6 cents; relief and family service, 26 cents; care of the sick and handicaped, 29.6 cents; care of babies and children, 6.5 cents; Community Council, 1.7 cents and Social Service Exchange, .6 cent.

During the last 12 months Community Fund agencies were called on to assist 30,000 families. Early in the year the Census Bureau found 94,233 persons without jobs in St. Louis. A survey made recently for the Citizens' Committee indicated there are now 125,000.

Under normal conditions, it is estimated, 385,000 are employed here so that about one in every three wage earners is now without work. About 85,000 of these, it is thought, have not been employed for a year.

Chicago's Richest Girl a Bride

MR. and MRS. BARTLE BULL

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Miss Rosemary Baur, 20 years old, one of Chicago's wealthiest heiresses, and Bartle Bull, 29, son of W. Perkins Bull, millionaire Canadian attorney, were married today. Mrs. Bull is the daughter of Mrs. Jacob Baur, former Republican National Committeewoman from Illinois. The bride attended Bryn Mawr, was presented to the court of St. James's in June, 1929, and made her Chicago debut last season.

When she was 18 years old Miss Baur inherited about $2,500,000 from her late father, a chemical manufacturer.

The wedding ceremony was performed in St. Chrysostom's Episcopal Church. After a trip around the world Mr. and Mrs. Bull will live in London, England.

HOOVER SUSTAINED IN NAVY LEAGUE INQUIRY BY JURY

en members comprising the league's Executive Committee met here Thursday, and with one dissenting vote decided to uphold Gardiner without reservation. Among those so voting were such prominent Republicans as former Senator James Wadsworth, of New York, and Henry Cabot Lodge.

The report presents an embarrassing problem to the peace organizations which rallied strongly to the President's support in the controversy. Virtually the entire text is devoted to proving that the President has kept the Navy at the highest strength possible under existing treaties, and that he intends to proceed with practically all the new construction authorized by Congress. The committee does not admit for a moment that Mr. Hoover desires a smaller navy; on the contrary, it argues forcibly that he wants a stronger navy—at slightly less cost.

Summary of Committee's Finding in Navy League Inquiry.

By the Associated Press.

Fully supporting the Chief Executive, the committee found that the pamphlet issued by Gardiner as President of the Navy League, charging Hoover with "abysmal ignorance" of naval affairs contained "many inaccuracies, false assertions and erroneous conclusions."

The group's report, a 10,000-word document, was accompanied by a lengthy letter of transmittal.

Six Statements Stressed.

Six of Gardiner's statements were especially stressed as incorrect. These were:

(1) That the President and Prime Minister MacDonald of England had "admittedly" reached agreements never divulged in their entirety:

(2) That the administration refused to allow even an executive session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to see the full record of negotiations preparatory to the London naval conference;

(3) That Mr. Hoover in 1929 delayed the building of the first five of 15 cruisers just ordered by Congress as a gesture preparatory to the naval conference not commensurately followed by other powers;

(4) What Gardiner termed an obvious inference from a speech by Hugh R. Wilson, Minister to Switzerland, that Mr. Hoover under the one-year naval holiday just begun intends to forego treaty rights to the construction of 87,600 tons of naval vessels;

(5) What the committee saw as an implication in Gardiner's statement that the Washington treaty established a ratio of 10 to 6 in all classes of naval vessels between America and Japan;

(6) And what was regarded as an implication by Gardiner that the ratios established by the London treaty are effective prior to Dec. 1, 1936.

SUNDAY PAPER A NECESSITY, KANSAS SUPREME COURT SAYS

Tribunal Holds Distribution Does Not Violate Law Against Sabbath Labor.

By the Associated Press

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 7—Sunday newspapers are a necessity and their sale is no violation of the 63-year-old Kansas blue laws, the State Supreme Court held today. The court upheld dismissal of charges against a distributer of the Kansas City Star at Herington, who was accused of violating the statutes regulating unessential labor on the Sabbath. The opinion, delivered by Justice William A. Smith, said:

"From the small boy whose first thought on arising Sunday morning is the comic section to the son grown older who turns eagerly to the sport page, the young daughter who peruses the society columns and father and mother, who turn their attention to the more serious page, the Sunday paper is looked upon and has grown to be a necessity, and this court so holds."

Clothing Store Held Up.

The clothing store of A. Leventhal, 2923 North Newstead avenue, was robbed of $50 last night by an armed Negro who forced two clerks and two customers into the rear of the store. The robber took the money from the cash register and ran out.

CITY READY TO PAY NATURAL BRIDGE DAMAGE AWARDS

$919,254 Appropriated by Aldermen for Property Owners for Widening Project.

The city is preparing to pay into court the amount of damages fixed by the condemnation commissioners, less the benefits assessed, in the Natural Bridge avenue widening project. The net amount is $919,254, which has been appropriated by the Board of Aldermen, and it is expected that a check in favor of Circuit Clerk John Schmoll, to be distributed as damage awards, will be ready the latter part of this week.

The matter is being handled by J. B. Steiner, Associate City Counselor, who last week obtained an order of final judgment in the case. The judgment was given by Circuit Judge Landwehr, who has set Nov. 16, 17 and 18 as the time for hearing claims of property owners who are entitled to damage awards.

Claims Total 254.

There are approximately 254 such claims. Last July a realty company which objected to the manner in which benefits had been assessed as an offset against damages in one of its subdivisions applied to the Supreme Court for a writ of prohibition to prevent Judge Landwehr from entering final judgment. However, the application was denied.

The widening of Natural Bridge from 60 to 100 feet is one of the oldest of the pending major street projects, the first steps having been taken 11 years ago. It is to extend from the intersection of Natural Bridge, North Florissant avenue and Palm street to the city limits. Near Glasgow avenue a short new section of street is to be opened.

The condemnation commission, consisting of George A. A. Brueggeman, Edward A. Bokern and Clifford B. Allen, filed its report Feb. 9, 1929, since which time the matter has been tied up by exceptions and other litigation.

Damages $1,136,340 Gross.

The gross damages to be paid to property owners are $1,136,340, exceeding the total assessed against property owners in the benefit district by $136,031, which is the city's share. The net damages are figured by subtracting benefit judgments from some of the damage awards. Cost of paving the street is not included in the figures given, and this cost must be met later by abutting property owners and the city.

There are 21,916 judgments assessed against property owners in the benefit district and these will be discounted at 5 per cent under the city's arrangement with Stifel, Nicolaus & Co. The benefit district extends as far east as Ninth street and follows the improvement to the city limits. In general, it runs about five blocks north of Natural Bridge and about four blocks south.

PROPOSES TO TAX SILK IF TOBACCO LEVY IS PASSED

Illinois Legislator Suggests Dry Repeal May Figure in Extra Session.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. Nov. 7.—The possibility that the liquor question might be brought before the special session of the State Legislature in the guise of proposed revenue legislation was mentioned today by State Senator James O. Monroe, Democrat, of Collinsville.

At the same time, he proposed that users of silk, including women who wear the material, be taxed to the same extent as users of tobacco if a tax is voted on tobacco.

Senator Monroe declared that anti-prohibitionists were considering a proposal to repeal the State prohibition laws and levy a tax of $5 a barrel on beer, contingent upon the repeal of national prohibition laws. At the same time, he said, they would ask Congress to repeal the Federal prohibition law and leave it to each state to fix the alcoholic content of its beer.

SCHOOL HISTORY OF ST. LOUIS

The second and final volume of a history of St. Louis, intended for use for instruction in the public schools, has been published by the Board of Education. It covers the development of the city since 1820, the year when Missouri was admitted into the Union. The earlier and smaller volume, published last December, dealth with the history from 1764, when St. Louis was founded, to 1820.

Miss Dena Lange, teacher of English and economics at Cleveland High School, is the author. The treatment is by subjects, not chonologically, although the order of time is followed in each subdivision. Superintendent of Instruction Gerling has decided that greater emphasis should be plaed on acquainting St. Louis children with the story of their own city. One section of the new volume is devoted to the floods, great fires, tornadoes, cholera epidemic and "great freeze" of 1856. Another section is devoted to St. Louis and the Civil War. The general style of presentation adopted by the author is fitted to the grasp of young readers.

Builds Big Trade in Two Weeks, Sells Share, Goes

H. L. Clark Departs After Disposing of Half Interest in Restaurant to J. F. Culinan Who Says He's Satisfied.

Creditors and acquaintances of H. L. Clark are puzzled by his departure following the sale a week ago of a partnership interest in the Manhattan Cafe, 708 Pine street, two weeks after he opened it and boomed business to a high peak with free cigars and cigarettes and extra portions of food without charge.

To his partner, J. F. Culinan, 5372 Natural Bridge avenue, who declines to tell how much he paid Clark for one-half interest in the business, the problem is narrowed to satisfying creditors whose accounts total about $1500 for purchases made by Clark in the two weeks he conducted the business.

Through his partnership agreement, Culinan has assumed a five-year lease on the Pine street premises at $350 a month rental. He also has assumed chattel mortgages for about $2500 on the restaurant fixtures. With Clark's departure Culinan appears to be left in sole possession of a thriving restaurant business, for which he paid an amount estimated at $5000 by men who dealt with Clark.

Says Clark Got About $2500.

Culinan insists, however, that he paid considerably less, and that the entire amount Clark took out of the business when he left did not exceed $2500, including one week's receipts and the partnership payment.

A newspaper advertisement, which attracted Culinan to the Manhattan Cafe, sought "as cashier in an established cash business," a partner not necessarily experienced," if the right man. Price for ½ interest, $4200."

Inquiry since his unexplained departure shows that Clark registered with his wife at a downtown hotel, Oct. 14, giving his home as New York City. A few days earlier he had arranged a lease with the Dubinsky Realty Co. for the Pine street restaurant.

As he sought to purchase equipment from dealers, he displayed money he carried in his pockets. In seeking credit he told inquirers he had been a chef in several large hotels. He added that he owned an apartment building in New York worth $80,000, from which he received an income of $600 a month.

With the payment of about $150 on the mortgaged equipment at the restaurant, one month's rent, $350, in advance, credit from the food supply men and more credit from a linen service company, Clark opened for business Oct. 17.

Food "on the House."

With 25 employes, including 15 waitresses, he went after customers with a bang, advertising the new Manhattan Cafe in newspapers, handbills and attracting attention to its entrance with a "mechanical man," who in automaton fashion paraded on the sidewalk before the eating place.

It was after the prospect was at his table that the final inducements were offered to keep him eating "The Manhattan Way," as the advertising pamphlets set forth. Diners were urged to accept second portions, especially of the more expensive dishes. Clark visited each table, inviting diners to "have another portion of chicken on the house." Usually they accepted.

Paying the check at the cashier's desk, where Mrs. Clark presided, was made an almost painless process. Courteously insistent, Mrs. Clark pressed upon the customer a good cigar or a tray of cigarettes. To those who did not smoke she offered candy. Nothing was too good for the customers and business boomed.

500 Customers a Day.

At the end of the first week, about the time Culinan answered Clark's advertisement for a partner, Culinan estimated the restaurant had from 500 to 600 customers a day. Meals were sold for 40, 50 and 60 cents. The latter group included tenderloin or porterhouse steak, fried spring chicken and roast turkey and biscuits and honey were served with all orders.

At the end of Clark's two weeks in business, unpaid food bills amounted to $750. About $250 is due employes, who were told they would be paid at two-week intervals, Culinan estimates.

Culinan related that he inspected the business, reaching an agreement with Clark on price Oct. 31. Culinan was to manage the business, Clark to be the head chef. He paid Clark in cash, Culinan said, and the latter agreed to be on duty in the kitchen at 6:30 a. m. Monday, Nov. 2.

When he failed to appear, the new partner investigated and found the Clarks had checked out of their hotel Sunday, Nov. 1, and had left no forwarding address.

Asserting he is perfectly satisfied with the turn of events, Culinan says he has no complaint to make against his absent partner.

THREE GIRLS KILLED BY TRAIN ON TRESTLE

Children From 7 to 10 Years Old Run Down at Cincinnati.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 7.—Three children, caught on a trestle of the Big Four Railroad, were killed by a train here late today. The victims were: Hazel Prater, 7; her sister, Gladys, 10, and Maxine Vance, 8.

Gladys, in a desperate effort to save her two companions, led them to the guard rail of the trestle and prepared to leap with them to another track on the bridge when the train whistle sounded. The space between the two tracks is four feet and she hesitated. The moment's hesitation cost them their lives.

One of the victims was hurled off the trestle and the other two were caught beneath the train. Of the dozen toys the children carried only a doll was damaged. Parents of the Prather children are under the care of a physician.

STEAMER SINKING INTO SANDS

Tugs Abandon Attempt to Refloat American Ship, the Hybert.

By the Associated Press.

DEAL, England, Nov. 7.—Heavy seas pounded the American steamer Hybert tonight as she settled deep into the treacherous Goodwin sands, where she grounded yesterday.

After failing to refloat the ship, tugs abandoned the attempt, leaving her with her rivets bursting out. A lifeboat has been standing by since last night and efforts were made today to send provisions to the lifeboat's crew, but a motorboat carrying the food was unable to get within half a mile of it.

BRITISH OFFICER'S RIDING WINS HONORS AT U. S. HORSE SHOW

Lieut. J. S. Talbot-Ponsonby Mounted on Standard Gets Cup After Two Jump Offs.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Lieut. J. S. Talbot-Ponsonby gave a brilliant exhibition of horsemanship to win the British Army team's first blue ribbon at the forty-sixth national horse show in Madison Square Garden tonight. Mounted on Standard, an eight-year-old mare, and contesting against the pick of the jumpers of the British Empire and the United States, Lieut. Talbot-Ponsonby won the Brooks-Bright Foundation challenge cup after two jump-offs. The veteran jumper and her youthful British rider scored a clean performance the first time over the difficult course, committed only one and one-half faults and scored time out and then won by ticking only a slip—a slim piece of wood, one-eighth of an inch thick, placed across the top of the bars.

Another foreign combination—Capt. Frederick A. Ahearn and his mount, Blarney Castle, of the Irish Free State—managed to stay through the first jump-off, but was erratic in the third time over the bars, being eliminated at the third obstacle.

The two foreign officers completely dominated the military feature.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL GRANTED BOILERMAKERS' FORMER AGENT

Joseph J. Streib Objected to Judge's Instructions in Trial Based on Pay Dispute.

The motion for a new trial of Joseph J. Streib, 4016A California avenue, former business agent of Local Union No. 27, International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Ship Builders and Helpers of America, to recover back pay, was sustained yesterday by Circuit Judge Nortoni. A jury recently returned a verdict in his favor for $3469 against the local, but found in favor of the international body, which was named as codefendant.

Streib objected to an instruction relative to the International's liability, and the Court concedes the instruction was erroneously given.

Streib was expelled from the organization in 1926 on charges of failure to comply with its constitution. The plaintiff has been represented in the litigation by James T. Roberts and John T. Manning, with Lawrence McDaniel as opposing counsel.

GLOBE-DEMOCRAT TO MOVE TO NEW BUILDING TODAY

Tomorrow's Paper Will Be Issued From $2,500,000 Plant at Franklin Av. and High St.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat will move today into its new building at Franklin avenue and High street. The last work in the old structure at Sixth and Pine streets was done last night, in getting out today's paper. Tomorrow's paper will be issued from the new plant.

The Globe-Democrat's new home, which is its fourth location since the founding of its parent newspaper, the Missouri Democrat, in 1852, and its third under the present name, has been under construction since March, 1930, and represents an investment of about $2,500,000 in ground, building and equipment.

It is a six-story brick building, fronting on High street, which is to become part of the new North Twelfth boulevard. A warehouse and industrial district is developing in this locality, which is near the new terminal of the Illinois Terminal System at Twelfth and Washington avenue. The I. T. S. tunnel, under the new 100-foot street, is one of the facilities of the building, conveying carloads of paper to basement entrances at the west, or High street, side of the building. Printed papers are loaded on trucks at the east side of the building, near the street now called Twelfth, which is to be renamed.

275,300 Feet of Floor Space.

The building is of industrial type. The superstructure extends 254 feet north on High street from Franklin avenue, and the basement extends the entire 340 feet from Franklin to Wash street. The space of 86 feet north of the building, now inclosed by a wall, will give room for future expansion. Floor space is about 32,000 square feet to a floor, except on the second or mezzanine floor, and the total space, including two basements, is 275,300 square feet.

Over the main entrance, on High near Franklin, are two striking reliefs, one showing the old-time printer tugging at a hand-press, the other a mechanic amid the webs and cogs of a modern printing press. A sculptured owl, emblematic of the night worker, is the only other item of ornamentation. The entrance is a high hallway surrounded by the mezzanine floor and a long counter is at the right.

New presses line the west side of the first floor, and their running is visible from the sidewalk, where spectators also can see the paper reeled off from rolls in the basement, and the mechanical conveying of the printed papers to the mailing room on the third floor. Besides the 16 units of the press system lining the windows, there are five more units, and one large color press, with vacant space to permit more than a doubling of the present press equipment. To keep dust out of the machinery, the windows of the pressroom are not to be opened, the room being supplied with washed and cooled air by apparatus in the basement.

News Room on Fifth Floor.

The second or mezzanine floor has storerooms, file rooms and a gallery overlooking the pressroom. The third floor, besides the mailing room, has storage space for supplies other than print paper. The fourth floor has the composing room, stereotyping, photographic and photo-engraving departments.

The fifth is the editorial and news floor, with space allotted for the proofreaders, who in most offices are placed in the composing room. There are partitioned rooms for the Associated Press, the two telegraph companies, and for the editorial page staff. Offices are provided on this floor for E. Lansing Ray, president of the company; Casper S. Yost, editorial page editor, and J. J. McAuliffe, managing editor.

On the sixth floor are offices for Douglas B. Houser, vice president, and W. C. Houser, secretary-treasurer. The sixth floor contains the auditing, advertising and circulation departments, and conference rooms. Mauran, Russell & Crowell were the architects of the building.

In Old Building 39½ Years.

A building at 115 North Third street, still standing, was the home of the Missouri Democrat, founded in 1852 by William McKee, with Thomas H. Benton as editorial contributor. Twenty years later McKee and Daniel M. Houser founded the Globe, in the building still standing at the northeast corner of Fourth and Pine streets, bought the Democrat from George W. Fishback, and began publication of the Globe-Democrat. Joseph B. McCullagh was editor from 1873 to his death in 1896. The eight-story building on Sixth street, which the paper at first shared with railroad and other office tenants, was acclaimed the "last word" in newspaper housing when it was first occupied in April, 1892. The building will be placed on the market.

"The old building has served for 39½ years," President Ray said yesterday, "though in the last 10 or 12 years we have been crowded. The new plant gives us ample facilities, with the best working conditions for all our departments, and room for expansion. I hope the Globe-Democrat will not have to think of moving again for 40 or 50 years."

POSTOFFICE REJECTS ALL BIDS FOR TWINE AFTER PROTEST

Opens Field to Jute Instead of Confining It to Cotton Manufacturers Exclusively.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—After New England jute twine manufacturers had protested, the Postoffice Department today rejected all bids for its 1,300,000-pound supply of twine for the next six months and called for new bids from both cotton and jute cordage makers.

In an effort to assist the cotton industry the department had decided it would use cotton twine next year if the Bureau of Standards approved the texture and the cotton manufacturers met jute prices.

The lowest cotton bid was higher than the price now paid for jute twine and the sample was not up to specifications set by the Bureau of Standards.

Members of Congress from New England entered vigorous protests against awarding the contract to cotton interests.

RS. HOOVER IN RADIO TALK TO FARM YOUTH

ys Attitude of Children Will Help or Hamper Families in Distress.

the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. — Drawg from her girlhood experiences n a farm, Mrs. Herbert Hoover ay broadcast to farmers' sons d daughters advice on a "win-'s campaign for achievement" in ping less fortunate neighbors.

e First Lady of the Land spoke 4-H Club boys and girls, standbefore a microphone set up in e second floor library of the hite House. She spoke, however, ithout the accompanying whir of otion picture cameras. The perission previously granted news eel photographers to take "talkie" atches of Mrs. Hoover during her ddress was canceled after the pubcation of stories that she had ken voice tests in preparation.

Mrs. Hoover described an experie of want among her childhood nds on a farm. Children she ayed with often, Mrs. Hoover said, ved all winter practically on corn d milk" because of "a series of astrophes on their farm." Not ce, she said, did they complain d not even their playmates knew the meager diet.

"Can you see the difference to at family," Mrs. Hoover asked, "if the six or seven children from 7 years up had complained?

"That little memory has helped me to visualize how much the attitude of the children in the family is going to help or hamper many families in pulling through these next months. There is nothing much more discouraging than a moody, complaining child."

Mrs. Hoover praised the 4-H Club plan for an "Achievement day." She praised also the organized effort of the club's members to "grow richer corn, heavier beef, better pigs and chickens," and to "make lighter biscuits, * * * wash cleaner and better clothes and make more comfortable and more beautiful homes."

"This year," she continued, "is one giving special opportunity for the consideration of problems of helpfulness.

"For this year there are more people than usual in need of special care, more than usual in need of your care. There is something for each one of you to do in this emergency — a special achievement awaiting you."

DRIVER CLEARED IN AUTO DEATH

A Coroner's verdict of unavoidable accident was returned yesterday in the death of Charles T. Edwards, 29-year-old unemployed soda dispenser who was killed early Friday, three hours after he had been married, when the automobile he was driving east in the 7600 block of Page boulevard, crashed into the rear of another car traveling in the same direction.

The driver of the second car, John F. Weiss of Silver Lake, Kan., was exonerated.

being mined at less expense a ton than in the Missouri field.

He said the operators refused to sign the agreement with the union representatives and that last Thursday morning a crowd of 150 men waylaid employes of his and other companies and beat them with stones, bricks and pick handles, 10 of them requiring medical attention. He said there had been threats of more severe violence if the mines continued to operate with non-union workers.

"My men have signified they are satisfied and are willing to work at the prevailing scale," he said. "There was no trouble until agitators appeared in the field. The men are afraid to go back to work, however, unless they are assured of protection."

Warrants Not Served.

Stratman said the operators and employes had furnished Prosecuting Attorney W. W. Schwartz of Lexington with the names of 18 ringleaders and evidence against them. He said only four warrants had been issued, after much insistence by the operators, but they had not been served by Sheriff Karl F. Hammer up to the time the delegation had come to Jefferson City. He said the operators had been unable to obtain any assurances of protection from the two officers against further violence.

"We would gladly pay the men more money, if we could, Stratman said, "but under existing conditions we have done well to keep the mines open and our men have been satisfied under the circumstances." He said about 200 miners had been working in the mines at Higginsville and Corder.

K. P. Kramer, a mine operator, said "Our men want to work and want a chance to make a living, but have been threatened and told they won't be allowed to work. We want protection. The local authorities have told us a crime would have to be committed before anything can be done. Apparently someone will have to be killed before there is any action."

JAPAN REFUSES LEAGUE PLEA IN MANCHURIAN ROW

ment would go in joining with the League in applying pressure upon Japan was a matter of speculation as reports came from Geneva that League officials were considering a "diplomatic boycott." Washington officials prefer not to cross this bridge until it is reached, meanwhile hoping that Japan will feel the force of world opinion and make pressure unnecessary by withdrawing its troops.

Boycott Considered.

It is generally agreed that the "diplomatic boycott" under which the nations would withdraw their official representatives from Japan is the logical first step in applying pressure. Observers believe such a move would have a strong effect upon Japan, which prides itself upon its relations with the Western world.

As the nation which has the largest trade with Japan, the United States holds a key position in the possible invocation of an economic boycott by the League, a step which reports from Geneva say is also considered.

The United States exports great quantities of cotton to Japan and imports large amounts of silk. The effect that a cessation of this trade would have upon American business would have to be considered.

China Charges Tokio With Responsibility for Outbreaks.

By the Associated Press.

NANKING, China, Nov. 7.—China will inform Aristide Briand, chairman of the League of Nations Council, tomorrow that Japan "must be held responsible for any critical developments in Manchuria. The Nanking Government is expected to say that "the number of Japanese outrages in Manchuria grows daily and whatever complications and aggravations the situation may suffer Japan must be held responsible."

Worsted Wiltons
Maker's Surplus Sacrificed at..$ 75
All 9 x 12 Size Persian Designs
Ordinarily Worth $115 to $120

We want you to realize what you are buying in these fine Worsted Wiltons, so that you can better appreciate what a bargain you are getting. The wool is imported from rocky, Far East countries, where severe weather produces rugged sheep with thick, wiry coats. The yarns are Worsted, which means that they are carefully selected from long fibers, combed parallel, and twisted hard. Besides imparting durability, this gives the Rug a sheen and a depth of pile not found in cheaper grades.

Lammert's are rapidly becoming known as the Floor Covering Center of St. Louis, a position which we have attained through far sighted merchandising. This special offering of high grade Worsted Wilton Rugs is but one of a series of special purchases that has stimulated buying activity to fever heat in our Rug Department. Women know bargains in Floor Coverings as they do in furniture, that is why the path of values these days leads directly to Lammert's.

In this group of exquisitely beautiful Rugs you will find the most favored Persian designs in all the new and accepted color combinations. We mention rose, sand, taupe, mulberry, and blue. Solve your Floor Covering Problem for years to come by purchasing one or more of these very conspicuous values Monday.

NUDISTS OFFERED NEW HAVEN

Cult in California May Have Free Use of Land on Monterey Bay.

By the Associated Press.

WATSONVILLE, Cal., Nov. 7.—The nudists who say they are going to move from the vicinity of Carmel because publicity has made them feel ridiculous, were offered a haven today by William Locke-Padden, wealthy land owner.

Locke-Padden wrote a letter to Mme. Mathilde Bomgartener, leader of the nudist cult, offering her followers the free use of his three miles of beach frontage on Monterey Bay, near Watsonville. He said he would erect screens free of charge to hide them from the gaze of the curious. Locke-Padden said there are many nooks and coves along the beach offering both secrecy and shelter.

FINAL GIFTS TODAY TO ARCHBISHOP'S FUND FOR CHARITY

Contributions to Be Received in Catholic Churches — Solicitations Ended Yesterday.

Contributions will be accepted in Catholic churches today to Archbishop Glennon's emergency charity fund, although general solicitation for the fund ended last night, with a total of $282,181.79 tabulated yesterday at noon.

Reports from all of the 125 parishes in St. Louis and St. Louis County will not be tabulated before tomorrow, the Rev. John J. Butler, director-general of the fund, said. The total announced yesterday included $255,717.09 from the parishes and $26,464.70 in special gifts. Father Butler estimated about 90 per cent of the parishoners had been canvassed. Reports are expected tomorrow from St. Joseph's Lithuanian parish in the city and the parishes of St. Anthony, St. Peter Claver and St. Aloysius in the county.

Volunteer solicitors completed their door-to-door canvasses last night. Members of several of the special gift teams will keep appointments with business men this week which were made several days ago.

Archbishop Glennon sent a congratulatory telegram to Father Butler yesterday from Washington, where he stopped on his way to Richmond, Va., where he will preach today at the twenty-fifth anniversary of the dedication of Sacred Heart Cathedral there. He is the only survivor of the prelates who participated in the dedicatory exercises of that cathedral.

The Archbishop's message acknowledged a report wired by Father Butler and continued:

"Your telegram was the most pleasant news received since leaving St. Louis Friday. I am sure our good people will offer prayers of thanksgiving at the Sunday morning masses, as only with supernatural assistance could our efforts have been crowned with such tremendous success. The achievement is phenomenal considering we had less than two weeks to mobilize our forces. Those who have contributed may feel assured the God of Charity will reward them abundantly."

The Rev. Peter J. Dooley, pastor of the Church of the Holy Redeemer, Webster Groves; James E. King, attorney, and Mrs. Lee Moser, member of the women's division of the campaign, spoke over the radio last night, Father Dooley pointing out additional contributions may be made at any time to appeal headquarters, 3810 Lindell boulevard. The others told of the relief work which will be financed by the contributions.

NAN BRITTON SEEKS NEW TRIAL

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 7.—Counsel for Miss Nan Britton, author of "The President's Daughter," today filed a motion for a new trial of her $50,000 libel suit against C. A. Klunk, hotel operator of Marion, O. The jury which heard the case gave a verdict Thursday of "No cause for action." Miss Britton sued Klunk on the ground that he circulated a book, "The Answer to the President's Daughter," which she contended injured her reputation.

Federal Judge John M. Killits, before whom the suit was tried, said he would decide on the motion later. The new trial motion alleged irregularity on the proceedings preventing the plaintiff from having a fair trial, and that the verdict was not sustained by the evidence. It also was alleged there was an error in Judge Killits' charge to the jury and that a statement made by the Court in the presence of the jury prejudiced the jurors against Miss Britton.

PROSECUTOR ACCUSES MINE STRIKE LEADERS

Tells Dreiser Committee They Incited Outbreak in Which Four Were Killed.

By the Associated Press.

HARLAN, Ky., Nov. 7.—Charges that leaders of the striking coal miners inspired the men to attack deputy sheriffs and caused the clash that caused the loss of four lives at Evarts May 5 were made before Theodore Dreiser's investigating committee here today by W. A. Brock, commonwealth's attorney. He also declared Kentucky National Guardsmen sent here shortly after that outbreak were withdrawn by agreement between Gov. Sampson and former United States Senator Robsion of counsel for the miners, because the August primary was soon to be held.

The Dreiser Committee sent a letter to District Judge Jones who had refused to be questioned, saying it wanted to ask him about reports that he had held possession illegally of the grand jury box. He told newspapermen he did not appear because his record was shown in the courthouse files.

Samuel Ornitz of New York who did most of the questioning of Brock repeatedly asked why men indicted for criminal syndicalism had been released on promise to leave the county instead of being tried. Brock replied most of them were young and he desired to let them go away on their promise not to engage further in communistic activities. Dreiser and others kept questioning Brock's motives in having let these defendants go and finally Brock said: "Well, we'll try the very next one we get."

Brock said he regarded the United Mine Workers of America as a patriotic organization and "ok" but that the National Miners' Union was communistic and it was against Kentucky law to advocate Communism. He added, however, the National Miners' Union or any other organization had the right of free speech and free assembly so long as it did not violate the law.

Motions to quash murder indictments against 10 Harlan miners were overruled at Mount Sterling today and the cases were set for Nov. 18.

Exercises at Structure to House Washington U. School of Architecture to Begin at 9:30 A. M.

The program of exercises in connection with the laying of the corner stone of Givens Hall, which will house the school of architecture of Washington University, will begin next Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Addresses will be delivered by Joseph B. Givens, a retired architect and contractor, donor of the building, Chancellor Throop, Louis La Beaume, chairman of the advisory board of the school of fine arts and Prof. Gabriel Ferrand, professor of design in the school of architecture.

Mr. and Mrs. Givens will lay the corner stone. Its contents will include photographs of Joseph W. Givens and Kate A. Givens, to whom the $200,000 building will be a memorial. It will be completed by April 15.

NUDISTS OFFERED NEW HAVEN

Cult in California May Have Free Use of Land on Monterey Bay.

By the Associated Press.

WATSONVILLE, Cal., Nov. 7.—The nudists who say they are going to move from the vicinity of Carmel because publicity has made them feel ridiculous, were offered a haven today by William Locke-Padden, wealthy land owner.

Locke-Padden wrote a letter to Mme. Mathilde Bomgartener, leader of the nudist cult, offering her followers the free use of his three miles of beach frontage on Monterey Bay, near Watsonville. He said he would erect screens free of charge to hide them from the gaze of the curious. Locke-Padden said there are many nooks and coves along the beach offering both secrecy and shelter.

FINAL GIFTS TODAY TO ARCHBISHOP'S FUND FOR CHARITY

Contributions to Be Received in Catholic Churches — Solicitations Ended Yesterday.

Contributions will be accepted in Catholic churches today to Archbishop Glennon's emergency charity fund, although general solicitation for the fund ended last night, with a total of $282,181.79 tabulated yesterday at noon.

Reports from all of the 125 parishes in St. Louis and St. Louis County will not be tabulated before tomorrow, the Rev. John J. Butler, director-general of the fund, said. The total announced yesterday included $255,717.09 from the parishes and $26,464.70 in special gifts. Father Butler estimated about 90 per cent of the parishoners had been canvassed. Reports are expected tomorrow from St. Joseph's Lithuanian parish in the city and the parishes of St. Anthony, St. Peter Claver and St. Aloysius in the county.

Volunteer solicitors completed their door-to-door canvasses last night. Members of several of the special gift teams will keep appointments with business men this week which were made several days ago.

Archbishop Glennon sent a congratulatory telegram to Father Butler yesterday from Washington, where he stopped on his way to Richmond, Va., where he will preach today at the twenty-fifth anniversary of the dedication of Sacred Heart Cathedral there. He is the only survivor of the prelates who participated in the dedicatory exercises of that cathedral.

The Archbishop's message acknowledged a report wired by Father Butler and continued:

"Your telegram was the most pleasant news received since leaving St. Louis Friday. I am sure our good people will offer prayers of thanksgiving at the Sunday morning masses, as only with supernatural assistance could our efforts have been crowned with such tremendous success. The achievement is phenomenal considering we had less than two weeks to mobilize our forces. Those who have contributed may feel assured the God of Charity will reward them abundantly."

The Rev. Peter J. Dooley, pastor of the Church of the Holy Redeemer, Webster Groves; James E. King, attorney, and Mrs. Lee Moser, member of the women's division of the campaign, spoke over the radio last night, Father Dooley pointing out additional contributions may be made at any time to appeal headquarters, 3810 Lindell boulevard. The others told of the relief work which will be financed by the contributions.

NAN BRITTON SEEKS NEW TRIAL

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 7.—Counsel for Miss Nan Britton, author of "The President's Daughter," today filed a motion for a new trial of her $50,000 libel suit against C. A. Klunk, hotel operator of Marion, O. The jury which heard the case gave a verdict Thursday of "No cause for action." Miss Britton sued Klunk on the ground that he circulated a book, "The Answer to the President's Daughter," which she contended injured her reputation.

Federal Judge John M. Killits, before whom the suit was tried, said he would decide on the motion later. The new trial motion alleged irregularity on the proceedings preventing the plaintiff from having a fair trial, and that the verdict was not sustained by the evidence. It also was alleged there was an error in Judge Killits' charge to the jury and that a statement made by the Court in the presence of the jury prejudiced the jurors against Miss Britton.

PROSECUTOR ACCUSES MINE STRIKE LEADERS

Tells Dreiser Committee They Incited Outbreak in Which Four Were Killed.

By the Associated Press.

HARLAN, Ky., Nov. 7.—Charges that leaders of the striking coal miners inspired the men to attack deputy sheriffs and caused the clash that caused the loss of four lives at Evarts May 5 were made before Theodore Dreiser's investigating committee here today by W. A. Brock, commonwealth's attorney. He also declared Kentucky National Guardsmen sent here shortly after that outbreak were withdrawn by agreement between Gov. Sampson and former United States Senator Robsion of counsel for the miners, because the August primary was soon to be held.

The Dreiser Committee sent a letter to District Judge Jones who had refused to be questioned, saying it wanted to ask him about reports that he had held possession illegally of the grand jury box. He told newspapermen he did not appear because his record was shown in the courthouse files.

Samuel Ornitz of New York who did most of the questioning of Brock repeatedly asked why men indicted for criminal syndicalism had been released on promise to leave the county instead of being tried. Brock replied most of them were young and he desired to let them go away on their promise not to engage further in communistic activities. Dreiser and others kept questioning Brock's motives in having let these defendants go and finally Brock said: "Well, we'll try the very next one we get."

Brock said he regarded the United Mine Workers of America as a patriotic organization and "ok" but that the National Miners' Union was communistic and it was against Kentucky law to advocate Communism. He added, however, the National Miners' Union or any other organization had the right of free speech and free assembly so long as it did not violate the law.

Motions to quash murder indictments against 10 Harlan miners were overruled at Mount Sterling today and the cases were set for Nov. 18.

BOOTLEGGER SHOT TO DEATH IN AUTO; FRIEND WOUNDED

Ralph Fulghan, 28, Killed Near Fairmount Racetrack, Ernie Davis Tells Police.

Police officers of Madison and St. Clair counties are investigating the killing of Ralph Fulgham, 28 years old, described as a bootlegger, and the wounding of his companion, Ernie Davis, on a lonely road in Madison County, Illinois, early yesterday.

Davis, who is at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, with a wound in the face, told a story of having been stopped on State Highway No. 11, near the Fairmount race track, of being beaten, and then forced to drive to the side road, where the shooting occurred.

"Ralph and I were driving toward Collinsville when another machine, either a Ford or a Chevrolet, drew alongside and one of four men in the car shouted, 'Get over there.' I thought the men were officers, and stopped," Davis related.

"Three of the men got out and ordered us out of our car. It was too dark to see what they looked like. They beat both of us on the head and shoulders with pistols, then ordered us into our car, getting in with us. I started off, and the other car followed with the fourth man at the wheel."

Revolver Found in Car.

Davis said he was forced to turn off on the side road and was ordered to stop at a point about two miles northeast of the race track. The men got out and started firing at him and Fulgham, who were still in the car, he asserted.

Davis drove up to the hospital at 2:50 a. m. Fulgham's body, with two bullet wounds in the head, was in the back seat of the car. A revolver containing three empty shells, was beside the body. Davis was found to have been wounded in the right cheek, the bullet lodging in the neck.

The fact that there are no bullet holes in the machine, and none of the windows are broken cause officers to doubt Davis' account of the shooting. He also failed to explain the presence of the revolver in the car, declaring that neither he nor Fulgham were armed. Davis said that he was unconscious as a result of his wound for a short time after the shooting, which occurred about 1 a. m. When he regained consciousness the assailants were gone, and he started for the hospital.

Ordered Away From Benld.

Police, who describe Davis and Fulgham as bootleggers, say the pair were recently ordered to stay away from Benld, Ill., where they were operating. The license for the machine in which they were riding was issued to John Kyro, a former St. Louis saloonkeeper, now living at Benld.

Fulgham, who lived at 101A North Fourth street, East St. Louis, was arrested seven times in East St. Louis in the last two years, but never convicted. Records show that Davis, who gave his address as 1424 Kansas avenue, East St. Louis, is a former convict, having served two years in the Maryland penitentiary for larceny. A year ago Davis shot and wounded Timothy P. McCarthy, a former newspaper reporter, in an East St. Louis speakeasy. Last Tuesday Davis was arrested in East St. Louis on an assault charge. He was cited for vagrancy, and released on bond.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN IS FOUND SHOT DEAD NEAR KINGSHIGHWAY

Revolver Under Body, With Discharged Cartridge, Indicates Suicide.

The body of an unidentified man about 65 years old, with a bullet wound, apparently self-inflicted, through the right temple, was found a few feet from Bircher avenue just east of Kingshighway, at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

The body was lying face down, and when policemen turned it over, they found an old five-shot ivory-handled revolver with one discharged cartridge close to one of the hands. Police estimated the man had been dead about 24 hours.

He was 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighed 150 pounds and had light hair streaked with gray and a close-cropped gray mustache. He was wearing a brown overcoat, neat blue suit, white shirt with the laundry mark "J. B.," gray hat, gray silk socks and black low shoes. In an overcoat pocket was a copy of a Chicago afternoon paper of last Thursday. The only other possessions found were two nickels, a handkerchief and a knife.

Kills Fellow Circus Employe.

By the Associated Press.

EUFAULA, Ala., Nov. 7.—Police disclosed today that a man who said he was James Odell, concession operator with a carnival show, whose home is in an undesignated part of Missouri, surrendered and confessed that he killed another show man at Blountstown, Fla., Tuesday night. He gave the name of the slain man as Chuck Conners. Officers quoted him as saying he killed in self-defense and had been hiding since. Florida authorities took him to Blountstown.

SAYS DEFLATION HAS REACHED TURNING POINT

H. T. Ferris, St. Louis Banker Sees Hope in Strengthened Morale of Public.

By the Associated Press.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Nov. 7.—Strengthened public morale following upon the improvement in commodity markets has laid the foundation for imminent economic recovery, Henry T. Ferris, president of the Investment Bankers Association, said today.

Ferris, executive vice president of the First National Co. of St. Louis, gave a picture of present business conditions in a discussion with newspapermen preparatory to the opening Monday of the association's convention.

He recalled how, at the 1929 convention, Roland A. Wilbur of Cleveland, then president, said that inflation had gone too far and predicted the break which followed.

"Now," said Ferris," perhaps we have come to the other end. We have every hope that the meeting of this convention will mark the turn, not because we are meeting but because we seem fortuitously to have chosen a time for meeting when the deflationary process has run its course.

"Coming from the West, I am impressed morale as a result of the public morale as a result of the commodity market improvement, and, while I do not want to indulge in any platitudes about this being the time to buy, I think we have laid the necessary foundation for sensible growth.

"We cannot hope for a rapid change, but I believe we have laid the foundation for a sounder structure than we've seen in a good many years."

RALPH CAPONE ENTERS LEAVENWORTH PRISON

Starts Serving 3-Year Term for U. S. Income Tax Evasion.

By the Associated Press.

LEAVENWORTH Kan., Nov. 7.—Ralph Capone, elder brother of "Scarface Al," dropped his title "Chicago's Public Enemy No. 3" today to assume a longer numeral, assigned to him at the Federal Prison which he entered to serve a three-year term for income tax evasion.

The brother of Chicago's gangland overlord, who is expected at Leavenworth shortly himself to serve a 10-year sentence on a similar conviction, was "just another Federal prisoner" to Warden T. B. White.

"Ralph has begun to realize that, too," was the only comment on Capone's first reaction to prison life, Brought from within the red brick walls by Deputy Marshal William G. Thompson, who guarded him from Chicago to the receiving room where Capone exchanged his dark, well tailored business suit for the prison denin.

The conviczt, who was sentenced for failing to pay a $300,000 Government income tax claim, walked through the prison gate at 9:15 a. m. today, handcuffed to one of 15 short-term prisoners. He encountered the same routine which confronted each of the other 3028 Leavenworth convicts, Warden White said.

"I understand Warden White is a fair man," Capone said on the train. "We expect no trouble from Ralph Capone or his brother Al, either, if they send him here," Warden White remarked.

Al Capone is in jail in Chicago. It has been reported he may choose to come to Leavenworth pending action on his appeal in order to gain credit on his penitentiary sentence in the event the higher court decides he must serve.

Guards who accompanied Ralph Capone quoted him as saying:

"I hope the crime wave will be over by the time I get out."

He apparently referred to gang killings in Chicago.

"It's been a very enjoyable trip down here," he told an interviewer," but I think it will be much more enjoyable going back."

Capone was in an affable mood on the train, in contrast to his sullenness before departing from Chicago, but he was not so cheerful when the prison gate loomed before him.

"It is much easier to evade the income tax than the newspaper guys," he said with a laugh.

INJUNCTION AVERTED IN ISSUE BETWEEN LIGHT CONTRACTORS

Welsbach Co. Agrees to Leave Gas Mantles in Use Until Replaced by Successful Bidder.

A controversy between the Welsbach Co. of Philadelphia and G. L. Tarlton over the use of luminaries, or mantles, on gas lamps in the city was adjusted yesterday. Accordingly an injunction suit which had been prepared to prevent the owner, the Welsbach Co., from removing the equipment will not be filed.

The Welsbach Co. has had the contract with the city for 25 years to furnish luminaries and maintain the lighting service. Tarlton last month was granted the contract with a low bid of $22.18 per standard per year, 18 cents under the Welsbach bid. Tarlton, according to his attorney, Edward W. Foristel, made an offer for the luminaries and in conversation with officials was caused to believe they would be sold to him. When the sale was not consummated, Tarlton entered into a contract with the Welsbach Co. to last for one month, during which the luminaries were left on the poles while Tarlton was having new ones manufactured. This contract expired yesterday and the Welsbach Co. gave notice it would remove the equipment.

Tarlton was ready to file his injunction when the Welsbach Co. notified Director of Public Utilities Pritchard the service will be continued indefinitely. There are about 5000 gas lights in the city, used to illuminate outskirt sections. Foristel said his client expects to replace the luminaries with his own as soon as possible.

STOCKS JOIN WHEAT AND SILVER RISE AT WEEK-END

Markets Generally Close Period on the Crest of Good Advances — Bond Values Also Higher Feature.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Sweeping advances in such leading commodities as wheat and bar silver this week provided a more palpable basis for hopes and forecasts of the passing of hard times.

The contagion of bull speculation finally spread to the stock market, and share prices were lifted to new high levels for the autumn recovery.

Wall street was somewhat mystified by the sweeping gains in wheat and silver, and a little skeptical at times, but it was widely recognized that sustained upturns would have a distinctly salutory effect upon economic conditions, both at home and abroad.

Banking quarters were particularly impressed with an easing in money rates, ending apprehension over the vague possibility of a credit pinch as result of the recent gold outflow and currency hoarding. The gold movement was reversed, the country's net stocks of monetary metal making a substantial gain for the week, and the volume of currency in circulation registered only the average seasonal gain.

Financial circles were extremely hopeful over the fact the bond market was able to work almost steadily higher, closing with aggregate net gains for each session of the week. In high banking quarters there has been a feeling that improvement in bonds must precede real improvement elsewhere. Despite this week's gains in old issues, new financing was almost negligible, and several corporations which would normally have no difficulty in financing are being forced to rely on bank loans.

Advance in Wheat Cheers.

The sustained advances in wheat, it was pointed out, had had a distinctly cheering effect upon business sentiment over larger areas of the country, and should be strongly felt in Argentina, Canada and Australia, as well as the United States. The advance in silver, carrying it back close to the level of a year ago at this time, should increase the purchasing power of China and Mexico, where it is the basis of currency, and have a stimulating effect upon nonferrous metal mining areas generally if continued, as silver is largely produced, along with copper and other metals.

Wall street was inclined to minimize the Manchurian crisis, although it seemed to cause a little hesitancy at time. Germany and Central Europe is at the present time receiving the most attention in international banking quarters. Financial quarters generally regarded the strong Nationalist Cabinet announced in England as a good omen.

Stock market analysts were particularly encouraged by the fact that the general level was able to push through previous resistance points encountered since the first week of recovery in October, when announcement of the National Credit Corporation plan sent the market into a violent rally. The price average of 90 stocks closed at 90.3, a net gain for the week of 6.7 points, and the highest level since Sept. 23.

The price average of 60 learing corporate bonds rose 2.7 points, a wide movement for this average, to 84.1, which duplicated the level of Oct. 10, which was the end of the first week of recovery.

Bullish Move in Stocks.

Sparks from the grain and silver markets touched off a flare of bullishness in stocks today.

Trading was active, for shorts felt the pinch of rising prices, but the large volume of profit-taking that proceeded under cover of the rally kept the average advance slightly below yesterday's.

The turnover of 2,033,260 shares was the largest for a Saturday in nearly two months and exceeded the volume for any full session this week with the exception of Friday.

Bulls were stimulated not only by the action of commodities but by the fact that the market yesterday had gone through the previous highs of the recovery. Thus encouraged, operators for the advance worked strenuously with their favorites and final prices were roughly 1 to 5 points higher. Oil and metal issues kept in the spotlight, although the food steel and chemical groups were also strong.

Further evidence of a slow revival in steel operations, Youngstown district plants will start next week at 37 per cent of capacity against 31 per cent early this week was associated with rumors that automobile manufacturers were expected to step up production schedules, and gave support to a belief that October had seen the bottom of the depression in the steel industry where expanding activity has already brought an increase in employment.

The speculative appetite for mining shares was stimulated by the additional advance in bar silver to 34⅜ cents an ounce here, despite a decline at London. American Smelting, International Silver and Homestake were leaders. Firmer gasoline prices influenced the oils, although that group quieted down in the later trading.

Bethlehem Steel was a feature, rising 3 points. U. S. Steel's extreme gain was 4 points, but this was cut to 2⅜ in the profit-taking which shaded most prices at the close. American Telephone reduced a 3½-point rise to 2⅜ and American Can yielded part of a similar extreme gain. Coca-Cola, Allied Chemical, Electric Auto-Lite, Union Pacific, du Pont and Ingersoll Rand were up 3 to 4, while Atchison's gain was 5. Numerous rails joined a wide assortment on industrials and utilities in advance of a point or two.

Strength of Grain Factor.

Brokerage houses reported that public interest in the market had been quickened by the advance in commodity prices and that odd-lot business was improving. Larger traders, some of whom were amazed by the resistance of wheat and corn against heavy weekend profit-taking, were heartened by the National Credit Corporation's debut as a going concern which assured subscriptions of $400,000,000.

It was evident that the strength of grain yesterday and today had created a much deeper impression here than had the advances earlier in the movement. Wheat has frequently led the way out of a depression, although usually when surplus stocks were smaller than those now in prospect. However, it is pointed out that selling of wheat during the months of its decline may have been overdone.

Bonds were strong for the seventh consecutive season, which gave real cause for jubilation since that market has undoubtedly been profiting by an easier banking situation and thus reflects fundamental improvement.

Foreign exchanges moved narrowly. Sterling eased, three-quarters of a cent to $3.80¾ and Shanghai was somewhat heavy. French francs steadied. Mexican dollars again advanced.

SMALL LOSSES SHOWN BY COTTON IN WEEK-END TRADE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Cotton held fairly steady during the greater part of today's session, but eased off in the late trading under continued Southern selling.

January, after advancing to 6.80c, broke to 6.70c and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 4 to 6 points.

The opening was steady, 1 to 2 points higher, with the initial offerings quite readily absorbed by trade buying, while there was also a considerable demand through brokers with Western and Wall street connections. This became more active right after the call and active months worked about 5 to 6 points above yesterday's closing quotations, with December advancing to 6.73c and March to 6.95c.

The advance met further realizing or liquidation, which may have been promoted by the uncertainty of the showing of next Monday's Government report. Prices sagged off from the best during the last hour under continued Southern selling and further liquidation.

The late decline was attributed largely to hedging and readjustments of the technical position, with week-end realizing accelerated by the approach of the Government crop report, which is scheduled for publication at 11 o'clock Monday morning. No further private reports were issued, and there was nothing in this morning's comment to indicate any particular change of opinion as to its probable showing. The Southern selling here, however, attracted some comment, following recent reports of a slight easing in the basis.

Liverpool cable said that hedge selling and liquidation had been absorbed by trade calling in that market. The amount of cotton remaining on shipboard at U. S. ports at the end of the week awaiting clearance was estimated at 178,000 bales, against 171,000 last year.

RYE PRICE LIFTED 4C A BUSHEL ON CHICAGO MARKET

Enormous Profit Taking Halts Wheat and Other Grains After They Make New Highs.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Aspects of European reported shortage of grain crops took on new scare proportions today, especially as to rye. Prices for that cereal ran up almost 4 cents a bushel, excited by reports that Germany had purchased all the rye available in European continental grain centers, and also bought big amounts of rye from Canada. Adding to tension regarding rye was report that Russian rye quotations had soared in the last week 10 cents a bushel.

Enormous profit-taking sales halted runaway upturns in wheat and other grains except rye, but not until corn as well as wheat had today again outdone the season's top price record.

Rye closed stalwart, 2⅜@3½ cents higher than yesterday's finish, wheat unchanged to ¼c off, corn unchanged to ⅜c up, and provisions showing 5c to 15c bulge.

Flurried trading in future deliveries of rye reached its highest point just before the day's final transactions. At this stage, the rye market showed an advance of more than 21 cents from recent low levels, with urgent buying for exporters and commission houses a conspicuous stimulating factor. It had been widely known for over a week that the world's rye crop was 164,000,000 bushels smaller than last year, but, strange to say, it was only today that rye attracted individual notice aside from its relation to wheat as an auxiliary bread material governed by the major grain.

Sudden reports, however, that Germany had taken extraordinary measures to make certain of possessing ample stocks of rye for herself changed comparative market neglect of rye here to immediate strained attention. For the remainder of the day, the trade spotlight tended more and more to rye. It was generally conceded that unless Russia should be able to export rye freely, a big demand from Europe for North American rye was almost inevitable, with not more than 30,000,000 bushels of rye to be had for export from Canada and the United States combined.

Wheat specialists were inclined to regard the new developments in the situation as suggesting increased overseas demand for wheat, rather than forcing the rye market to abnormally high prices. Meanwhile wheat fluctuated wildly and the volume of dealings was augmented, not diminished.

Fresh incentives to wheat buyers included Liverpool reports of increased speculative purchasing abroad. Unwelcome rain threatening to spoil Argentina's wheat crop prospects weer also a bullish factor, together with persistent deficient moisture complains from important wheat districts both of the United States and Canada. Nevertheless, temptation to realize week-end profits wholesale for holders kept the market finally to almost the identical level as 24 hours before.

Corn buying enthusiasm carried prices sharply higher at times, but afterward cooled somewhat as a result of free selling and of enlarged receipts. Oats were relatively sluggish.

Provisions responded to upturns in hog values and to grain strength.

ADVANCE IN BOND MARKET CONTINUES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The bond market advanced today, for the seventh consecutive time.

Gains of 1 to 4 points were numerous throughout the list and a few were even greater. The closing average price of 60 issues composed of equal numbers of railroad, public utility and industrial loans was 84.1, a gain of seven-tenths of a point for the day and the highest level since Oct. 10. The sales total of $8,490,000 was the largest for a Saturday since the same date.

The advances were distributed pretty evenly among all sorts of issues, although many of the larger gains were scored by speculative loans. Trading was more active and the turnover was especially heavy in a few issues.

Issues whose sales exceeded $100,000 included: Bordeaux 6s, Consolidated Gas of New York 4½s, Chicago Great Western 4s, St. Paul 5s of 1975 and of 2000 and Rock Island 4s of 1934, but the net gains in such issues were principally fractional.

United States Treasury and Liberty loans advanced with the rest of the list, but the trading in most of them was limited. Treasury 3⅛s of 1946-49 jumped one-half point on a few small sales.

Latin American loans scored many of the larger advances among the foreign group. Net advances in Argentine obligations ranged from fractions to 2½ points. German issues reflected a moderate amount of selling pressure.

Railroad obligations at times were stronger than other domestic loans, but by the close the gains were distributed pretty evenly in number and extent among all corporate issues.

Central New England 4s, American Writing Paper 5s, Allegheny 5s of 1944, Rock Island series A 4½s, Crown Cork and Seal 6s, Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s, Denver & Rio Grande Consolidated 4s, Erie 5s of 1967 and series A and B 4s of 1953 and numerous other issues closed from 2 to 5 points higher. The advance in high-grade loans was principally fractional.

SATURDAY'S CURB TRADE IS LARGEST SINCE SEPT. 19

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The Curb joined the procession of rising financial markets today, contributing a broad advance in a turnover of 300,000 shares. It was the largest Saturday volume since Sept. 19.

Firming commodity prices directed attention to the oil and mining issues especially, although other industrials displayed a good tone. Utilities were inclined to lag. The market encountered a rather large volume of profit-taking but absorbed such sales with little effect on prices.

Gains of 1 to 2 points were numerous in the specialties and petroleums.

In the metals, consolidated mining led with a 10-point advance. Mohawk and Newmont firmed moderately, the latter making a new high for the recovery.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Rubber futures opened firm; December, 4.70c. New contracts: December, 4.85c; March, 5.05c; May, 5.15c.

New York Sugar.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Raw sugar was unchanged today at 3.38c for spots. No sales were reported, although it was believed buyers would pay this price for sugars in position to suit, but influenced by the rather sharp upturn in futures, holders were asking fractionally higher.

After a quiet start futures developed increased strength and activity, closing at net advances of 4 to 5 points. The upturn was due to increased outside buying promoted by the more optimistic feeling in commodity markets in general, and to the rather steadier tone in the spot market, where buyers were said to be showing more interest at prevailing prices. Offerings were light and mostly in the way of liquidation or realizing, with final prices at about the best of the session. Approximate sales, 12,150 tons. December closed 1.33c; January, 1.31c; March, 1.31c; May, 1.35c; July, 1.40c; September, 1.44c.

Refined was steady and unchanged at 4.50c for fine granulated. There was a little better inquiry reported, but it was confined to nearby requirements only.

Futures closed firm, 4 to 5 higher; approximated sales, 12,150 tons. December, 1.35c; January, 1.31c; March, 1.31c; May, 1.35c; July, 1.40c; September, 1.44c; October, 1.46c.

New York Coffee.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Coffee futures advanced today on a renewal of Brazilian buying, with selling restricted owing to uncertainty over the possibility of the imposition of additional Brazilian coffee taxes. No. 7 contracts opened 13 to 15 higher and closed 12 to 15 higher. Sales 5000. Santos opened 12 to 17 higher and closed 10 to 14 higher. Sales 18,000. WEEK'S METAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—A more cheerful tone was reported in copper owing to improved export buying, reports of increasing activity in some domestic copper and brass rolling mills and expectations of further expansion in the coming week. Electrolytic holds steady at 7 cents for delivery in the Connecticut Valley, with custom smelters supplying the demand.

Consumers and dealers were more active buyers of tin for delivery in the next three months following a period of restricted purchases and prices advanced late in the week. Firmness of silver and necessity of filling postponed requirements were factors on the advance.

Early declines in lead as a result of increasing ore receipts at smelting plants were followed by a moderately improved demand and the market has become steady.

Resistance of sellers to accept further concessions resulted in a firmer tone in zinc and the market recovered part of its recent losses late in the week. Demand, however, is restricted.

Antimony was about steady. While some sales at concessions developed, holders were generally firm reflecting a better tone in the Chinese markets.

In the ollowing article I have endeavored o set forth the actual causes of the resent state of affairs, today far ore terrible than any that have sted since the time of the Span h oppression.

The current crisis in Cuba, po tical and economic, had its incep on in 1927, when Gen. Gerardo achado, in order to prolong his egime, conceived and put into ef ect his so-called constitutional re orms, which completely subverted e system of government under hich the people of Cuba had been overned since 1901. Since that me the violations of the spirit nd the letter of the fundamental s of Cuba, of which the Macha o oligarchy has been guilty, have een continuous.

The Original Constitution.

The Cuban Constitution set up at e conclusion of the war with pain provided for a four-year pres ential term and specified that no ccupant of the office might be re lected more than once. Machado s a candidate supported that body f Cuban public opinion which op osed any re-election to the presi ency. After two years in office nd a taste of the power which he as since abused, he changed his ind and set in motion the acts hich have alienated the great ma rity of Cuba's citizens.

The initial step in the Machado rogram looking to the creation of oligarchy was the secret adop on by the House of Representa ves of proposed amendments to e constitution. The amendment amed by the House would have tended Machado's term of office or four yea. without election. his in itself was a clear violation f two basic principles; one that ll public authority emanates from e sovereignty of the people, the ther the right of free nomination t all times of those who are to ll legislative and executive office ough the votes of their fellow tizens.

A wave of tremendous public in gnation followed the action of the ouse. It was so great that the enate of Cuba felt forced to yield o it. The amendments proposed y the House were altered provid g for a two-year extension of achado's term without the neces ty of election, and giving him lso without election a seat in the enate for a six-year term follow g his occupation of the Presi ency and prohibiting his re-elec on.

Electoral Code Suspended.

These changes were accepted by e House but the Machado regime ad not abandoned its determina on to remain in office. The ma hinery set up by the Cuban Con ution for amending that docu ent is modeled after the system mployed in the United States. The hanges must originate in Congress nd be passed there by a two hirds vote. Following that the uban method provides for ratifi ation by a constituent convention nstead of by three-fourths of the tates as is the case in the United tates. The constituent convention as no more right under the Cuban aw to alter or amend the pro osed constitutional changes than states have to make altera s in such proposals under the aws of the United States. In both nstances no provision is made for nything other than ratification or ejection.

The constitution of Cuba meant othing to Machado when he had etermined to bend it to his tyran ical purpose. Coincident with the all for a constituent convention to ass upon the proposed changes, is Congress ordered the suspen ion of the electoral code of 1919, nown as the Crowder code. This ction made certain that the con ention would be composed of achado supporters only, for un er the suspension none of the ex ting political parties could be re rganized, no new parties could be ormed, nor could independent lectors have the candidates of eir choice placed on the ballot.

Cuba Now in Grip of Usurper, Liberties of Natives Crushed, Is Charge Made by Noted Cuban

First President of League of Nations Tells of Illegal Grant of Power to President Machado and Suppression of Constitutional Rights by Party in Power.

(Cosme de la Torriente, former President of the League of Nations, former Cuban Secretary of State, and the first Cuban Ambassador to the United States, has recently consented to lead the opposition which aims to end the rule of President Gerardo Machado in Cuba. In the following article, the distinguished Cuban statesman outlines the purposes and background of the opposition, and explains the failure of the recent armed revolt in the island. Because so many opposition leaders in Cuba have "disappeared," Senor de la Torriente is residing temporarily in Washington.)

By Cosme de la Torriente.

FEW Americans are able, because of the disturbed condition of Cuban affairs and the rigid censorship imposed by the Machado Government, to visualize what is happening in the islands. In the following article I have endeavored to set forth the actual causes of the present state of affairs, today far more terrible than any that have existed since the time of the Spanish oppression.

The current crisis in Cuba, political and economic, had its inception in 1927, when Gen. Gerardo Machado, in order to prolong his regime, conceived and put into effect his so-called constitutional reforms, which completely subverted the system of government under which the people of Cuba had been governed since 1901. Since that time the violations of the spirit and the letter of the fundamental laws of Cuba, of which the Machado oligarchy has been guilty, have been continuous.

The Original Constitution.

The Cuban Constitution set up at the conclusion of the war with Spain provided for a four-year presidential term and, specified that no occupant of the office might be reelected more than once. Machado as a candidate supported that body of Cuban public opinion which opposed any re-election to the presidency. After two years in office and a taste of the power which he has since abused, he changed his mind and set in motion the acts which have alienated the great majority of Cuba's citizens.

The initial step in the Machado program looking to the creation of oligarchy was the secret adoption by the House of Representatives of proposed amendments to the constitution. The amendment framed by the House would have extended Machado's term of office for four years without election. This in itself was a clear violation of two basic principles; one that all public authority emanates from the sovereignty of the people, the other the right of free nomination at all times of those who are to fill legislative and executive office through the votes of their fellow citizens.

A wave of tremendous public indignation followed the action of the House. It was so great that the Senate of Cuba felt forced to yield to it. The amendments proposed by the House were altered providing for a two-year extension of Machado's term without the necessity of election, and giving him also without election a seat in the Senate for a six-year term following his occupation of the Presidency and prohibiting his re-election.

Electoral Code Suspended.

These changes were accepted by the House but the Machado regime had not abandoned its determination to remain in office. The machinery set up by the Cuban Constitution for amending that document is modeled after the system employed in the United States. The changes must originate in Congress and be passed there by a two-thirds vote. Following that the Cuban method provides for ratification by a constituent convention instead of by three-fourths of the states as is the case in the United States. The constituent convention has no more right under the Cuban law to alter or amend the proposed constitutional changes than the states have to make alterations in such proposals under the laws of the United States. In both instances no provision is made for anything other than ratification or rejection.

The constitution of Cuba meant nothing to Machado when he had determined to bend it to his tyrannical purpose. Coincident with the call for a constituent convention to pass upon the proposed changes, his Congress ordered the suspension of the electoral code of 1919, known as the Crowder code. This action made certain that the convention would be composed of Machado supporters only, for under the suspension none of the existing political parties could be reorganized, no new parties could be formed, nor could independent electors have the candidates of their choice placed on the ballot.

As a result of this procedure the candidates whose names appeared on the electoral ticket on the day of the election to the constituent convention were either those whose tenure in office had been extended or those named by the executive committees of the three existing parties, who supported and still support Machado. No choice was offered the electors. Although less than 20 per cent of the electors submitted to such representative action by casting their ballots, it was made to appear that about 80 per cent of the qualified voters had taken part, in itself ample proof of the fraud perpetrated.

Presidential Term Increased.

It must be apparent to even the casual student of legal affairs that the constituent convention was, therefore, illegal in its creation.

There was only one question before the Constituent Convention when it met. It could accept or reject the changes in the Cuban Constitution proposed by Congress. The already illegal Constituent Convention was, however, not concerned with the legality of its acts. The constitutional amendment when it emerged from the Constituent Convention authorized Machado to hold office for an additional term of six years, instead of two and retained the provision placing him in the Senate without election for a period of six years at the conclusion of his presidential term. This was not only a violation of the Constitution but contrary to the original mandate of Congress.

Having imposed his will on the Constitutent Convention, Machado forced Congress to go even farther. To make certain that the citizens of Cuba could not veto his dictatorial actions at the ballot box, he forced through Congress at the same time the emergency electoral law which confirmed and upheld the suspension of political rights enjoyed by the Cuban people. By this action he again prevented the reorganization of old parties, the organizatin of new ones and the nomination of candidates by independent groups. Once again the voters of Cuba had no choice at the ballot box. No candidate but Machado could have his name placed on the ticket. It was the same but entirely fraudulent method of ensuring an administration triumph as had been employed in the election for the Constituent Convention. Machado in 1929 became the illegal President for a term of six years as the result of an illegal election.

Meaningless Election.

Defiance of the basic laws of Cuba did not end here. No later than last November Machado and his henchmen again denied to the Cuban people the right of electoral expression. Two-thirds of the members of the Cuban Senate and one-half the membership of the House of Representatives were up for reelection at that time. Operating still under the emergency electoral law, the Machado faction again placed on the ticket only those persons known to be his friends. The vast body of Cuban public opinion which is opposed to his tyrannical oligarchy could find no means of expression. The result was an election as fraudulent as the two already held and denounced repeatedly by the Cuban Opposition. An end had been put to the republican and democratic form of government for the sake of which the Cuban patriots, aided by the American people, fought against Spain.

In order to accomplish all that which has been detailed, the present ruling oligarchy has violated not only the Constitution of 1901, but many of the laws of the republic. Among the deprivations the Cuban people have suffered have been rights of assembly and association; the free expression of thought, either by word of mouth, by writing or by any other means. Even before the revolutionary uprising of August the Government had caused the arrest, indictment and imprisonment in jails and military fortresses of hundreds of citizens, falsely accusing them before the courts of imaginary transgressions of the law, which could neither be proven nor justified. Such persecution has caused many Hydro-Electric and Industrial Plants Arising on the Dneiper River at a Cost of $400,000,000—City of Million Population Expected in 1938.

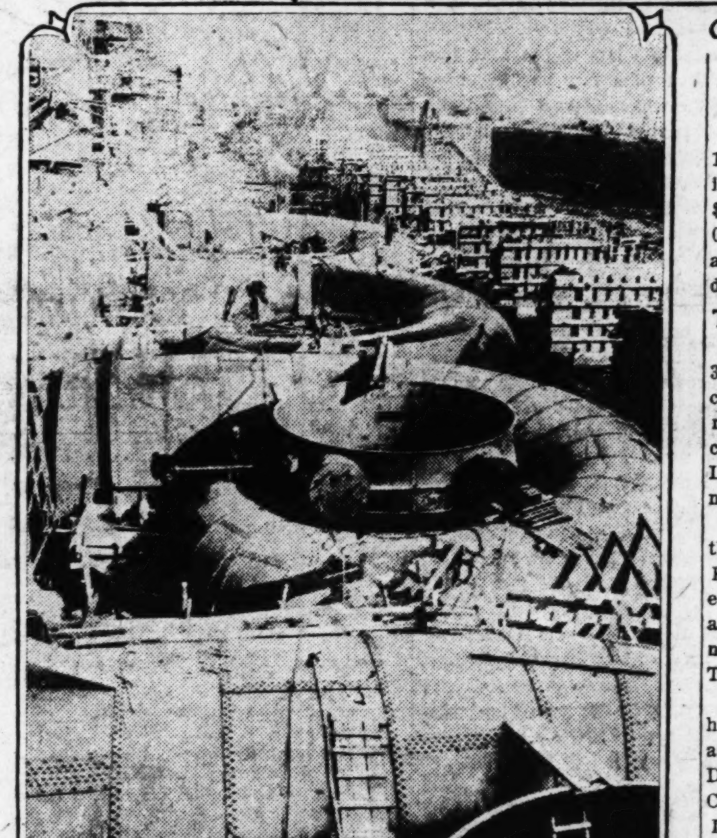
No. 25--RUSSIA IN TRANSITION

By Raymond P. Brandt.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1931, by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., September.

WHEN Lenin said, "Electrification plus Soviet power equals Socialism," he foresaw what a great part electricity would play in modern civilization as he charted the course of Russia's industrial and financial progress. He aimed to avoid the American experience, whereby electrification plus unbridled individualism has created private fortunes powerful enough to dominate municipalities and states and confident enough to challenge the Federal Government itself.



Turbine scroll cases in one of the power houses. These great channels for water are 28 feet in diameter.

To a Washington reporter who has followed the Muscle Shoals controversy in Congress for many years, the Soviet program for electrification presents an interesting contrast of capitalistic and socialistic methods.

The American Government built the gigantic Muscle Shoals plant as a wartime measure. When Congress sought to authorize its use for peacetime production the privately owned power interests were strong enough to confine Government distribution to the Alabama Power Co., at 2 to 4 mills a kilowatt hour. The company in turn retails the power to domestic users at prices ranging from 4 to 13 cents a kilowatt hour. Municipalities which gladly would buy power direct from the Government plant are denied that privilege. Opponents of Government operation of Muscle Shoals rarely neglect to call the plant a "white elephant."

Mammoth City in the Making.

Russia, under Soviet rule, is deliberately building a hydro-electric plant for peacetime purposes on the Dnieper River at Kichkas in the Ukraine. Like Muscle Shoals it is being built with public funds. Instead of being a white elephant it will be a tireless dog on a treadmill, generating power for a series of large primary industries. It will be the nucleus of a socialistic city of a million people. The Government promises to sell the power at 1.2 kopecks—6 mills—a kilowatt hour. There will be no capitalization of franchise, no inflation of securities, no exorbitant engineering, legal and financial fees. The profits will accrue to the State.

At Dnieprostroy the Bolsheviks have not merely taken a page from the capitalistic book; they have taken entire chapters, but always after carefully editing out the private profit motif. Progressives in and out of the American Congress have insisted that Muscle Shoals under Government operation would furnish a yardstick for measuring the rates charged by the electric power industry. At Kichkas, the Dnieprostroy operations will furnish more than a yardstick; they will be models for similar operations throughout the Union.

The total cost of the dam, power house, industrial plants and housing will amount to 815,000,000 roubles, more than $400,000,000.

The dam, locks and power plant, now rapidly nearing completion, will cost more than $100,000,000; the industrial plants will cost more than $250,000,000, and the housing scheme calls for expenditures of more than $50,000,000. Russian engineers have estimated that $150,000,000 worth of materials could profitably be bought abroad. It is estimated that the 40,000 workers employed in the industrial plants will require in the near future a socialistic city of 200,000 persons. The plans for this model city are being drawn so that it can be scientifically enlarged to take care of 1,000,000 persons by 1938.

The Dnieprostroy project gave the Soviet planners an opportunity to build a model industrial community on the grandiose scale the Russians love. At Kichkas the Dnieper River, second only to the Volga in European Russia, narrows in a swift, deep channel. Catherine the Great realized that if locks were built around the rapids at Kichkas the rich grain growing regions of Northern Ukraine would have an outlet to the Black Sea. She did not get around to the installing of the locks. Under the last Czar there was talk of building a dam, locks and a hydro-electric plant at the rapids, but nothing came of that.

Lenin had great expectations regarding the electrification of Russia. He was willing to spend hundreds of millions of roubles on various projects throughout the Union. When he died, his disciple Stalin carried on the plans. At Dnieprostroy they are materializing and by next year the wheels will be turning.

Metals, Chemicals, Cement.

The power plant will be the heart of the model development. Around it will cluster a combination of industries, which the Russians with their aptness at abbreviations call the "Combinat." The principal plant will be a blast steel furnace of 1,050,000 metric tons annual capacity, costing many millions. The other industries include a $45,000,000 aluminum plant of 200,000 tons annual capacity; an $8,000,000 ferro-alloy plant of 105,000 tons capacity; a coke and chemical plant costing $17,000,000 with an annual capacity of 1,413,000 tons; a mechanical repair shop costing $5,000,000; a slag cement plant costing $3,000,000; a fire brick plant costing $4,000,000; a slag brick plant costing $1,500,000, and a magnesium plant that has not yet been designed.

Three Daily Shifts.

These plants and the new city will require 320,000 of the 850,000 horsepower maximum capacity of the hydro-electric plant. The remaining power will be sent to the Donetz coal mines and the steel mills of Krivoi Rog. Later some of the power will be used on the nearby farms.

All these industries are being planted on the Zaporozhian plains where five years ago Kichkas was a farming village and the nearest town, Alexandrovsk, eight miles away, had a population of only 36,000. The Soviet planners could build from the foundation up. They started from scratch.

The writer arrived at Alexandrovsk, which has been renamed Zaporozhie, at 3:30 a. m., and was driven to the American quarter at Dnieprostroy. The dam was a blaze of lights. Cranes were raising and lowering buckets. Donkey engines were puffing about. Engineers walked around with blue prints. The midnight shift was at work. The job goes on around the clock in eight-hour shifts.

After a few hours' sleep the writer was shown over the dam and power plant by Rockwell Smith, who worked three years in St. Louis with the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad. Smith is in charge of the concrete work on the dam and power house.

The dam and power house have given the Russians a chance to indulge their obsession for "the biggest in the world." Until Boulder Canyon Dam is finished here will be the biggest dam in the world; the nine turbines in the power plant are the largest in the world, each generating 85,000 horsepower. The next largest are those at Niagara Falls which generate 75,000 horsepower.

The writer went below the river level to inspect one of these gargantuan coils. It was 28 feet high and the needle valves which direct the water into the power generating machinery were 6 1-2 feet high. These turbines were made by the Newport News Ship Engine Co., according to Soviet specifications. They are being installed by four engineers from the American company. Each turbine cost $375,000.

Tremendous Generators.

The work of installing the huge electric generators atop the turbines is under the supervision of six General Electric engineers. Five of these generators were bought outright from the American company and four are being built in Leningrad. By building the machinery in Russia the native engineers are learning American electrical production methods.

Five of the turbines and generators are scheduled to start producing May 1 next year when there will be a great celebration, probably with Stalin and Col. Hugh L. Cooper, the American engineer, as the distinguished participants. The question is whether enough industrial plants will be completed by that time to use the power.

There is an evident lack of co-ordination in the ramifications of the Dnieprostroy project. Ground was just broken this summer for the steel blast furnace and the proposed aluminum plant. It is highly doubtful whether either plant will be ready for operation next summer as predicted by the Rus-

Europe's Plight as Seen by Lloyd George

By David Lloyd George.
(Copyright, 1931.)

LONDON, Nov. 7.

TO understand the problems of Europe, we must keep in our minds a clear picture of its peculiar conditions.

Leaving out Soviet Russia, which merges with Asia, and is in many ways more akin to the East, Europe is a crowded little continent, smaller than the United States by nearly half a million square miles, but with well over three times its population, and broken up into some 30 separate sovereign states, each of them with their own Central Government, their army and other defense forces, their frontiers, and customs barriers against their neighbors.

Imagine the additional burden of expenditure on the people of America, if every separate state were thus armed and barricaded against its neighbors. Suppose, for example, that Illinois had to maintain an army, an air force, and frontier posts and guards adequate to defend it against attacks by Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Kentucky or Indiana, or combinations of all or any of these with further states beyond them, and a navy to protect Chicago from the fleet of Michigan.

Estimate the charges and delays to commerce if goods freighted westward from New York or Pennsylvania were held up at customs houses in each state of the Union they passed through, and subjected to heavy duties. Everyone would be impoverished, alike through the expenditure they were compelled to maintain and through the disabilities under which their trade and industry would labor.

Generations of Hatred.

That is the state of Europe, and to complete the picture it must be added that these separate countries are further divided from each other by differences of race and language, and often of religion, and by old, ingrained traditions of warfare and antagonism. For centuries they have fought each other, have suffered in turn from invasion, rapine and plunder. And the national debts piled up in these wars, and added to by each successive conflict, hang like financial millstones about their necks.

The sum of these old war bills may be brought home by a handful of figures. The national public debt for the whole of the United States is some $16,000,000,000, against which the war debts due to it amount to over $11,000,000,000. But the total internal national debt of Great Britain (ignoring its war debt to the United States, which is covered by war debts and reparations due in turn to it) is over $30,000,000,000; France's internal debt is $8,500,000,000; the German national debt, $2,000,000,000—apart from reparations payments for the next 57 years, the total of which is about $22,000,000,000; the Italian debt $4,500,000,000; and most of the other countries of Europe have debts running into billions or hundreds of millions of dollars.

Notwithstanding the currency inflation which went far to wipe out the pre-war and internal war debts of Germany, France, Belgium and Italy, the total national debts of Europe reach a figure many times over as great as that of the United States. Their war debts to the United States alone, outstanding from the last world conflict, equal nearly three-quarters of the total American national debt.

Arms Plus Heavy Tariffs.

As if these burdens were not heavy enough, Europe is spending in addition a vast sum yearly on its defense forces and munitions of war. Its annual expenditure on armaments amounts to $2,500,000,000. While the United States, with about 35 per cent of the income of the world, accounts for under 17 per cent of the world's armament expenditure, Europe, with an income of about the same amount, and more than three times the population to maintain out of it, is responsible for 66 per cent.

In addition, the high tariff walls which these 30 countries, great and small, have built up in a spirit of economic nationalism, form a kind of industrial and commercial armament, the cost of which in loss of trade and lowering of industrial efficiency must be incalculable. The final report of the World Economic Conference at Geneva declared that the recovery from the effects of the war has been unduly delayed, and the foreign commerce of all nations seriously hampered by tariff barriers, and urged in the interest of world prosperity that these barriers should be diminished or removed. Since then the walls in several countries have been raised higher.

In face of these facts it is not surprising that the economic conditions of Europe have grown of late thoroughly unhealthy. The trouble has been gathering head ever since the World War left Europe worn out, impoverished, and shackled by huge debts. Country after country had staggered on the brink of the abyss, and been pulled back by the efforts of the League of Nations, and the financial aid of the United States and of Great Britain. France only lent for purposes of increasing the armaments of her allies in Central Europe. But the burden of debts, the economic tariff warfare, the nervous piling-up of armaments, have stood in the way of any permanent recovery, and have ultimately forced on a general collapse. In one country after another banks have been crashing, national budgets have shown heavy deficits, industrial activity has dwindled, unemployment has mounted, and nations are facing the dark menace of bankruptcy.

Growing Bankruptcy.

Such conditions are not, it is true, confined to Europe, but it is in Europe that they have originated. The European market has historically called forth and absorbed the surplus products of the Americas and Australasia, their wheat, meat, cotton, oil, coffee, and indeed in later times many of the highly finished manufactures of the United States and of Canada. The bankruptcy of Europe is felt in every country of the world, and the higher the development of these countries, the more acutely they share its sufferings.

The National accounts of France show that its current financial year will end with a practically certain deficit of 5,000,000,000 francs. The German accounts have shown successive huge deficits, only to be dealt with by agonizing economies. The latest, dealt with by the Emergency Decree of June last was 574,000,000 marks. Czecho-Slovakia's accounts for last year show an effective deficit of 666,000,000 Czech crowns. Rumania has an anticipated deficit approaching 10,000,000,000 lei. In the budgets of Austria and Hungary, Italy and Bulgaria, Belgium, Finland, Poland and Jugo-Slavia, deficits are either being realized, or are being fought off with desperate cuts in expenditure.

Trade and industry are declining. There is not a country which does not show, in comparison with last year, a heavy falling off in its production of coal, iron and steel, in the value of its imports, and still more in that of its exports. New capital issues in most countries also show great reductions, while the crop of bankruptcies goes mounting up.

More Woe—Then What?

This is a gloomy picture. And there is a further touch to be added. In Great Britain we enjoy the highest real wage level in Europe, and in addition, our social services provide for the worker in sickness and in unemployment, and furnish pensions for his old age, for his widow and orphaned children. Accordingly, his standard of living is comfortable, and at the worst he is in no danger of starvation. But this cannot be said of Europe as a whole. In many countries, wages at best are deplorably meager, and when, as now, there is acute depression in industry and widespread unemployment, famine stalks through the dwellings of the poor.

The wolf is indeed howling at many a door. He is not endured as patiently as in the old dark days of servitude. His victims are educated nowadays. They think. They

A Criticism of Radio Broadcasting.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

MUCH criticism has been leveled at radio programs of the present day, and justly so. It appears that a long-suffering public is at last arousing itself to the point of protest against the super-abundance of jazz claptrap that clutters up the air at almost every point on the dial of a radio.

By what manner of reasoning, if any, do broadcasting companies and advertisers expect to interest a potential buying public with such wishy-washy programs? Don't they ever consider the fact that the listeners to whom they should direct their appeal are the adults of the family, in most cases, who prefer the better music, and that parents also like their children to have the benefit of good music occasionally? The majority of radio listeners in the home, day and night, are persons past the jazz-fancying age and youngsters whose musical and entertainment preferences are in the formative stage.

Yet, what do we hear? Music that is entertaining, cultivating and truly worth while? Perhaps a couple of hours a week, all put together. What we DO hear—and plenty of—is Johnny Whozit and his "band" broadcasting from the Club Moron; the well known "studio orchestra" (always jazz); the "mighty studio organ"; this is a phonograph record (more jazz); a blues singer, crooners and would-be singers galore—all interspersed with lengthy advertising admonitions anent everything from hangnails to what have you. This is true not only of programs locally, but chain programs and the programs of other radio stations. The youth of today goes out to clubs and dances and enjoys its jazz firsthand; the ones who support the homes, pay the bills, buy expensive radios—in other words, who really constitute the American buying public—stay at home and are fed a potpourri of Tin Pan Alley hash, if they want to listen. However, all do not "choose" to listen. Theatrically, many radio sets are "dark" most of the time, or I miss my guess.

Radio programs, it seems to me, could at least be varied more. It is an insult to the intelligence of radio purchasers for broadcasters and advertisers to assume that all they have to do to "put over" their station or product is to blare forth a jazz orchestra, a wisecracking announcer and a lot of jolly old studio repartee. Very few persons will listen long enough to such programs to hear who is sponsoring it, let alone listen to the sponsor's advertising "trailer."

St. Louis is a music center. Many fine musicians live here and in the surrounding territory. How often do we hear over local stations a concert orchestra? A military band? Hawaiian and other string ensembles? Soloists, vocal and otherwise, with concert orchestra or concert band? Answer that and then I'll tell one!

I don't believe radio listeners as a whole want a diet of symphonies and operatic works alone, but they no doubt would like to hear more of Herbert, Strauss, Friml, Nevin, etc., whose works are incomparable when rendered by musical organizations minus the saxophone and trumpet.

I trust the Post-Dispatch and its readers who favor better radio broadcasts will do all in their power to bring about better radio programs for our homes.

Three Answers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

AS I VIEW the situation, there are three answers to your editorial, "Is the Depression Fading?"

The optimist: "Yes. This depression is just exactly like all other depressions. They come and go, like a change in the weather. We always have had them; we always will; it has run its course. Happy days are here again," etc., etc.

The pessimist: "No! A condition like this did not just happen. Something caused this calamity and virtually nothing has been done to correct the great injustice. We lack leadership. The crisis has not been passed," etc., etc.

The happy-go-luckies: "We want beer."

Folly of Franchises.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

MRS. GEORGE W. HANCOCK of Cape Girardeau accuses you of being socialistic in your views and "schemes," meaning, I suppose, your suggestions. It is hardly conceivable that a newspaper like the Post-Dispatch is anything but a true American.

Our form of government is still in an experimental stage, and many present-day ideas and laws must go before we have a Utopia. Among these is the idea of unrestrained private ownership of the utilities. No one but the coupon clippers adheres to this idea, and the mass of people are not coupon clippers. The ballot box is the boss of what goes on in this country, and, with the teachings of a fearless newspaper to guide them, it won't be long until the voters see the folly of franchises and put the taboo on private ownership of the necessities of community livelihood.

A LOYAL READER.

WHEAT PRICES AND NEW HOPE.

The spectacular recovery made by the wheat market during the past month gives rise to new hopes for an early revival of business. From the lowest prices recorded during the present generation, wheat has made a steady advance to a level of prices nearly 50 per cent higher. The prices of other commodities—silver, cotton, corn, rubber and hides—have climbed along with it.

The month's gain has added some $50,000,000 to potential purchasing power. If sustained, it should revive consumer demand for merchandise; ease the rural banking stringency; recreate business confidence and rescue the country from the foolish panic psychology of recent weeks. The pessimism of 1931 has carried us to excesses fully as great as those of the optimism of 1928 and 1929. The new rise in prices has been induced by the prospect of increasing demand and restricted supply. Wheat consumption has been stimulated by lower prices. Increasing quantities have been fed to stock. Surplus stores have been depleted. At the same time, acreage has been reduced in Australia by 30 per cent, and in the hard winter wheat section of the United States by a similar amount. Bad weather conditions have threatened crops in France and in Germany. Russian crops have apparently fallen far below the high figures established last year, and Russian wheat exports have suffered a sharp decline. The carry-over from this year's crop will be far less than had been anticipated. Though speculation may immediately carry the rises too far, it appears now to be in large measure justified by underlying conditions.

It is worth noting that the present improvement in the farmer's condition has come through no activity on the part of the Government. Certainly the hocus-pocus of the tariff has not caused it. Wheat fell to 42 cents a bushel, which has stood since 1922. Indeed, it has sold at elevators in Oklahoma and in Western Kansas as low as 25 cents, or a little more than half the nominal duty per bushel. The situation has served to demonstrate beyond all doubt the futility of placing customs duties upon an export crop, nor does the Federal Farm Bureau emerge from the recent crisis with any degree of glory. To be sure, the rise in price will enable it to dispose of the 150,000,000 or more bushels, which it still holds, at a reduced loss; but its purchases, enormous as they were, did not suffice to prevent the price of wheat from falling to almost unprecedented depths, and present sales will be sure to exercise a depressing effect on recovering prices. The board, moreover, in so far as it finds its position improved, has to thank, not its own sagacity, but the good old law of supply and demand, which was in operation long before it saw the light of day. The producers of wheat cannot indefinitely continue to grow it at prices which are far below their costs, Farm Board or no Farm Board. Reduction in acreage was inevitable, whether the board urged it or not. It occurred in Australia and in the Argentine as well as in the United States. It is economic pressure and bad weather abroad which has rescued our farmers, not artificial meddling with prices by the Government.

Nor is the farmer as yet entirely out of the woods. Prices are still below the average cost of production. The tariff system still discriminates against him in favor of the industrial interests. His prosperity is still dependent upon a world economic situation which he sees our Government making but feeble efforts to improve. When, as is inevitable, administration spokesmen appear to claim credit for the rise in prices, he may be expected to greet their assertions with a considerable measure of skepticism.

NEWS REEL.

President Hoover accuses Navy League of disseminating "untruths and distortions of fact," and Secretary of the Navy Adams accuses World Peace Foundation of making statements "insidiously inimical to the United States"; Marceline (Mo.) doctor cancels $10,000 of bills owed by impoverished patients, and Government of Victoria, Australia, plans to pay part of doctor bills owed by impoverished farmers; Illinois Anti-Vivisection Society awards gold medal to dog that barked warning of night fire in apartment building, and Carnegie Hero Fund refuses medal to Bryan Untiedt, who helped save 14 other children from freezing to death in Colorado blizzard; baby weighing 16 pounds, 3 ounces is born at Brady, Tex., and baby weighing 1 pound, 13 ounces is born at Perth, Australia; 12-year-old boy at Asotin, Wash., gets life sentence for killing Sheriff, and 12-year-old Boston boy gets reward for giving warning that thwarted wreckers' attempt to derail express train; Mayor Miller proposes St. Louis bond issue including $100,000 to complete Civil Courts Building, on which $4,000,000 already has been spent, and Islip, L. I., has $15,000 left over after building town hall for which $220,000 was appropriated; Navy Department authorizes sister ship to dirigible Akron, largest in world, and War Department announces opening of homing pigeon service between St. Thomas and St. Johns, Virgin Islands, with 12 pairs of pigeons.

CHEAPENING OF THE RADIO.

We print in the letter column a protest against the cheapening of the radio, and we imagine it represents the views of many thousands of persons who at first hailed the radio with enthusiasm, but who now classify it as a form of nuisance. The Government should never have permitted so precious an instrument for the delight and education of the people to slip into private hands. It was inevitable, once that happened, that radio would suffer from all the evils of commercialization. While it is true that the national chain programs are frequently worthwhile and on occasion of great merit, the great bulk of the broadcasting consists of advertising talks padded out with the wearisome and degrading monotony of jazz music. What a shame that the greatest invention of the age has become merely a kind of noisy market place.

Radio orators are fond of referring to their "huge, unseen audiences," but we agree with our correspondent that, unless some improvement is made in radio programs, the orators may some day discover that the audiences have walked out on them. We have no idea how such improvement can be brought about unless radio broadcasting is put on an entirely different basis. Perhaps we shall yet come to the British idea, which is a system of Government control, financed by an annual fee on radio owners. One of the obstacles to that plan is the difficulty of collecting the fee, as was shown the other day when the British Government was forced to resort to a hoax in order to frighten owners into paying it.

Perhaps the British would not try to dodge the tax if they were forced for a time to endure commercialized programs. With the assurance of programs of artistic, educational and commercial merit in this country, we believe a large proportion of our jazz-ridden radio owners would be glad to pay a small tax. In any case, the subject is one which deserves discussion looking toward the utilization of this marvelous scientific achievement in a manner worthy of it.

A CHALLENGE TO THE DEMOCRATS.

Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire says he is apprehensive about the elections next year, as he well may be. Those "sons of wild jackasses" whom the Senator descried upon the horizon in the fight over the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill are brandishing their heels in a way to breed disquiet to all those who do business at Mr. Grundy's trading post.

There is a degree to which we share the Senator's apprehension. If someone like Newton D. Baker loomed larger upon the opposition horizon, we would have fewer misgivings that a Democratic landslide in 1932 might not mean very much to the country. Perhaps we shall know more about Gov. Roosevelt and some of the other Democratic aspirants before the national conventions are held. Unfortunately, we do not at the moment know very much about any of them. We are afraid that the type of man the country needs may have no better chance to lead the Democrats than a man like Senator Couzens has to lead the Republicans. Only Mr. Baker's type, so far as we can see, represents the fine Wilson tradition in the Democratic party.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's chances for the presidential nomination are lively not so much because he has proved himself to belong to the school of Jefferson as because he is a winner in New York. We do not withhold from him credit for the forward step he took last winter on the power issue, but that matter is entirely too formative to foresee what its popular value may be. The State might own the greatest of all hydro-electric plants on the St. Lawrence River, and still not be able to make electricity any cheaper than if the Power Trust generated it. The test of this matter in New York is like that at Muscle Shoals and Boulder Dam. If the State also distributes and sells the power, the operation will mean something. If, upon the other hand, the Power Trust distributes and sells the product of the St. Lawrence power plant, the whole thing could not mean anything more than that the people had invested $170,000,000 for the benefit of somebody like the New York Edison Co. To make a contract with a private distributer and fix rates in that contract would be ingenuous in the light of what happened to the Kansas City and New York transportation fare contracts. Neither stood the test of resort to the law of the land that the companies are entitled to a fair earning upon their valuation, no matter what contract they made, and the same thing would be true in a power contract.

The Democrats have only themselves to blame for the cloud they find themselves under as an opposition party at a time of great opportunity. They abandoned their traditional tariff position in the last presidential campaign to square themselves with the corporate interests behind Smith. When the fight came on the Hawley-Smoot tariff, they were on both sides. The traders had only to suggest to many of the Democrats that rayon needed protection in the South, that coal tar products needed protection in Missouri, that lumber needed protection on the Pacific coast and that sugar beets needed protection in the West, and party lines were wiped out. Many of the Democrats deserted the people, and in so doing they placed their party in the anomalous position in which we see it at a time when the Republicans, to use the picturesque expression of the race track tout in Henry Blossom's "Checkers," "could not beat a fat man up a hill."

The Democrats need to reconsecrate themselves to their faith. If they are to be an opposition party, they should be in opposition. They can never be so without the inspiration of a leader who is himself a believer in government for the people as opposed to government for the interests. They are at the moment eclipsed by the Republican insurgents, a paradoxical situation in which Senator Norris of Nebraska may be said to be the best Democrat among them. Less than a year is not much time in which to disentangle itself from privilege, but the Democratic party must do it if next year's elections are to mean anything to the country.

PRIZE WITTICISM.

Who the author is we do not know. We discovered it in the Glasgow (Mo.) Missourian and the Missourian credits it to the Clarence (Mo.) Independent Courier.

Question: Why is President Hoover called the "great engineer"?

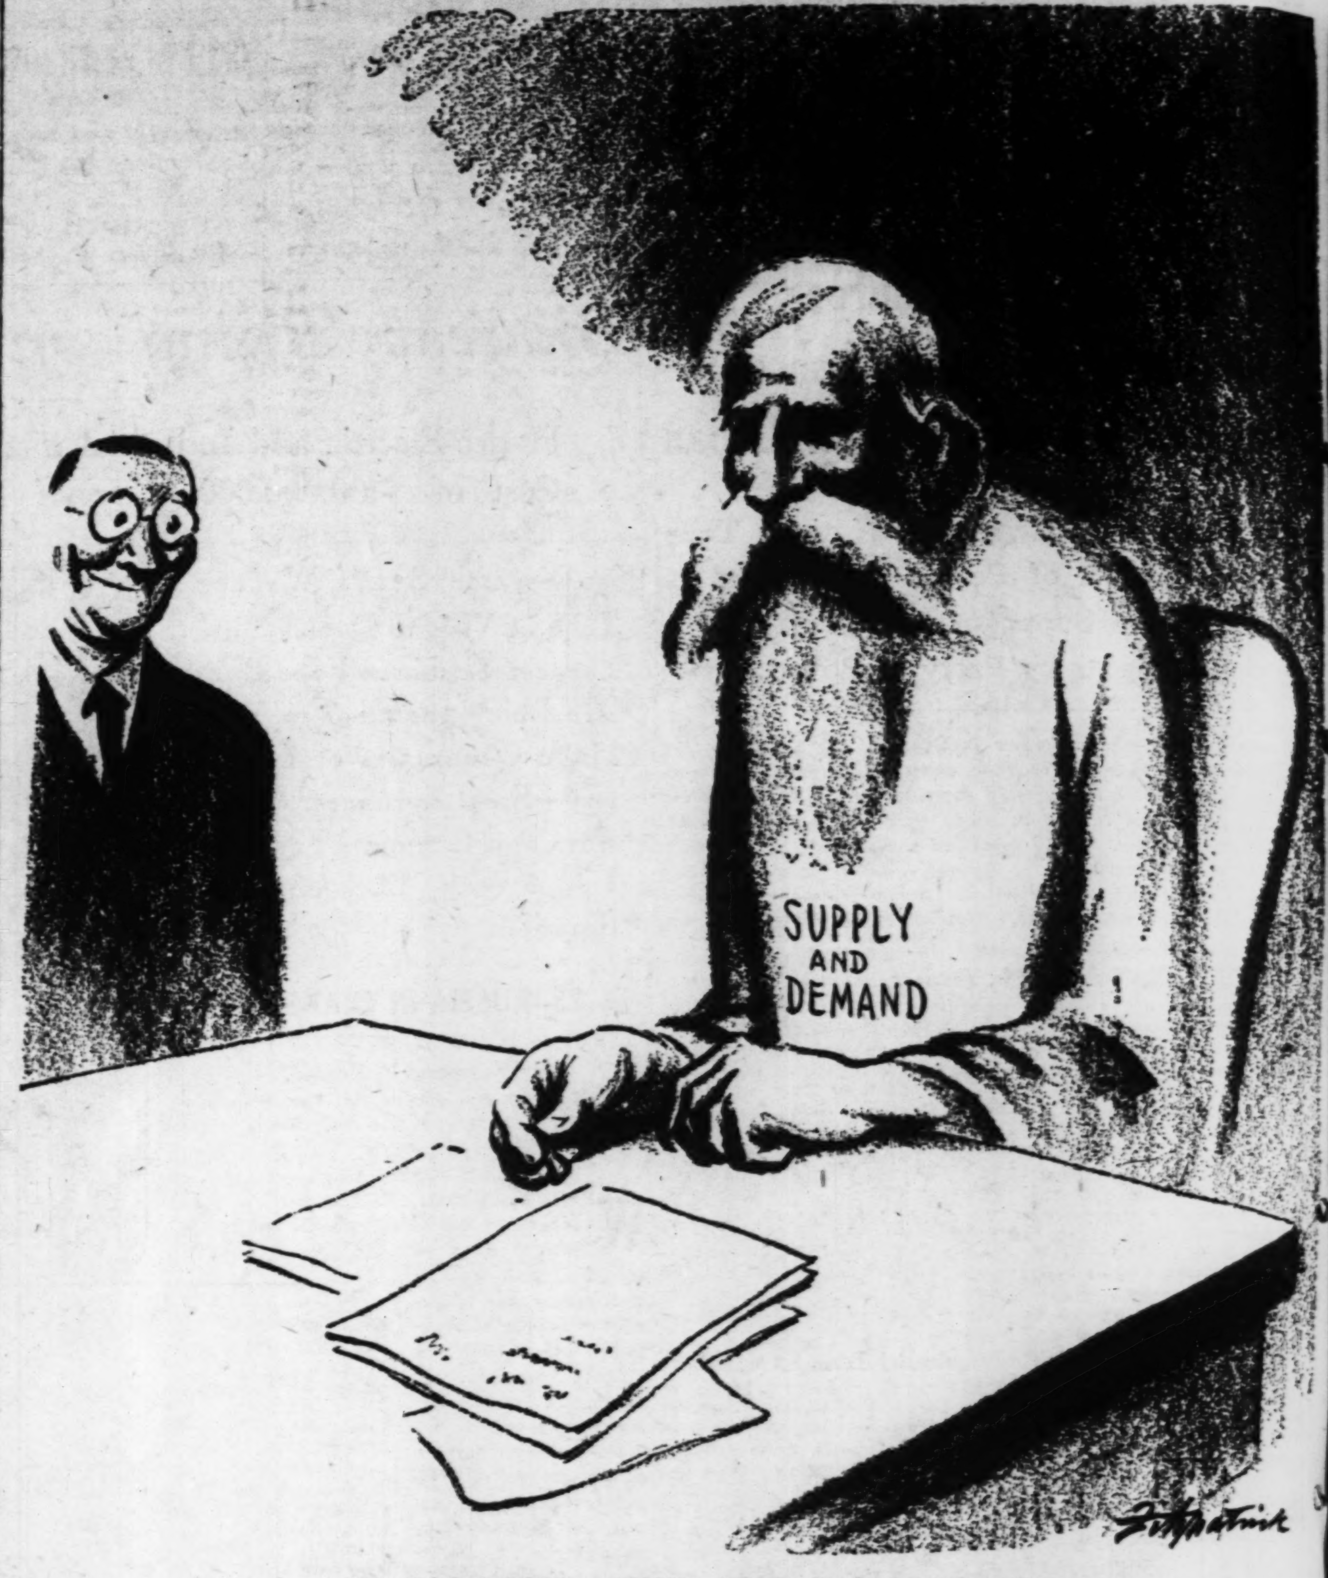
Answer: Because he dammed, drained and ditched the whole United States in two years.

SENATOR CARAWAY.

The United States Senate will be a less interesting body now that Thaddeus H. Caraway of Arkansas is dead. He rescued many a day from dullness, enlivened many a stodgy debate with the hypodermic of his wit. He never chose his adversaries. Necessarily the Republicans mostly carried the scars, but his fellow partisans on the Democratic side occasionally got in his way and never forgot the rueful occasion. Our own redoubtable Reed, whose epithets and irony and sardonic imagery were a sort of reign of terror, once engaged in a duel with the Senator from Arkansas, in whom he found a foeman worthy of his steel.

Men of such caliber and quality may not occupy much space in history, but they contribute importantly to their own times. They are, so to speak, the makers of news. With their color and fire and controversial wallops, they focus public attention on what is happening at Washington. They furnish inspiration to the writers of the news, and columns that otherwise were drowsily read, or passed over, are eagerly devoured.

There is character in such men. Mr. Caraway's career exemplifies it. He started from scratch. He progressed, step by step, strictly on his sinewy own. In Washington, first as a member of the House and for the last 11 years in the Senate, his talents have commanded recognition. He achieved with his ready wit and homely humor the difficult feat of filling the aching void left in the Senate by the passing of John Sharp Williams. The Arkansas Senator also had iron in him, as he proved in his stormy role as chairman of the Senate committee investigating the practices of Bishop Cannon and other arch artificers. His death at 60 is untimely. He was, as his colleague from Arkansas, Senator Robinson, has said, in the prime of his powers, a native of Missouri who was to distinguish himself in another State. Years of greater usefulness apparently lay ahead. His passing is a loss.



AN OLD-TIMER JOINS THE FARM BOARD.

Musings of a Militarist

Not armaments, but lack of them, leads to wars, writer says; nation that has an adequate force is not molested, but one with weak defenses is helpless as an enemy and useless as a friend; Manchurian situation is result of our naval weakness; Hoover, for reducing U. S. fleet, is termed "murderer of thousands of Chinese."

By Bildad the Shuhite.

The nom de plume attached to this article is that of a retired U. S. Army officer, now living in France.

THE interview between the President and Laval will doubtless be reported in the newspapers in terms of romantic fairy tales. When the disillusionment arrives, some pretty bad things are going to happen in America, in my opinion. I suggest that you reflect deeply on the realities of this situation. The results of this interview are going to affect us all, one way or another.

I think it extremely probable that an attempt will be made to blackmail France into reducing her armed force. Seeing that our own wretched and absurd situation is at least 50 per cent due to our lack of power to defend our own legitimate interests, and that the French army is all that stands between us and complete chaos, this appeals strongly to my sense of the ironical. If such an attempt is made, I think it stands little chance of success, but undoubtedly a refusal to accede to our demands would be followed by some action, supported by popular opinion, injurious to the interests of France, which is approaching a very difficult period.

The colossal impudence of meddling with the purely domestic concerns of another country adds, of course, to the strength of the emotions with which we are regarded by foreigners. The fact that our meddlings invariably are such as to work to our own disadvantage gives them added reason for believing that we are not only fools but lunatics.

The situation in Manchuria is the inevitable consequence of our naval weakness. You see, the possession of adequate force and a reputation for guarding one's own legitimate interests keeps certain questions from arising. In the absence of these, one is in a continual state of being all hot and bothered and in the end is forced to undertake aggressive operations or else surrender some vital necessity. For example, suppose some Power, European or Asiatic, purchases a naval base in South America. There are Powers that wish to buy and South American states that wish to sell. Everything open and aboveboard, and all parties friendly to the United States. What are we going to do about it? Make an unprovoked attack on one or both? If not, what is the alternative?

As long as we have some naval power, we don't have to worry over such questions; they simply don't arise. If, from 1914 on, we had had an adequate navy, we should not have had to worry about German—or Allied—outrages on our ships. The situation would not have arisen. The little countries like Holland and Denmark mobilized their forces in 1914, stated exactly what they would do if bothered and were treated with the greatest consideration throughout the war. They didn't have a series of affronts to worry about. They didn't have to make impossible decisions and finally take part in a war that didn't concern them, because they were capable of looking after their own interests and announced that they proposed to do so. Since the war, they have been much admired and respected.

The further reduction of the navy that has been proposed will, if carried out, insure war within five years. "And whom are we going to fight? Who in the world will attack us?" says the pacifist. Why, nobody at all. Simply a series of questions will arise and finally we shall find ourselves—as we did in 1917—in a situation where we must surrender our pretensions to independence or else make an attack ourselves on some other Power. It is naval power that keeps awkward questions from arising.

Once committed, we can improvise a sort of an army in eight months or so. No one can improvise a navy; it takes three years to build a fighting ship. "But suppose no one else has any fighting ships," says the pacifist. Why, then we should attack him with our merchant ships. The Power that is unarmed to the greatest extent and announces itself averse to self-defense must invariably be the aggressor with whatever means it possesses at the moment. Unarmed as we are now, we are helpless as an enemy and useless as a friend, to foreign countries.

In all the discussions of armaments, one trifling fact is overlooked: the existence of some 700,000,000 Asiatics who have a strong grudge against us, quite justified, and no sentimental illusions about the efficacy of force. In the interests of our particular civilization, any reduction of the British navy calls for an increase of ours, not a similar decrease.

Some day a great genius will arise in America and discover that there is a relationship between cause and effect. He will probably be lynched by the League of Protestant Denominations, the Women's Clubs and the Y. M. C. A. as an opponent of the free play of lofty ideals.

To those pacifists who say that America cannot be trusted with the forces necessary for its self-defense, there is, of course, no adequate answer. If their supposition is correct, the sooner we go out of existence the better. They may be right. I am far from certain. But I incline to the belief that among our people there is enough capacity for civilization, enough capacity for acquiring wisdom, so that one day we may hope to reach a point where we shall do less mischief in the world. If we ever become anything less than a positive and active danger to the world at large, we shall have made an enormous step in advance. Our country, with its potential wealth, its vast population of emotional and densely ignorant people, led by fantastic illusions of the mentally and emotionally unstable, is the greatest danger in the world to Western civilization.

The cornerstone of the pacifist fallacy is the belief that wars results from international disputes, rivalries and ambitions. Nothing could be more false. At what moment could a board of arbitration have intervened effectively in the case of the last European war, the Boer War, our Spanish War, the Franco-Prussian War—or any other in all history? Where boards or courts of arbitration have existed and functioned, they have done nothing that would not have been better done by ambassad in the normal exercise of their functions.

Can you give the real reason for any wa in history? Of course you can't, nor ca anyone else. Wars come: that is all on can say. Certain circumstances make i easier for wars to come than do others. These circumstances cannot be brought into existence or put out of existence by any deliberate act or scheme. They are a part of the pattern of human existence. If there is any assignable cause for war it is fear, though never the fear of armed attack; generally the fear of the deliberate or incidental upsetting of some arrangement t is considered essential to internal good order. How can any agency suppress fear or remove its causes?

Suppose all Europe were totally disarmed tonight. Tomorrow morning the dispossessed Germans would move back into Upper Silesia with Mayors, Magistrates, police, all complete, and proceed to administer the country. Same in the Tyrol, in Alsace, etc., etc. Who would stop them? The dispossessed functionaries and police would doubtless gather a mob and there would be a confused and aimless struggle of civilians that would lead to nothing and would lay the country waste. Is it possible that people at home do not realize these things?

There is only one possible result of deceiving one's self in this matter. There is more innocent blood on Wilson's hands than there was on Herod's; if the present policy continues, there will be more on Hoover's than on those of both together. Already, by the weakening of the fleet, he is the murderer of thousands of Chinese who never even heard his name.

Rail Labor Opens the Door

From the New York Herald Tribune.

THE invitation extended by labor to th railroad executives to discuss a cut i wages in conjunction with unemploy- ment relief appears, on the face of it, t be a fair one. The carriers, with som justification, consider the rates of wage they pay too high in view of the critic state of their finances and the reduced co of living. But there is another side to th question. Though their wage rates h remained where they were in the bo years of the last decade, the number o workers in their employ has diminished ma- terially. They have cut their pay rolls b recourse to the lay-off so that labor in th mass really receives much less at the hands than formerly.

The unions, of course, suffer from th method of economy quite as much as, if no more than, they would from a genera slash. In fact, it is evident now from the proposal that they would prefer some re- duction in wage rates, provided that at th same time the railroads would agree maintain a larger working force and th help in the solution of the unemployme problem. The public, too, would find re lief in a compromise along these line which eased the distress on both sides.

No doubt the railroad executives wi wish to arrive at a definite decision respecting the recent offer of the Interstate Commerce Commission before entering into negotiation with the unions. This offer contemplates a raise in specific freight rate on the condition that the increased revenu so derived be deposited in a common pool for distribution among those roads unable otherwise to meet their maturing obligations. But, having disposed of this question, these executives will be expected t respond favorably to labor's invitation o present very convincing reasons for declining it, reasons which do not now appear o the surface. The burden of proof rest with them.

DEMOCRATS TO FORM CLUB FOR DEARMONT

Membership List Circulated in St. Louis to Aid Campaign for Governorship.

The campaign of Senator Russell L. Dearmont of Cape Girardeau for the Democratic nomination for Governor began to take shape in St. Louis yesterday with preliminary steps toward the organization of a Dearmont Club. Fifty business men, bankers, lawyers and doctors signed the roll on the opening day.

The organization plans are under the direction of Kenneth Teasdale and R. F. O'Bryen. Teasdale is chairman for Missouri of the Victory Fund Committee of the Democratic National Committee, and is a member of the executive committee and former president of the Jefferson Club.

Teasdale said yesterday that the membership list for the club had not been extensively circulated, but that it would be open to all Democrats in St. Louis and St. Louis County. He said it was not the intention to attempt to make a showing of a membership of numbers only, but that instead it was the purpose to gather a membership of Democrats who have been active in the business and civic life in St. Louis as well as in politics.

It is expected that within a week or 10 days the club will elect officers.

On the list of members are former Supreme Judge Fred L. Williams, Circuit Judge James F. Green, former Circuit Judges Arthur V. Lashly, Fred L. English, William T. Jones and Rhodes E. Cave; Edward J. White, general counsel of the Missouri Pacific Lines; Henry N. Eversole and Benjamin A. Wood, Democratic nominees for Circuit Judges in St. Louis County in 1930; Dr. Charles E. Hyndman, president of the St. Louis Medical Society; Gale F. Johnston, chairman of the Community Fund; W. Frank Carter, John G. Lonsdale, president to the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co.; Guy N. Hitchcock, vice-president of the Mercantile-Commerce National Bank; William Berberich, W. Scott Hancock, Francis M. Curlee, Thomas S. McPheeters, John C. Hall, Ernest A. Green, Kenneth Teasdale, R. F. O'Bryen, J. Porter Henry, Jacob M. Lashly, Samuel H. Lieberman, Earl F. Nelson, John F. Green, J. D. McCutcheon, Fred A. Reid, George A. McNulty, Wayne Ely, William H. Biggs, Roscoe Anderson, Thomas T. Railey, J. W. McAfee, Charles H. Stix, E. K. Hagemann, R. E. Shumaker, James M. Douglas, George D. Markham, C. L. Shotwell, Sidney Shotwell, J. Thomas Wright, Samuel A. Mitchell, W. C. Connett, Dr. Howard O. Rusk, Thomas J. Cole and Thomas N. Dysart.

rebel. In Central Europe communism is advancing with great strides. Should the depression of industry continue unrelieved, with resulting further strain on the national finances of these countries, growing unemployment and extended retrenchments, economies and taxation burdens, there is the gravest danger that the constitutional stability of these countries will founder, and Central Europe drift into an uncharted sea of chaos, revolution and experimentation.

The key to the situation lies in disarmament, and a settlement of the problems of international indebtedness. Remove the peril of armed warfare, and the economic antagonisms that thrive on international distrust will be dissipated. For example, the biggest group of tariffs maintained by this country is our series of "Key Industry" duties: economic armaments, designed to maintain at an efficient level in Great Britain those manufactures which would be vital for military requirements in the event of war.

First Remedy Is Clear.

If armaments were abolished, and therewith the threat of scientifically equipped slaughter as a means of settling international disputes, these barriers to commerce would lose their raison d'etre.

Today, in one country that unemployed march past warehouses crammed with surplus food or clothing, while in another the people hunger and go ill-clad. If the sluggish stream of international commerce were made to flow swiftly once more, plenty could be sent to relieve want, and hands now idle could be usefully busy in making goods to settle the account. It is of immense importance to find solutions to the many problems of currency and exchange, but deeper than these issues is the question whether we can infuse the nations with a spirit of friendship and mutual co-operation without which any effort to settle mere superficial financial difficulties is doomed to frustration. Can they agree together to lay aside their arms? If so, there is hope for Europe and the world.

DEMOCRATS TO FORM CLUB FOR DEARMONT

Membership List Circulated in St. Louis to Aid Campaign for Governorship.

The campaign of Senator Russell L. Dearmont of Cape Girardeau for the Democratic nomination for Governor began to take shape in St. Louis yesterday with preliminary steps toward the organization of a Dearmont Club. Fifty business men, bankers, lawyers and doctors signed the roll on the opening day.

The organization plans are under the direction of Kenneth Teasdale and R. F. O'Bryen. Teasdale is chairman for Missouri of the Victory Fund Committee of the Democratic National Committee, and is a member of the executive committee and former president of the Jefferson Club.

Teasdale said yesterday that the membership list for the club had not been extensively circulated, but that it would be open to all Democrats in St. Louis and St. Louis County. He said it was not the intention to attempt to make a showing of a membership of numbers only, but that instead it was the purpose to gather a membership of Democrats who have been active in the business and civic life in St. Louis as well as in politics.

It is expected that within a week or 10 days the club will elect officers.

On the list of members are former Supreme Judge Fred L. Williams, Circuit Judge James F. Green, former Circuit Judges Arthur V. Lashly, Fred L. English, William T. Jones and Rhodes E. Cave; Edward J. White, general counsel of the Missouri Pacific Lines; Henry N. Eversole and Benjamin A. Wood, Democratic nominees for Circuit Judges in St. Louis County in 1930; Dr. Charles E. Hyndman, president of the St. Louis Medical Society; Gale F. Johnston, chairman of the Community Fund; W. Frank Carter, John G. Lonsdale, president to the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co.; Guy N. Hitchcock, vice-president of the Mercantile-Commerce National Bank; William Berberich, W. Scott Hancock, Francis M. Curlee, Thomas S. McPheeters, John C. Hall, Ernest A. Green, Kenneth Teasdale, R. F. O'Bryen, J. Porter Henry, Jacob M. Lashly, Samuel H. Lieberman, Earl F. Nelson, John F. Green, J. D. McCutcheon, Fred A. Reid, George A. McNulty, Wayne Ely, William H. Biggs, Roscoe Anderson, Thomas T. Railey, J. W. McAfee, Charles H. Stix, E. K. Hagemann, R. E. Shumaker, James M. Douglas, George D. Disarm or Crash

rebel. In Central Europe communism is advancing with great strides. Should the depression of industry continue unrelieved, with resulting further strain on the national finances of these countries, growing unemployment and extended retrenchments, economies and taxation burdens, there is the gravest danger that the constitutional stability of these countries will founder, and Central Europe drift into an uncharted sea of chaos, revolution and experimentation.

The key to the situation lies in disarmament, and a settlement of the problems of international indebtedness. Remove the peril of armed warfare, and the economic antagonisms that thrive on international distrust will be dissipated. For example, the biggest group of tariffs maintained by this country is our series of "Key Industry" duties: economic armaments, designed to maintain at an efficient level in Great Britain those manufactures which would be vital for military requirements in the event of war.

First Remedy Is Clear.

If armaments were abolished, and therewith the threat of scientifically equipped slaughter as a means of settling international disputes, these barriers to commerce would lose their raison d'etre.

Today, in one country that unemployed march past warehouses crammed with surplus food or clothing, while in another the people hunger and go ill-clad. If the sluggish stream of international commerce were made to flow swiftly once more, plenty could be sent to relieve want, and hands now idle could be usefully busy in making goods to settle the account. It is of immense importance to find solutions to the many problems of currency and exchange, but deeper than these issues is the question whether we can infuse the nations with a spirit of friendship and mutual co-operation without which any effort to settle mere superficial financial difficulties is doomed to frustration. Can they agree together to lay aside their arms? If so, there is hope for Europe and the world.

Biggest Thing on Soviet Program

sians. The weather is so inclement during December, January, February and March that little can be done in those months. The work on the dam and power house is already behind the schedule because of labor shortage and the lack of supplies. American engineers in Russia point out that this lack of co-ordination is costing and will continue to cost the Government millions of dollars. The Russians reply that they can increase the tempo of the workers and get jobs finished on schedule time. In rare instances, such as Stalingrad, this has happened, but at a woeful cost in quality of the work. When the writer visited the steel and aluminum plants there was no evidence that the workers were going at the maximum tempo.

The Labor Problem.

Dnieprostroy has had its share of labor shortages, probably more than other projects because it is in an agricultural region. The unskilled labor, recruited from the farms, insist on leaving their industrial work during the planting and harvesting seasons, just when they are needed at Dnieprostroy. The pay for unskilled labor—it is all on a piecework basis—ranges from 70 to 90 roubles a month. This apparently has not been enough to keep the workers on the job. The mob of poor workers which jammed the railroad station at Zaropozhie was evidence that all was not well at Dnieprostroy.

There has not been so much trouble with the skilled and semiskilled labor. The Russians attribute this to the class consciousness of these advanced workers. The writer suspects it is because they get higher wages and better living accommodations. The skilled steel workers receive from 150 to 200 roubles a month, the skilled builders from 130 to 150 roubles and the unskilled builders from 90 to 100 roubles. The salaries of Russian specialists range from 750 to 1000 roubles a month. This compensation can be augmented by bonuses averaging between 100 and 200 roubles. The management was planning this summer to adopt a progressive bonus system for the skilled and unskilled piece workers.

These wages and salaries, of course, do not compare favorably with the compensation of ordinary workers at the Boulder Canyon Dam. It is the writer's contention, however, that it is unfair to compare Russian conditions with American conditions, despite the fact that uninformed Communist propagandists do that very thing. Present day Russian conditions should be compared with past Russian conditions. By that standard the Russian workers today are better off than they were before the war, and with the exception of the worker-peasants who feel the call of the soil, they are content.

Planning Comforts for Workers.

The housing program at Dnieprostroy was getting under way this summer. Between 1927 and 1930 the Dnieprostroy management built 1610 housing units for the workers. These were mostly temporary barracks and rude, semi-permanent homes. This summer concrete apartments from three to eight stories were under construction. These apartments were above the flood line and will be permanent.

The model socialistic city will be called New Zaropozhie until it is renamed for a prominent Communist. Like the new cities at Nizni-Novgorod and Chelyabinsk, it will be a garden city, with half its area in public parks and wide boulevards. The apartment houses, it is said, will have all the modern conveniences, including mechanical kitchens equipped with electrical apparatus. Street cars and auto busses will carry the workers from their homes to the industrial plants. Along the banks of the Dnieper there will be sanatoriums and rest homes for the workers.

The "Combinat" is expected to be running at normal capacity in 1933. By that time 40,000 workers and their dependents will be supported by the nine great turbines in the Dnieper River. Coal for the metallurgical plant will come from the Donetz basin; ore will be transported from Krivoi Rog and the Marganetz. Raw materials for the ferro-alloy plant will come from Krivoi Rog, Marganetz and the far-off Urals. The by-products of the metallurgical works will be used in the slag and cement plants, together with clay and limestone found in the immediate vicinity.

It may be that lack of co-ordination will hold up the work to some degree, that the expected output of the plants will not be up to schedule. Nevertheless, the "Combinat" will be producing in a locality which five years ago was the site of a small village. Muscle Shoals has been generating electrical current longer than that and all the American people have received for their expenditures has been two to four mills a kilowatt hour for th current sold to the Alabama Power Co., and a bitter fight between Congress and the President over the permanent use of the "white elephant."

Charges Cuba Is Ruled by Usurper

Cubans to lose their lives in mysterious fashion and forced many others to flee the country.

Suspension of Newspapers.

The Government without a shadow of right to sustain it has suppressed newspapers and periodicals. It has interrupted or broken up many public meetings of the Opposition, labor unions, students and other social groups. In other words, the Government has utilized every means at its command to intimidate or trample under foot its political opponents. It had made use of both the police force and the national army in this work of suppression.

What the opposition wants the United States to know is that the Constitution has been constantly violated; that the right of suffrage has been suppressed; that the electoral census has been falsified; that the rights of association and assembly have been annulled as have the free expression of thought and all the other individual rights which the Constitution guarantees. Moreover, life, property and individual liberty have been and still are placed in jeopardy by the selfsame authorities who should guarantee them.

When in November we asked to have the illegal election suspended, Machado declared that a suspension of the election would be equivalent to a coup d'etat. How remarkable that he who finds himself in authority through a coup d'etat should have scruples about the suspension of a sham election in order that a coup d'etat may not be brought about by such a suspension.

All of the happenings described here brought about a situation of such violence in Cuba that the leaders of the opposition realized, even if they had not been secretly informed, that they would soon be placed in military prisons. Convinced by the attitude of Machado and his supporters that no pacific means of settlement were possible, they decided that revolutionary means only were left at their disposal and immediately put them into effect.

Failure of Revolution.

Lack of sufficient preparation; the misfortune of which Gen. Menocal and Col. Mendieta were the victims; treachery and the absence of means of uniting their supporters in the field produced the failure of this movement. All that happened then is well known in the United States and it is unnecessary to repeat.

Since the failure of the uprising the tyranny of Machado has increased to a degree beyond words. Cuba for a long time has had all of its constitutional guarantees in suspension and remains under martial law two months after the end of the revolt.

In the Cuban constitution there exists rights which shall never be suspended but Machado has suspended them in fact. He has disregarded absolutely the jurisdiction of the civil courts in that he has repeatedly refused to remove from military courts cases which can be heard only in civil courts. Persons are in prison held incommunicado. Such persons are not permitted visitors nor any communication with their families, friends or attorneys. When the latter attempt to bring legal action in behalf of their clients they are menaced with imprisonment themselves.

Many men have disappeared from their homes without their families having any news about them other than terrible rumors, and many others have had to flee to foreign countries to save themselves from the persecution of the minions of Machado.

Machado has thrown into prison not only men but women and girls and boys, formerly students of the universities, colleges and schools which the Government has kept closed for more than a year.

Objects of Opposition.

The Opposition has not and does not solicit the intervention of the United States. But the continuance of the relationship between the United States Government and Machado since May 20, 1929, when through the coup d'etat previously referred to Machado maintained himself in office, has facilitated his lamentable activities and his ever-increasing tyranny over Cuba. Because of this maintained relationship he has been able to obtain loans in the United States.

What the Opposition desires is that the people of the United States will not continue to consider Machado the constitutional President of Cuba, because he is not and that the moral or material support of this great and democratic nation be no longer extended to him. If after all this he does not facilitate the re-establishment of a democratic Government in Cuba, leaving the task to nonpartisan persons, the Cuban people, no matter how opposed they are to the use of violent methods, must decide some day to engage in one last and definite revolution against Machado and his oligarchy.

Various other educational officials will speak at the general sessions and at the divisional meetings. On Friday 29 different department programs will be held at hotels, churches and schools.

Musical features at the meetings will be presented by St. Louis school choruses and orchestras and by an orchestra made up of high school students from over the entire State. Karl E. Webb will conduct the all-State orchestra.

The convention will vote on a proposal to abandon the annual State meeting, which is alternately held in Kansas City and St. Louis, for six annual district meetings.

The Missouri State Teachers' Association is the oldest organization of its kind west of the Mississippi River and one of the oldest in the United States. It has a membership of 23,000 and maintains its own building at Columbia.

RETAILERS IN VATICAN STATE

By the Associated Press.

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 7.—Retail trade soon will invade the Vatican state. Two six-story buildings with workmen's flats in the upper floors and 20 shops on the street level are to be erected in the Via della Zecca. The structures will replace old houses formerly occupied by workmen and minor employes.

The stores will be the first within the Pope's domain. Hitherto there has been here only a commissary which sold a restricted variety of articles on certain days at certain hours, only to citizens of the tiny papal state.

Giving the family a clean bill of financial health

CURE the family's financial ills, as scientifically, as conscientiously, as a physician works to restore the family's health. . . . That is the responsibility of the family finance business, as its leader, Household, views it.

. . . THIS organization has never considered the small loan as a patent medicine, a cure-all for economic ills. A financial doctor, licensed by the state, it diagnoses the family's money troubles and suggests the best remedy, whether or not it entails the making of a small loan.

. . . HOUSEHOLD has sponsored a widespread campaign to encourage families to pay their bills; it helps them to get out of debt; it advises with them on ways and means to keep out of debt; it publishes and distributes widely the booklet "Money Management for Households" that counsels as soundly on the budgeting of the family's income, and its wise expenditure, as authoritative books on health advise on the family's physical well-being.

. . . THIS is not philanthropy. It is not even unselfishness. The responsibilities of the Household Finance organization have grown far beyond the making of a few scattered loans. Last year, Household served more than 330,000 families. Its 147 offices in 89 principal cities will serve even a larger number this year.

. . . TO THESE families, amounts up to $300 have been loaned, without the requirements for bankable collateral, without co-signers, and without investigations among the family's friends, employers, creditors, or landlords.

. . . THE only physical security asked is household goods, which are seldom negotiable. The only signatures asked are those of husband and wife. The chief security is the financial soundness of the family and its ability to repay the loan as it works its way out of debt.

. . . WHEN the American family's economic ills become aggravated, Household's security suffers. Consequently it is business, good business, for Household, with its hand on the pulse of hundreds of thousands, to fulfill intelligently its obligation as financial doctors to American families.

MONEY MANAGEMENT FOR HOUSEHOLDS, a helpful booklet on budgeting family income, leading to the happiness of financial security, is offered without charge to all. Telephone, call, or write for a copy.

Spain Seeks New Anthem.

MADRID, Nov. 7.—The old Spanish national anthem and the French Marseillaise which is widely popular, are not appropriate as the national hymn of republican Spain, the Council of Public Instruction feels, so it has organized a prize contest in which the country's amateur and professional composers will be asked to provide a new anthem.

"Schwanda the Bagpiper" Goes to Highly Modern Hell

Jaromir, Weinberger's Opera, Popular for Four Years in Europe, Well Done in New York Premiere.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Schwanda, the bagpiper of Stakoniz, went to hell through a Metropolitan Opera House trapdoor at 3:14 p. m. today, and a good time was had by all.

The American premiere of Jaromir Weinberger's "Schwanda, the Bagpiper," which has been delighting Europe for four years, was decked out in lavish scenic habiliments by Joseph Urban.

Besides Friederich Schorr as Schwanda, Maria Mueller as his wife and Rudolf Laubenthal as the robber chieftain Babinsky, there were crowds of devils, imps, peasants and villagers that sang, danced and scampered to the merry music of Weinberger's modern score.

Hell a la Urban turned out to be quite a place. There was a background of licking flames, and clouds of steam. There was a telephone switchboard whose lights blinked purple and pink and peach. There was a typewriter on which the Devil's amanuensis busily typed ultimatums to sinners; and some cynical soul of a stage director had the quaintness to place even a sewing machine in the glare of the infernal flames.

The fable is constructed around the theme of music's magic power. Schwanda, a simple fellow who plays a mean bagpipe, starts out to see the world, leaving his wife behind. His music brings gayety to the court of Queen Ice Heart, but just as Schwanda and the Queen plan to get married, Schwanda's wife walks in and all is chaos. Queen Ice Hearts decides to have Schwanda beheaded, but he is saved by the expedient of turning the executioner's ax into a broom.

Schwanda's wife then charges Schwanda with kissing the Queen, and the piper declares that if the Queen ever kissed him, "may the Devil take me on the spot." The Devil does, and thus the first of the two acts ends.

There follows the fascinating scene in hell, rich in comedy and brilliant with ballet. Schwanda, about to be put on the spit, is saved by a game of cards in which Schwanda's pal, Badinsky, wins from the Devil.

Schwanda, his bagpipes and Badinsky, leave hell in an elevator which drops accommodatingly from the flies; and there remains only a brief final scene back at Schwanda's farm to wind up the performance on a note of pleasant choir and rustic exurberance.

The performance was well sung. Arthur Bodansky directed.

BANK HOLDUP JURY STILL OUT

Case of Jack Britt in Hands of Panel Two Days.

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 7.—The verdict in the trial of Jack Britt, East St. Louis man, charged with helping rob the Lincoln National Bank of $2,500,000 last year, still rested tonight in the hands of the District Court jury which had considered his case more than 48 hours.

Judge Fred Shepherd said he hadn't decided how long to keep the jurors, but told them to write him a note if they wanted additional instructions. Britt's trial started Monday. Two other East St. Louisans, Thomas O'Connor and Howard Lee, were convicted recently on the same charge. O'Connor was sentenced to 25 years. No penalty has been imposed on Lee yet.

Following her appearance early last season with Miss Hart in "Mother's Millions," Miss Robson went directly to Hollywood, where she made several successful talking pictures. She returns to St. Louis from these engagements in the cinema headquarters.

Appearing in support of the visiting star will be Pierre Watkin, Dorothea Chard, Yvonne Stebbins, Clara Palmer, Edward Butler, Kenneth Burton and other members of Miss Hart's resident company.

Miss Robson, whose creation of comedy character roles has carried her all over the world, is celebrating her forty-eighth year on the stage. She was born in Australia but attended school in Paris. She went on the stage at an early age.

The story of "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" concerns a lovable old maid whose sweetheart deserted her in earlier life. To make up for this loss she spends her time getting a young nephew out of scrapes and trying to make his love affair more successful than her own.

James Bush, a juvenile leading man, who has appeared with the veteran actress in a number of her most successful plays, is here to play with her again in "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary."

THE comedy at the Midtown, "The Best of Families," is all about a respectable New York household which finds a baby on its doorstep. A note says that the unknown mother of the child wants the youngster "to be with its father," which is enough to bring every male member of the family under suspicion. The situations which develop are said to be exceedingly funny, but in the end things turn out all right without any reputations being blasted.

All of the Woodward Players will be in the cast, which is a large one. Heading the list will, of course, be Miss Whitmore, Frank Jaquet and George Barnes, and among the others will be Henry Irving, Dorothy Lord, Alice Baker, Garth Rogers, Duane Thompson and Frank Hetterick.

"The Best of Families" was written by Anita Hart and had a successful run at the Bijou Theater in New York some years ago.

THE visit of Walter Hampden and Fay Bainter in the revival of Barrie's "The Admirable Crichton," originally scheduled for the American Theater on Nov. 18, has been deferred until later in the season. This attraction, now playing in Chicago, moves on to Detroit in two weeks and then goes East to play several cities before a swing that will take it South and West.

This leaves the American, for the time being, without any stage attraction until the arrival of the Stratford-upon-Avon Shakspeare Festival Company, Nov. 30. Each summer this organization appears at the Shakspeare Memorial Theater in Stratford-upon-Avon in a long repertory of Shakspeare's plays, presented as nearly as possible in the manner in which the author intended them to be acted. The director of the Memorial Theater, D. Bridges Adams, personally supervised the productions and they will be given in St. Louis with exactly the same equipment of costumes and scenery as at the Memorial Theater, Stratford.

This season's repertoire includes "A Winter's Tale," "King Lear," "The Merry Wives of Windsor," "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "King Henry the Fourth" (Part One), "The Taming of the Shrew," "Twelfth Night" and "As You Like It."

The Drama Association of St. Louis will present as their first attraction this season, Channing Pollock's recent New York success, "The House Beautiful," for a week at the Shubert, opening Monday night, Nov. 16. The cast is headed by Ethel Intropidi and John Griggs.

Ritz and Uptown Combination.

Contracts entitling the Ritz Theater on South Grand boulevard at Juniata street, and the newly opened Uptown Theater on Delmar boulevard just east of Kingshighway, to the exclusive second-run presentation of all Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and United Artists films are now being drawn up for the signatures of Louis Ansell and George Bowser, owners of the theaters.

Resident Companies' Field

Orpheum, With May Robson as Visiting Star in "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," and the Woodward Players in "The Best of Families" Without Opposition From the Legit Houses This Week—Dreyfus Case Film at American.

BOTH the American and Shubert leave the drama field to the resident companies at the Orpheum and Midtown this week for the Shubert has no attractions booked until a week from tomorrow night and the American goes into a week of motion pictures with an offering of "The Dreyfus Case," starting this afternoon. The Woodward Players, at the Midtown, also this afternoon, begin a week's showing of "The Best of Families," while Mary Hart, down at the Orpheum, has brought back May Robson to appear, for two weeks, starting tonight, in "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," one of Miss Robson's stage successes which she has lately made into a film out on the coast.

Schiller's First Play To Be Given Tonight

THE birthday of the German poet Friedrich von Schiller will be celebrated tonight by the German Theater Stock Company by giving "Die Raeuber," the first play, written by Schiller, while still a student at a military school.

"The Robbers" was written at the time of the French Revolution, the ideals of which had spread into Germany. The play fitted into the times, but caused many troubles for the poet. While it is not one of the best works of Schiller, it nevertheless has become one dear to all Germans for reason of the principle of freedom and liberty advocated in same.

The German departments of Washington University, St. Louis University and of all the various high schools in St. Louis and vicinity have been invited to attend this performance tonight in the Auditorium of the German House, 2345 Lafayette avenue. Members of the "Eden Club," a well-known singing society of German-Americans, have volunteered to sing the "Song of the Robbers," which forms part of the play.

The Week's New Films

—:— By NIE —:—

MAYBE you didn't know it but The Peanut Vender was the national anthem of Cuba back in 1917. It was also "The Cuban Love Song" as you can see, and hear, in the film of that name at Loews Theater. Lawrence Tibbett sings it, Lupe Velez sings it, the Cuban bands play it and the American Marines, who just happened to be loafing around, waiting for the Big War to start, sang it, too. As a matter of fact nothing much else was done in Mr. Tibbett's latest starring picture—that is, nothing worth while. The story is all about a society man with a swell voice who got into the Marines, somehow, three years before the war and then fell in love with Whoopee Lupe at a time when he happened to be engaged to an American girl. Came the war which brought a halt in Larry's private affairs while he played a big part in doing baritone arias in No Man's Land. With the world safe for the Democrats Tibbett leaves the Marines flat and goes to Cuba to look for his girl friend. She is dead by this time but Larry finds a boy whom he recognizes at once as his son when, believe it or not, he hears the kid singing The Peanut Vender. So everything ends happily for the publishers of the music.

A Voice From the Grave.

BOB WILLIAMS, one of the most promising of the young screen actors, who died out in Hollywood just the other day, lifted "Platinum Blonde," at the Ambassador, into the class of the fine films of the year. It was Williams' last screen effort, for the picture was hardly out of the cutting room before he was overtaken by the sudden illness which ended his career. The story is more or less conventional, being about a newspaper man who marries money when the girl he really needed—and got, at the finish—was a sob sister sitting right next to him in his office. The lines are bright and snappy, however, and the piece is excellent fun throughout. The title, by the way, has nothing to do with the picture. It just happens that the rich gal is played by the molasses-haired Jean Harlow, so they called it "Platinum Blonde." Another screen blonde, Alice White, is taking part in the Ambassador's stage show and doing a good job of it, too.

Madame X Is Back.

WE had been led to believe that "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," at the Fox, was a great picture. One, we were misinformed, which the regular customers might not care for, but with a tremendous appeal to the intelligentsia—if any. Perhaps we just aren't in that class, for the story of a mother who goes wrong and is saved in her old age by her son, who doesn't know who she is, seemed, to us, to be smothered under a mass of crude and stupid conversation. The picture belongs, almost entirely, to Helen Hayes, splendid stage actress, who is making her debut in the big-money circles of Hollywood with this picture. Her performance is excellent throughout and the manner in which she grows, from a young girl into a broken-down old woman, is a triumph for the art of make-up, but, otherwise, Madelon's sin was not very interesting.

Getting Her Man.

ANN HARDING, another pretty stage actress gone Hollywood, plays an old woman, too, in "Devotion" at the St. Louis. But this old dame wasn't on the level. You see, Ann fell in love with the rising young London barrister, Leslie Howard, and, in order to be near him, she puts on a wig, a pair of spectacles and a cockney dialect and becomes the governess of his young son. Her makeup wouldn't have fooled any one but a screen leading man and finally, even Leslie tumbles. He loves her, too, but there is a little matter of a prior wife to be disposed of which carries the film into some extra reels before it can end happily. Robert Williams is in this picture, also, but the best part of the St. Louis' show is the vaudeville headed by the amusing Daphne Pollard and the comic, if some times rough, Shaw and Lee.

Stars and Stripes Forever.

THE way to settle the gangster question in the U. S. A. is to call out the G. A. R. Chic Sale is a veteran who is still fighting the battle of Bull Run in "The Star Witness" at the Missouri, and when the hoodlums get in his way he runs over them, rough shod, and shows more timid 100 per cent Americans how to rid the cities of the trouble-makers. Sale plays the part of a witness in a murder trial who just can't be intimidated and the story is entertaining from start to finish with comedy and meller well blended. His portrayal of an old soldier is really a classic. The Missouri's other feature, done in color, is a tale of a Broadway chorine who goes husband hunting among the very rich. It is called "The Runaround."

Albert Spalding Violin Soloist For Week's Symphony Concerts

ALBERT SPALDING, foremost American violinist, will play the Gregoriano Concerto of Otterino Respighi as soloist of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra's concerts at the Odeon next Friday afternoon and Saturday evening. The work is new to St. Louis, and is said to be of great interest and beauty.

Inspired by the purity of the music in the old Gregorian chants, Respighi—modern of modern—has developed a concerto in a manner in which the solo role of the violin corresponds in a fashion to that of the cantor, and the orchestral ensemble to that of the choir of believers.

Spalding is as American as baseball—comes, indeed, from the well-known baseball family. For 25 years he has held high position among the concert artists of Europe and America. This visit to the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra as soloist is his seventh, but he has appeared with the New York Symphony 36 times, with the Chicago orchestra 19 times, with Boston 10 and with the New York Philharmonic 10 times and with Philadelphia seven.

The "Benvenuto Cellini" overture of Berlioz will open the program, which has for its major work the "Eroica" symphony of Beethoven. The complete program is:

Overture to "Benvenuto Cellini" . . . Berlioz
Concerto Gregoriano, for violin and orchestra . . . . Respighi
I—Andante tranquillo: Allegro molto moderato.
II—Andante espressivo e sostenuto.
III—Finale (Allelulia).
Mr. Spalding.
(First time in St. Louis.)
Symphony No. 3 in E-Flat major, Op. 55 (Eroica") . . . . Beethoven
I—Allegro con brio.
II—Marcia funebre: Adagio assai.
III—Scherzo: Allegro vivace: Trio.
IV—Finale: Allegro molto.

"One of the Family," a three-act comedy, will be presented by the Aquinas Club of St. Thomas of Aquin Church, Tuesday evening at Swiss Hall, Iowa avenue and Arsenal street. The cast is being directed by Edward L. Butler.

Dreyfus Case Film Comes to American

"THE Dreyfus Case," a widely heralded motion picture which will have a showing at the American Theater for a week beginning today, is an adaptation of the play by Herzog and Rehfisch, with Cedric Hardwicke, a well known English actor, playing the role of Captain Alfred Dreyfus, the French Artillery Officer. Beatrix Thomson plays the role of Mme. Dreyfus.

"The Dreyfus Case" as a play, accents a love story that, while it did not break into the headlines as did the stories of Dreyfus' arrest, trial, retrial and finally his rehabilitation, nevertheless was an important factor in the 12 years' fight to prove the innocence of a man sentenced to Devil's Island for treason.

Leading figures in the picture are such famous people as Emile Zola, Georges Clemenceau, Bertillon, Colonel Picquart, General Mercier, Major De Paty du Clam, Boisdeffre, Labori, Mathieu Dreyfus and the real traitor, Major Esterhazy.

"The Dreyfus Case" will be shown four times daily at the American, at 1, 3, 7 and 9.

Art League to Do Five Productions

The St. Louis Art League announces as the program of its dramatic work this winter a subscription season of five plays. Three of these plays are by St. Louis playwrights and have never been produced on any stage, two are by foreign dramatists and have never been produced in this country. The foreign plays were translated and adapted by St. Louis dramatists.

Among the plays considered for production is a drama of Mexico by Frederico Camboa, a dramatization of one of Fannie Hurst's most characteristic stories, a comedy by Jasmine Stone Van Dresser, a serious play by Mrs. Virgil Rule and a drama by Herman Heijermans.

Oscar Wilde Play By Dramatic League

The first program of the season under the auspices of the Dramatic League of St. Louis will be given Friday night in the auditorium at Soldan High School.

The evening will be devoted to three one-act plays. "Lady Windemere's Fan" by Oscar Wilde, directed by Mrs. Martin Huber of Highland, Ill., will be presented by the Highland Players of Highland, Ill. An original play, "Aunt Fannie's Fortune," written by Genevieve Knapp McConnell, a St. Louis woman, will be given and another play by the Dramatic League players, will end the evening's performance.

Pollock to Speak Here on the Drama

Channing Pollock, author of the play, "The House Beautiful," and other dramas, will speak on the drama Wednesday morning at Lindenwood College, Thursday evening at the Town Club, Friday morning at 10 o'clock at Washington University, and Friday night at United Hebrew Temple.

To Play "The Cradle Song."

"The Cradle Song," by G. Martinez Sierra will be presented Nov. 17 at 8 o'clock, by the Loretto Players of Webster College, in the College auditorium. This is the second production of the play by the Loretto Players, they having played it last November.

Movie Stars and the Legit

Theater Managers Not at Home to the Cinema Celebrities This Season After Several Unprofitable Ventures—Headliners Have Done Better in Vaudeville, But the Picture Houses Are Demanding New Economies and a Drive in That Direction Is Under Way.

ALICE WHITE, in person, on the stage at the Ambassador this week and Daphne Pollard out at the St. Louis. Last week the latter house had Fifi D'Orsay and Edward G. Robinson, Estelle Taylor and other film stars have been seen lately and more are on their way. Most of 'em do pretty well in vaudeville where little is expected of them. This is not true in the case of Miss Pollard, who was an experienced and successful vaudevillian before she went into the films, but some of the others simply parade their personalities as an excuse for drawing down big money.

Ann Harding in "Devotion," at the St. Louis Theatre.

As remarked before this is more or less jake with the variety customers but when the cinema celebrities turn to the drama it is something else again and, as a result, Broadway managers are not at home to movie stars this season. The welcome given them last year proved an altogether costly and unhappy venture.

When Arch Selwyn announced that he had signed Mary Pickford, Colleen Moore, Rod La Roque, Vilma Banky, Olive Borden and other movie satellites, for stage plays, there occurred a rush of producers to sign up "names" for the Hollywood studios.

La Roque and Miss Banky appeared in "Cherries Are Ripe," for a season on the road, but their show never reached a New York standard and was left to die in the provinces.

Edward G. Robinson came back to the stage in "Mr. Samuel," which gave up after eight performances. Lya De Putti lasted the same time in "Made in France." Mary Pickford decided after all not to try a comeback behind the footlights. Little Miss Moore's effort was a decided flop due, chiefly, to the fact that the play provided for her was terrible.

PAUL MUNI was seen in two plays, one of which stopped after seven performances and the other lingered along for four weeks. Lois Moran could attract cutomers to "This is New York." for only seven weeks. Al Jolson, once the greatest box office draw in the theater, discovered he had lost much of his stage savor and his "The Wonder Bar" did only fairly well.

Olive Borden has been tried in three plays, none of which ever reached New York. Lupe Velez almost got into the "Follies."

Only three pilgrims from Hollywood have dared the footlights this season. Fay Wray and Kent Douglass were seen in "Nikki," but it expired after a few unhappy weeks. Miss Wray says she is going back to pictures.

Lawrence Grey is in the new Ed Wynn musical, but attracted no more attention than the usual pleasant appearing juveniles.

AND few of the Hollywood stars—the Marx Brothers being an exception—have succeeded in bolstering up the drooping business of the film houses. In the case of the Marxes, who played the St. Louis a few weeks ago, they did add several thousand dollars to the box office intake—but they got something in excess of $10,000 for doing it and there was no great amount of sustenance for the theater in that.

As a result past economy waves in moviedom will seem as gentle ripples in comparison to one getting under way now.

Theater business being what it is, it has been generally agreed that one way to make money is to save it—in Hollywood.

The cost of producing a film determines its rental. The more a picture costs to make, the more the exhibitor must pay to show it.

Theater owners are complaining that Hollywood is spending too much money to make its movies.

Knowledge of little matters like a yearly salary of $104,000 for a writer who says he didn't write (same being P. G. Wodehouse) and a $30,000 weekly star salary serves further to aggravate the show men.

Hollywood talk has it that the "big bosses" of the industry, the men who actually operate the film companies from their offices in New York, are going out there to try to discover where the money is going.

There is a feeling that they will demand a paring down of big salaries (which means less for stars—if they'll take it—and high priced executives when new contracts are written), shorter production time and general reduction of overhead.

These ultimatums already have been anticipated. Every effort is being made to make just as good pictures for less money.

To give you an idea: An executive voluntarily reduced his salary 25 per cent. He's getting only $3750 a week now for saying "No!"

MOVIE producers' plans go haywire sometimes, too. Today's cast may be on the sidelines tomorrow.

That's what has happened to a large extent in plans for revival of "The Miracle Man," famous old silent picture.

No long ago it seemed fairly certain that Irving Pichel was to play "The Frog," the pretended cripple that made the late Lon Chaney renowned in the silent version.

Now, with Pichel working on a picture in New York, it is announced that John Wray, the autocratic officer of "All Quiet on the Western Front," is to have the part.

George Bancroft was mentioned for the role once played by Thomas Meighan, but later it developed that Gary Cooper was to have it. Now the lanky star, still badly in need of rest, is reported ready for another European trip for his health, and his place is yet unfilled.

But Sylvia Sidney, who draws prize roles consistently now, is to play Betty Compson's former role and little Robert Coogan will stray from his "Sooky" role for the first time to portray the crippled lad.

That part was taken, 12 years ago, by Frankie Lee, whose work in the silent picture curiously led to the talkie debut, nine years later, of his baby brother, Davey.

"Chic" Sale in "The Star Witness," at the Missouri.

Frank Jaquet in "In the Best of Families," Midtown.

Albert Spalding, Symphony Soloist, at Odeon this week.

CHRYSANTHEMUM SHOW OPENS TODAY

More Than 4000 Blossoms in Annual Display at Shaw's Garden.

More than 4000 chrysanthemums —probably 200,000 blossoms—of every color but blue, and some that look like golden miniatures of the sun itself, are blooming at Shaw's Garden today at the opening of the annual Chrysanthemum Show, the chief event of the St. Louis flower calendar.

There are 290 varieties in the display, from pompons smaller than a dime to "cream puffs" a full foot across on stems six feet tall. There are 2000 of these huge single-flowered varieties, and 000 of the smaller bush plants, which it is estimated bear 100 flowers each. More than 1000 plants, filling three greenhouses, are held in reserve for the transformations the show will undergo before the end of November.

Sunday visitors are advised to attend early in the day, and those who wish to study individual flowers to avoid going on Sundays. An average of 10,000 persons have seen the show every November Sunday for nearly 30 years, and the attendance has run as high as 3000 an hour.

And there is no reason to expect any smaller attendance this year. It is one show on which the depression has no effect. It is free. This year's Japanese garden is another masterpiece of the staff floriculturist, Paul A. Kohl, whose designs have drawn increased national attention to Shaw's Garden displays in the last few years.

Cascade Chrysanthemums.

The chrysanthemums on display grow straight up into a single big flower, in lateral branches with many little flowers, trailing from hanging baskets overhead, and on bamboo standards like Oriental lanterns and, with their glowing colors, almost as bright.

The newest and one of the features of the show are the cascade chrysanthemums, which ripple downward from the base of the plants in single flower-studded plumes. They were originated by Kohl last year at the garden. Only a few of these, like the basket chrysanthemums, are now in bloom, for they are varieties which open comparatively late. Among those in flower, however, are the daisy-like original Chinese chrysanthemums, from which all these 290 varieties were developed by more than 20 centuries of care.

Banks of lilac Caprice line the walls about the fountain on the entrance balcony of the Display House. Just below this balcony, and seeming to flow over a background of bamboo, are the cascades, most of them green now, but with white or pink, bronze or yellow, showing here and there.

From the foot of the steps the rich and subtly blended chrysanthemum-colors stretch away, in a formal Japanese garden, nearly the full length of the huge display house to a peak-roofed pergola sheltering a miniature mountain of the very largest flowers, in yellow, bronze and dusky red.

Temple Gates of Ailanthus.

Temple gates of Chinese ailanthus, or "tree of heaven," arch across the entrances to that garden, and its walls are of reeds. Paper lanterns and trailing flowers are reared on standards of bamboo. In a central rock garden is a stone lantern from a Chinese temple, and on either side are tiny thatched pergolas.

Along the walls are tall ranks of the larger flowers—the four Turners, white, pink, yellow and bronze; the deeper pink Nerissa, the soft bronze Mrs. August H. Koch, the lovely pale lilac Mrs. Alice H. Burke, with its petals almost in ringlets, as though it had a permanent wave.

Among the bush plants at their feet and in the central beds are many Caprice varieties, but also dozens of others, like the fine bronze Mary Quinlan, the saucy Mary Ann pompon, the aptly named Old Gold. The flower aristocracy under the peak-roofed pergola include such notables as the great bronze Calumet, the shaggy red and russet Mrs. Lloyd George, the dusky Garnet, the Cherokee, with petals of wine-stained bronze, the clear, deep Marigold and the clean, light Honeydew.

SAYS LIQUOR IS NOT ISSUE

David S. Ingalls Comments on His Ohio Campaign.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 7.—David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy in charge of aviation, and the first to enter the Republican contest for the Ohio gubernatorial nomination, said today: "I do not believe that prohibition is the primary issue of the coming campaign or one upon which a candidate should base his candidacy." Ingalls came here to attend the Ohio State-Navy football game and participate in a meeting of reserve officers this evening.

Washington dispatches earlier had indicated he would seek the nomination as a liberal. This brought forth a declaration against him by the Anti-Saloon League. Ingalls did not deny he would be liberal on the subject of prohibition.

Communist Meeting Raided.

East St. Louis police raided a hall at Fifteenth and Converse street last night, dispersing a gathering of about 15 persons and arrested a man and a woman who, they said, were distributing application blanks for membership in the Communist party. There was no disorder at the meeting, police said. No charge was placed against those arrested but they were held for investigation.

SERVICES FOR SAILORS KILLED IN EXPLOSION ON WARSHIP

Last Honors Paid by Companions to J. J. Schnur of St. Louis; Body to Be Sent Here.

By the Associated Press.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Nov. 7.—A farewell was said today by the sailors of the U. S. S. Colorado to five of their mates who were killed in the explosion of an anti-aircraft gun aboard the ship as it attacked a mythical enemy of the air at sea Thursday.

With an honor guard of 15 standing by, funeral services were held for Seaman J. J. Schnur of St. Louis. Lieut. W. W. Pierce, chaplain of the U. S. S. Oklahoma, read the last rites. The body will be sent to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Schnur, living at 7836 Delmont street, Gardenville, St. Louis County. Similar services were arranged for Lieut. Ralph F. Bradford Jr., who was in charge of the gun crew, and Seamen Maurice J. Hawkins and Lewis A. Clark. Bradford's body will be sent to Pontiac, Mich., for burial, Hawkin's to Hastings, Mich., and Clark's to Los Gatos, Cal. The fifth victim, Clarence E. Swift, will be buried at his home here.

NEGRO KILLED BY AUTO WHEN REPAIRING TIRE

Isaac Hughes Struck in East St. Louis; Driver of Car Held for Coroner.

Isaac Hughes, 19 years old, Negro coal peddler of 1626 (rear) Carr street, died last night at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, of a skull fracture suffered early in the evening when he was struck by an automobile as he was repairing a tire on his truck in the 4400 block of State street, East St. Louis.

C. A. Edmonds of 1821A St. Louis avenue, East St. Louis, driver of the car which hit Hughes, was held pending an inquest.

INQUIRY INTO ESTATE FRAUD

No Misuse of U. S. Mails by Late Mrs. Graubner Found.

By the Associated Press.

CANTON, Ill., Nov. 7.—Postal authorities have been unable to find evidence that the United States mails were used in any scheme of Mrs. Louise Graubner to defraud those who say they advanced her money on the expectation that she was to inherit a huge South American estate. Mrs. Graubner died a fortnight ago, leaving claimants alleging they were swindled of about $100,000.

The Brazilian stamps on envelopes containing communications found in her possessions had been lifted from other envelopes, postal inspectors said today. Apparently she had then pasted the stamps on her communications for exhibit to those to whom she presented her plea for loans. The letters were not carried by United States mails, authorities were convinced. Mrs. Laurie Beam, one claimant, said she might ask Chicago police to try to locate a supposed accomplice of the dead woman.

BARDOLPH, ILL., BANK ROBBED

Searchlight "Covers" Phone Operator While Burglars Work.

By the Associated Press.

MACOMB, Ill., Nov. 7.—Held for three hours under the glare of a bank robber's searchlight pointed at her bed, Mrs. Nellie Maxwell, telephone operator, heard three explosions that blew in the vault and safe at the Bardolph State Bank early today. Robbers, estimated at between three and eight in number, first punctured the tear gas safety device on the vault, letting the gas out, before breaking into it. They escaped, unnoticed except by the telephone operator, with $2000 in cash.

Mrs. Maxwell sleeps in the telephone exchange, next door to the bank, and before starting on the vault the robbers turned a search light on her in bed through a window. Bardolph is six miles north of Macomb.

POLICE COMMISSIONER'S HORSE

A Political Expression Used by Voters in Argentine Campaign.

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 7. — Argentines, ending a campaign preparatory to the general election tomorrow, have a traditional political expression which would be lost on the United States "The police commissioner's horse."

The expression originated on the race tracks. The governing official of every track, for many years, was the village police chief, and it became a common adage that the Police Commissioner's horse was always the best because the commissioner supervised the race. Whenever a disgruntled voter seeks to intimate that some candidate is sure to win because he has the support of the party in power, the nominee is described as "The Police Commissioner's horse."

"GEMUETLICHKEIT" IN BERLIN

Ballrooms Crowded as City Adopts "Cheer Up" Slogan.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—"Gemuetlichkeit," the expressive German word for polite hilarity, has become the watchword of the city.

As a relief from decrees imposing "Spartan economy" on all classes and as a means of tinting a gloomy future with rose colored glasses, the average Berliner has adopted "cheer up and smile" as the slogan for a hard winter. The leading ballrooms of Berlin are booked solid for every Saturday night until the end of March. No less than 300 big balls have been planned by the leading social "vereine."

To Play "Is Zat So."

Maryville Dramatic Club will present a three-act comedy entitled "Is Zat So," at St. Anthony's Auditorium, Meramec street at Michigan avenue, next Sunday, Nov. 15, and Sunday, Nov. 22.

MILLION TAKE PART IN SOVIET CELEBRATION

Soldiers and Workers, Packed in Dense Masses, Honor Revolution of 1917.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Nov. 7.—The military might of Soviet Russia paraded in Red Square before the tomb of Lenin today in celebration of the fourteenth anniversary of the revolution.

On the heels of the soldiers came hundreds of thousands of workers, packed in dence masses, who sang lustily and cheered in honor of the nation's leaders grouped on the balustrade atop the tomb.

This celebration of the fourteenth birthday of the Soviet nation had been planned as the greatest demonstration ever held in Moscow, and it reached impressive heights.

More than 1,000,0000 persons took part, coming from all parts of Russia, and there were many delegations from abroad. All day long the ceremonies lasted, and well into the night.

Says Soviets Guide World.

Thousands of troops, massed in the square, stood at attention and listened to a speech by Klement Voroshilov, Commissar for War, who declared the Soviet nation was guiding the world along the ways of peace.

"We are leading the world in our policy of peace, but our workers and peasants have proved by their strenuous labor they can win victory in war as well as in the peaceful battles of industrialism," he said.

"We must be ready to defend our union against foreign enemies who are uniting against us in the desperation of their economic crisis."

The military demonstration was imposing. Cavalry, infantry, artillery and tank units swept by the Lenin tomb, and overhead military airplanes zoomed by in smart formations.

Then came the civilians, bearing red flags and effigies of the nation's great. On the banners, in English, German, Chinese, Turkish and Russian, were the words, "long live the world revolution."

Americans in Demonstration.

Marching with the workers were communist delegations from America, Canada, Norway, Sweden, Germany, England, France, Belgium, Holland, Spain and Mongolia.

Joseph Stalin headed the Russian leaders before whom the soldiers and workers paraded. Others on the Lenin tomb were President Kalinin, Premier Molotov and Nicolai Buckharin. The presence of Buckharin was a surprise, for he has lost his high place in the state because of his rightist tendencies.

Throughout the nation a two-day holiday has been declared in celebration of the proclamation of the dictatorship of the proletariat in Petrograd. Under the new calendar the date of the anniversary is Nov. 7, but to Russia it still is the "October revolution."

WITHHDRAWS PLEA OF GUILTY

Kansas City Banker, Sentenced as Embezzler, Seeks Trial.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 7. — Forrest C. Cochrane, former banker indicted for embezzlement of funds of the Women's Christian Association, a Kansas City organization, withdrew his plea of guilty today and through his attorney gave notice he preferred to stand trial.

Judge Brown imposed a five-year sentence before accepting the withdrawal of the plea, and ruled Cochrane must supply a new bond. If, on hearing the motion to withdraw the plea probably on Monday, Judge Brown rules against Cochrane, he may appeal to the Supreme Court or accept sentence. Cochrane was indicted on nine counts of embezzlement in connection with the failure April 18, 1930, of the Liberty Trust Co. which he headed. The alleged embezzlements involved $140,000.

Limit on Dock Workers' Loads.

LISBON, Nov. 7.—Sagging backs of Lisbon's dock workers were lightened when a Government decree limited the load on any one man to 160 pounds. If sugar bags or other pieces of freight exceed this weight, the employer is taxed for the benefit of the union's disability fund.

Wiebe Says Big Radio Business Is Now in Sight

President of Trade Association Says Situation Is Highly Encouraging in St. Louis Area—New Receivers and Today's Programs Finest Ever Offered, He Points Out—Listeners Using Old Sets Are Missing a Great Deal.

The radio business in the St. Louis area is distinctly encouraging and a very large business is in sight as soon as the weather changes so that people are more confined to their homes, according to Fred A. Wiebe, president of the St. Louis Radio Trades Association.

"Whatever conditions may be in other parts of the country, I want to contradict any impression that the retail radio business in the St. Louis district is suffering a severe slump," Wiebe said, commenting on a recent news story. "Standard radio merchandise is selling in good shape. The maker and seller of good merchandise see a distinctly encouraging picture, and the general outlook in the Middle West is steadily improving.

"People here are interested in radio. They have shown it unmistakably. The paid attendance at our St. Louis radio show was 26 per cent greater than at our show in 1930. Paid attendance figures tell a mighty practical story.

"We aren't bothered here by certain conditions experienced in other territories. Our own firm's business has shown a 50 per cent increase since the first of the month, and we are planning the largest campaign we have ever undertaken, all of which indicates our confidence in the future. The next four months should bring a much larger radio business than the entire past eight months.

"All along the Atlantic Coast, from Boston to Mobile and New Orleans, there are a number of places where conditions are excellent, and the same thing is becoming apparent in more and more places westward. Confidence is growing generally. There may be 6,000,000 men out of work, but bear in mind that 30,000,000 are working! There is plenty of money, and soon people will be letting go of it again.

"The elimination of a number of radio manufacturers is working for the benefit of the public and of the substantial manufacturers, just as the same development worked for the advantage of the buyers of automobiles.

Engineering ability is giving the buyer of a radio set far more for his money than ever before—better tone, elimination of cross talk, greater selectivity, greater consistent distance tuning range, better looking receivers of all types.

"Improved tubes alone mean a great deal to listeners. The variable-mu screen grid tubes make for quieter sets, far less interference by stations, less tube noise, greater stability of operation. The new pentode power tubes give better tone, greater power and freedom from 'hum' because they make possible reduction in the number of audio stages. Also, the new tubes enable the factories to build more rugged sets that work better, last longer and cost less to buy and less to operate.

"The increasing competition between the national networks and between stations is bringing about continual improvement in programs as well as in the quality of broadcasting. The caliber of the artists and entertainers who may be heard regularly is steadily rising higher and higher. Radio has developed to the point where no one can afford to be without a receiver and no one can afford to continue to use a set that is out of date and lacking in the very great betterments that today's receivers give."

Radio Trade Notes

President of Radio Factory at Van Ashe Co. Meeting.

Eugene R. Farney, president of the All-American Mohawk Co., which makes Lyric receivers, was in St. Louis the past week to attend a meeting of dealers held by the Van Ashe Radio Co., which has just been appointed Lyric distributer here. Tom H. Phillips, district manager, and J. H. Wimberly Jr. also spoke at the meeting.

Farney said that there was an unmistakable upward trend in the radio business. He said his statement on what he observed in the course of an extensive trip visiting distributers.

General Motors Has Superheterodyne Converter.

Three new General Motors radio sets are announced by the Beck & Corbitt Co., distributer. One is called the "Little Corporal." It has a six-tube superheterodyne chassis with a pentode audio tube. It is of the mantel type.

Another new model is the "Salem," a seven-tube superheterodyne with pentode power tube and tube selecter, in a console cabinet.

Something wholly new is the General Motors superheterodyne converter, with which any tuned radio frequency set can be made into a modern superheterodyne. It also can be used as a remote control for a regular superheterodyne.

This converter is made to serve also as a smoking stand. It is easy to install, as a single cable to the receiver is the only connection. Tuning is done with the illuminated dial on the converter and the volume control also is on the converter.

Crosley Adds Two Ten-Tube Superheterodyne Sets.

Two new Crosley models are announced by the Electric Lamp and Supply Co., distributer. Both have 10-tube superheterodyne circuits with push-pull pentode power tubes, tuning meter, automatic volume control, continuous tone control and full dynamic speaker.

One model is called the "Tenstrike." Its cabinet has a front panel of figured stump walnut veneer arched and aproned with burl maple overlay. The top, of walnut, is securely mortised into the sides and is supported by fluted pillasters finished in walnut.

The other Crosley set is the "Happy Hour" which also has a front panel of figured stump walnut veneer with burl maple in two-tone effect. The curved pillasters also are of stump walnut, while the front apron is of imported zebra wood. The legs are turned, fluted and capped with oval medallions.

Details of New Buick Cars Will Be Made Public Next Saturday

'Wizard Control' Feature of 1932 Line Said to Be Entirely New in Every Way.

The new line of Buick straight eight cars for 1932 will be formally presented to the public next Saturday, it is announced by E. T. Strong, president and general manager of the Buick Motor Co.

With the presentation details of "wizard control," declared to be a startling innovation in motor-car operation, will be revealed.

It is intimated that an entirely new method of car control is introduced, one that represents the longest step forward in this phase of automotive engineering that has been made in recent years.

Since the close of the inventory period, made in mid-summer by Buick for the first time in years, little information has been obtainable from the plant at Flint. This has indicated unusual preparations for the new car that is to succeed the straight eight which has represented Buick for almost 16 months.

Presentation will take place simultaneously in all cities of the country, shipments having been going forward since the new car went into production.

Unusual preparations have been made for the event by Buick factory officials and by the nation-wide dealer organization.

Buick Plans $50,000 Prize Essay Contest

The Buick Motor Co. announces a $50,000 prize contest in connection with the coming presentation of its new straight eight models for 1932. The contest is to begin the day the new cars appear, which is next Saturday, Nov. 14, and continue until midnight, Dec. 14, 1931.

The prizes in the contest, which is being announced through newspaper and magazine advertising and over the radio tonight, are to be awarded for the best answers to the question: "Why does the new Buick eight, at new low prices, again confirm the Buick pledge, when better automobiles are built, Buick will build them:"

The first prize for the best answer is $25,000, second prize $10,000, third prize $5000, with a number of smaller prizes for answers selected by the judges as worthy of recognition. The judges will be three men of national prominence.

The rules require that answers contain not more than 200 words. Everyone is eligible, except Buick employes and dealers, its advertising agency, and their families. It is not necessary to be a Buick owner.

Leaks in Radiators Should Be Repaired to Save 'Anti-Freeze'

Small radiator leaks, only a minor annoyance in summer when the cooling system contains only water, should be carefully attended to before a car's cooling system is serviced with anti-freeze for cold weaather driving. While water costs nothing beyond the trouble and time necessary for pouring it into the radiator, the loss of anti-freeze solutions is expensive and may result in frozen engines.

Recent tests have proved that the most frequent cause of radiator leaks is mechanical breakage due to jolts and constant vibration. This cause is common to all cars and the results accumulate, of course, at the end of the summer. The second most prolific cause of leaks is corrosion of the metal tubes or channels of which the radiator is composed.

One of the most interesting discoveries in regard to radiator deterioration is that this corrosion may progress more rapidly in summer when the cooling system contains water only, and is definitely checked by certain anti-freeze solutions.

The Glycerine Producers' Association announces that rigid laboratory tests have shown that the radio glycerine made by its members actually protects the metal radiator lining from oxidization.

THE appointment of Rederer-Rengers Buick, Inc., which is headed by A. H. Rederer and F. H. Rengers, as an authorized Buick dealer in the city of St. Louis has just been announced.

Rederer-Rengers Appointed as Buick Dealer on Locust St.

The Buick Motor Co. has just appointed Rederer-Rengers Buick, Inc., as an authorized Buick dealer at 3041 Locust, it is announced by R. N. Soule, zone manager.

The firm will continue to operate its Buick dealership on Lockwood avenue, Webster Groves, as a branch.

There is a total of 20,500 square feet of floor space in the firm's new quarters on Locust boulevard. The showroom has been elaborately decorated in the modernistic style, and a fully equipped Buick service station has been installed.

Both Rederer and Rengers are widely known in the St. Louis district.

Rederer, who is president of the firm, was with the Moon Motor Car Co. for 19 years and was president of Moon Motor Sales. Rengers, who is vice president and general manager, joined the Moon Motor Car Co. in 1914, became vice president in 1926 and president of Diana Motors Co., and in 1928 became general sales manager of the Gardner Motor Co., continuing in that office until he resigned to join Rederer in organizing Rederer-Rengers Buick, Inc.

Goodrich Official Finds England on Way Back to Normal

England, facing its complex national problems with wisdom and courage, will become one of the most powerful international factors in bringing the return of normay economic and business conditions throughout the world, says V. I. Montenyohl, B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co. treasurer and executive head of the International B. F. Goodrich Corporation, export subsidiary, who returned recently from two months abroad.

"Instead of finding a country disturbed and unsettled as to its outlook after the change from the gold standard, England has put aside its politics and the leaders are working together on the ailments of a great nation that now shows unmistakable signs of recovery," he said.

Explains Reason For Goodyear Tire Test Trip to Arizona

Referring to the passage through St. Louis the past week of a fleet of Goodyear tire testing cars, G. H. Kemmerer, manager of Goodyear Service, Inc., says that a company which does not test its products thoroughly takes a chance on quality. Moreover, development of tire use and building has never stood still in the thirty-odd years that tires have been a factor in public life. Constant changing of tire types, car and truck designs; wheel diameters and the like has meant that tires of necessity must be constantly roadtested to insure product measuring up to requirements. Tire testing must be done in warm weather so the Goodyear fleet piles the highways of Ohio in summer and in Arizona in winter, because heat is the enemy of tire mileage and tires stand up better in cold weather than in warm, Kemmerer explains.

In a 25-day month, a Goodyear test car driver covers nearly 6000 miles more than the average motorist does in a year, so tires being tested receive extreme punishment which they rarely would on the car of an average driver.

Hudson-Essex Begins Nation-Wide Campaign To Stimulate Business

Drive Aimed at Speeding Up Last Quarter of Year—Dwells on Features of Hudson and Essex Cars.

The "Watch Hudson" advertising campaign of unprecedented size and appeal, which appeared for the first time last week in a national magazine and metropolitan newspapers, was planned to stimulate business during the last quarter of 1931.

The Hudson campaign is perhaps the first in recent years to stress the fine qualities of a car and to minimize price appeal. Many facts are brought out about Hudson Essex cars and the factory in which these cars are built.

The men guiding the company have been with it virtually since its beginning, 23 years ago. Its officers, department heads and principal distributers are its controlling owners. Hudson has more than 60 important firsts in the honor roll of contributions to the present-day automobile building art. Its plant is said to have greater production capacity per foot of floor space than any other in the industry.

This company was first to produce sedan and coach bodies. Hudson and Essex bodies are of all-steel construction. Improved welding practice makes these bodies a single unit of rattle-proof steel from one windshield pillar around the body to the opposite pillar. Panels of silencing material form a body within a body, to prevent creaking, drumming and other body noises and operating sounds.

Hudson was first to build the compensated inherently balanced crankshaft used in Hudson and Essex engines. The crankshaft is so accurately machined and balanced that it will, the company claims, prevent vibration from developing in the motor.

Hudson controls the patents on splayed springs which, under the rear of Hudson and Essex cars, are set at an angle with the frame to prevent sidesway and greatly increase comfort.

The lubricated cork cushioned clutch developed and used for many years on both cars is still a feature. The lubricated cork inserts in the clutch cushion as the clutch engages and give a soft shift, without chatter or jar, especially when shifting from free wheeling to conventional gear.

The "Duoflo" automatic oiling system, used only on Hudson Essex motors, has an oversized aviation type oil pump which forces two streams of oil under high pressure to front and rear of the motor, drenching every bearing with oil taken from a specially designed oil cooling system.

The "Startix," new this year on both cars, is an automatic self-starter which makes a motor stall proof. Operated by the ignition lock, it starts the motor automatically as soon as the ignition key is turned and keeps running as long as the ignition is "on."

Other features in use on these cars include aluminum pistons, tapered double drop frame, non-detonating cylinder head, which permits the use of ordinary gasoline, and improved free wheeling.

The Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co., 4525 Delmar, is local distributer of Hudson and Essex cars.

Suggests Four Ways To Reduce Number Of Auto Accidents

There are four main ways to reduce the number of automobile accidents, according to H. O. Wesch, manager of the General Brake Service Corporation.

"This year," says Wesch, "it is estimated automobiles will kill approximately 35,000 peole in this country and will send more than 900,000 to hospitals seriously injured. This is a big increase even over last year and represents a ridiculous situation. Little of a practical nature is being done to alleviate it.

"We shall never make real progress with this growing evil until we tackle the problem at its four main roots. Here is what must be done if we are to save at least 75 per cent of the lives now sacrificed annually to our motorized carelessness and indifference: Separate opposing lines of traffic. Separate automobiles and pedestrians. Enforce compulsory inspections of cars, particularly brakes. Eliminate railroad grade crossings.

"Traffic must be separated by parallel one-way roads, by steel or concrete mid-road fences and by elevated or lowered side street crossings.

"Cars and walkers must be kept apart by overpasses or underpasses.

"The millions of people who, unwittingly or knowingly, are driving cars with defective headlights, dangerously worn or badly adjusted brakes, and worn out tires or wheels out of alignment, must be made to put their cars in safe condition and keep them that way.

"Railroads, states, counties and towns must co-operate to banish our 260,000 crossings that are causing 10 per cent of our automobile fatalities."

Purves Promoted By Dodge Brothers

W. M. Purves, for the last five years passenger car sales manager for Dodge Brothers Corporation, has been appointed assistant general sales manager.

Purves' executive duties have been extended to include active participation in all phases of Dodge Brothers' sales activities—passenger cars, trucks, school busses, taxicabs, parts and service, advertising and promotional endeavor.

Merry Increases Service Facilities For Auto Heaters

H. C. Merry, Inc., has made a complete sales and service connection with manufacturers of hot-water heaters, including Perfection, Tropic-Aire, Arvin and Heat-Rite. The firm will specialize in servicing all types of hot-water heaters, carrying a complete stock of special size heater hose that will not be affected by any anti-freeze solution or heat. It will also be in a position to make complete copper tubing installation, which is something new in the hot-water heater field. It also stocks different types of hot air and exhaust heaters, and for five years has been servicing many of these types of heaters.

The firm also distributes and services Pines automatic winterfronts of both detachable and built-in types, which are standard equipment on many makes of cars.

It has installed special testing and tool equipment to take care of both heaters and winterfronts.

Buick Dealers See New Cars, Attend Meeting in Theater

Yesterday R. N. Soule, zone manager, and the Buick Motor Co., St. Louis zone, were hosts to the Buick dealer organization of this territory at the annual announcement meeting covering the presentation of the 1932 Buick 8. The meeting was attended by 350 Buick dealers, salesmen and service managers, together with bankers and other business men closely associated with the industry in the various dealers' towns.

The program opened with a private showing of the 1932 Buick 8s at the Buick zone office, 3900 West Pine boulevard, followed by a luncheon at the Coronado Hotel.

Following the luncheon, the guests were taken in busses to the New Grand Central Theater. There, through the medium of a special sound-picture, officials of the Buick Motor Co., including E. T. Strong, president, and C. W. Churchill, general sales manager, presented the entire story behind the 1932 Buick 8 and outlined the general sales program for the year. F. A. Bower, Buick's chief engineer, explained in detail the many improvements and advancements mechanically in the 1932 Buick 8 and declared that "Wizard Control" is the greatest improvement in automobiles since the self-starter.

The program concluded with a banquet at Hotel Jefferson, with Zone Manager Soule presiding. E. N. Steger, division sales manager of the Buick Motor Co., Flint, Mich., attended as a guest of Soule.

E. C. Miller Doubles Auto Service Space

E. C. Miller, located for six years at Kingshighway boulevard and Shaw avenue, has completed a large addition to his building, which doubles his shop space devoted to motor rebuilding and maintenance. The enlarged quarters, accessible through double driveways from Kingshighway boulevard and Shaw avenue, now measure 50 by 140 feet and give space for servicing 20 cars at one time.

Complete, modern equipment for every type of motor trouble, brake testing and wheel aligning has been installed. The firm is an official A. A. A. service station, employs 10 shop workers and was recently appointed an authorized Goodyear tire dealer.

In the Billions of Miles.

The total mileage covered by automobiles in the United States during 1930 was more than 156,000,000,000 miles.

Prizes Are Awarded For First Half of 'Ford Sales Contest

At a breakfast of 200 Ford salesmen at Hotel Chase Tuesday morning, Nov. 3, at which all the metropolitan dealers were represented, leaders in the current sales contest in St. Louis were announced.

"Referee" Tom Corcoran, assistant manager of the local Ford assembly plant, announced that the West Siders led by a margin of 2 per cent in the first half of the six weeks' contest. The city is divided into two parts, the line of division being Grand boulevard.

Charlie Gilder, Ford zone representative, is the leader of the so-called "West Siders," while B. Coffman, also a zone representative, heads the "East Siders."

Graham Advises On Lubrication for Free Wheeling Cars

Motorists who have bought free wheeling cars since last winter are informed of special lubricant requirements for cold weather, in a bulletin issued by Graham-Paige Motors Corporation, which supplies free wheeling as standard equipment on all models.

The change to a lighter oil, a necessity with any transmission, is even more important with free wheeling for proper operation in cold weather. Moreover, the oil must be free of any substance that will build up an artificial viscosity, and must not contain any "fillers" or solid material such as talc, graphite, cork, mica, and asbestos, the bulletin states.

Dodge Perfects Long-Wearing Valve Seat for Gas Engines

A valve seat insert of high-speed tool steel has been developed by Dodge Brothers engineers which is said to prevent erosion and burning of exhaust valves, thus solving a problem that has baffled the motor industry.

The proper functioning of the exhaust valves is the determining factor in the life of a gasoline engine, particularly in truck, bus, marine and airplane operation. Faulty valves cause loss of power, mis-firing, over-heating and carburetor trouble, since a riding exhaust valve gets so hot that it causes the incoming gas to explode and blow back into the carburetor.

The new valve seat, as developed by Dodge Brothers, in combination with an exhaust valve of non-burning, non-oxidizing and non-warping steel and a valve stem guide of high nickel cast-iron, is said to give upward of 50,000 miles of service without valve adjustments or valve grinding, and an exhaust valve life probably as long as that of the cylinder block itself.

The insert is made of tungsten, chromium, vanadium and carbon steel, and is four-thousandths of an inch larger than the exhaust valve opening in the cylinder block into which it is pressed by a special machine. In addition to pressing the insert into the valve opening, this machine turns down the metal of the block around the edge of the insert, sealing it in place.

New 6-Cylinder Car To Be Called 'Rockne'

Selection of the name Rockne for the six-cylinder car which is to be built by the new Detroit manufacturing company, headed by George M. Graham, is disclosed. The name of the company and details of its organization continue to be withheld.

As the Rockne Six will be shown at the New York and Chicago shows it evidently will be made by a long established manufacturer.

Graham is continuing to direct the formation of his dealer organization from Detroit.

Indication that the car will sell in the lower priced field is found in the statement by Graham "that its market will be that great mass of the American public from which Knute Rockne sprung and whose idol and ideal he was."

'Tail Light View' Test Now Used by Franklin Factory

In the Franklin factory, the "tail-light view" has become as important in approving a design as in the head-on view. Every refinement of design that contributes to a neat and balanced rear end view is worked out with the same care as for any other part of the car.

The spread or flare of rear fenders is painstakingly studied in relation to rear roof line, body mass, gas tank and rear wheels. The rear wheel running gear mechanism is a mass that figures in rear end proportions even though it is largely out of sight. Lower rear body lines, corners, etc., are worked out with extreme care in relation to trunk and trunk-rack to tire carrier, fenders and gas-tank apron. An engineering problem, as well as an artistic problem, is involved, for the careful elimination of rear end vacuum spots has an important bearing on car speed.

Three New Items in Nash-Engineered Accessories for Cars

Three new accessories have been added to the list of Nash-engineered special equipment which has been developed through the co-operation of Nash engineers and accessory manufacturers and is supplied through the Nash factory.

They include a new, automatic starting device which starts the engine at the turn of the ignition keys and keeps it running automatically as long as the ignition is 'on;" an advanced and perfected radio receiving set, adapted to all Nash models, and a new rear tire guard.

All three of the new accessories —specially adapted to Nash use— are offered at nominal cost to the great army of car owners who like to "doll up" their automobiles.

Chevrolet Began Making Automobiles On November 3, 1911

Since Then Company Has Produced More Than 8,000,000 Cars and Trucks.

Twenty years ago on Nov. 3, 1911, the Chevrolet Motor Co. of Michigan began making autos. During the 20 years following the completion of the first Chevrolet, nearly 8,000,000 units have been built.

Twenty years ago the company opened in a small workshop on Grand River avenue, Detroit, where Louis Chevrolet built experimental cars, not more than four or five that first year. Today the production organization has 20 domestic plants which have produced a four-year average of more than a million cars a years.

The company remained in Detroit until 1913, then transferred principal operations to Flint, Mich.

As long ago as 1915, the company entered the volume field with the introduction of the once-famous "490" model, named for its price. This was the lowest price at which a Chevrolet was ever sold until the base price on the 1931 series was reduced on the introduction of this line last fall, to $475.

Production of "490s" the first year was 70,000 cars, many times that of any previous year's outplt.

One of the dates prominent in the development of the company is May 2, 1918, when General Motors took it over. Extensive changes in personnel and methods followed.

Production in 1925 went over the half-million mark for the first time. Two years later it exceeded a million cars. Up to that time the company had made only four-cylinder cars. Nov. 18, 1928, the company abandoned the four-cylinder field and brought out a six. In the very first year the new type exceeded all previous records of the smaller four, and today the company is leading the industry in sales.

The executive personnel comprises W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager; H. J. Klingler, vice president and general sales manager; M. E. Coyle, vice president and general auditor; C. E. Wetherald, general manufacturing manager, and J. M. Crawford, chief engineer.

Archer-Mann Co. Has Record Sales Increase

The Archer-Mann Motor Co., distributer of Marmon cars, reports a record increase of sales, as compared with this period last year. The increase, which is slightly more than 500 per cent, is due, the firm states, to an unusual combination of values and special prices.

Again it has been proved, the company says, that there is plenty of money in the St. Louis area and that it comes to the fore whenever real buying opportunities appear.

The Archer-Mann company placed an exceptionally large order for cars with the Marmon factory, only to find that sales far outran its expectations. So a temporary shortage of cars developed, which was decidedly exceptional in these days. It was necessary largely to increase the order, and now there are plenty of models on display.

Starting Made Easier

Hard starting is often remedied by re-setting the spark plug sparking points. Wear widens the space between these points, making it hard for the plug to fire.

Motorists will immediately appreciate easier starting, especially in winter weather, when the sparking points are set properly.

ACTIVITIES OF

RULES OF BOY SCOUT MERIT BADGE SHOW

Annual Exhibition Next Thursday, Friday and Saturday at The Arena.

Decoration and arrangement of exhibition booths for the sixth annual Boy Scout Merit Badge Show at The Arena next Thursday, Friday and Saturday may be started by Boy Scout troops any time after 8 o'clock Wednesday morning, Charles H. Mills, activities director of the local scout council, said Friday. This will allow two full days for fixing up the booths, exhibition rules providing that everything must be in place ready for judging by 6:30 o'clock Thursday evening.

Carpenters have been working in Exhibition Hall A, where the show will be held, since last Wednesday, building the framework for the booths, a stage for a little theater and dressing rooms for scout actors who will perform there. Some of these carpenters will remain on duty all day Wednesday and Thursday, to be available for individual troops that may need their services.

Delivereis of exhibition material and decorations may be made up until 9 o'clock Wednesday evening, the regular Arena entrance on Oakland avenue, however, being open only until 6 o'clock. After 6 o'clock deliveries must be taken south on Macklind avenue to a road which runs behind Forest Park Highlands direct to the exhibition hall. All material must be taken into the hall through a special properties door at the northeast corner of the building.

Every scout and leader attending the show must have a scout pass, which entitles him to admission at any time and as many times as desired. The registration card, however, must be presented with the pass each time. Scouts working on booths Thursday should have their passes with them, as the hall doors will be locked at 6 o'clock, and all persons in the building checked for passes.

Scouts taking part in the show must report for duty at a participants' door on the west side of the building before 6:30 o'clock Thursday and Friday, and by 12:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. All those taking part must wear full uniform, except in cases where the demonstration calls for special clothing, such as overalls or leather aprons. The official uniform will consist of district neckerchief, scout shirt, scout belt, breeches or shorts, cotton or woolen scout stockings, leather shoes and scout insignia. All insignia must be properly placed.

A special booth will be maintained at the show by headquarters, to permit scoutmasters to make settlements for tickets sold by their troops. Rules provide that settlement must be made by a week from Wednesday in order for a troop to receive full credit for its sales. As few troops will hold meetings between the close of the show and that day, the booth will enable scoutmasters to check in their tickets while their troops are together.

Archer-Mann Co. Has Record Sales Increase

The Archer-Mann Motor Co., dis- buter of Marmon cars, reports a cord increase of sales, as com- red with this period last year. e increase, which is slightly more an 500 per cent, is due, the firm ates, to an unusual combination values and special prices.

Again it has been proved, the mpany says, that there is plenty money in the St. Louis area and at it comes to the fore whenever al buying opportunities appear. The Archer-Mann company aced an exceptionally large order r cars with the Marmon factory, ly to find that sales far outran expectations. So a temporary ortage of cars developed, which s decidedly exceptional in these ys. It was necessary largely to crease the order, and now there plenty of models on display.

tarting Made Easier

Hard starting is often remedied re-setting the spark plug spark- points. Wear widens the space tween these points, making it rd for the plug to fire.

Motorists will immediately ap- eciate easier starting, especially winter weather, when the spark- points are set properly.

SENATOR CARAWAY'S FUNERAL TOMORROW

Body to Lie in State at Capitol in Little Rock—Burial at Jonesboro.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 7.—The sorrow cast over Arkansas by the sudden death last night of United States Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway, eloquent Democrat, had not lifted sufficiently today for the State to give serious public consideration to his successor.

The body of Senator Caraway will lie in state at the Arkansas capitol several hours tomorrow and then will be taken to Jonesboro for funeral services and interment Monday. The services will be held at 11 a. m., the entire Arkansas congressional delegation will accompany the body from Little Rock to Jonesboro. Senator Caraway was 60 years old.

His colleague, Senator Joe T. Robinson, leader of the Democratic party—took charge of funeral arrangements.

A special election is compulsory, as the law provides for such in no less than 60 days or more than 120 days. Had Caraway lived two days longer his post could have been filled by Gov. Harvey Parnell. However, Arkansas law provides a general election is necessary where vacancies occur more than one year before the general election.

Senator Caraway's death came without warning last night at a hospital here where he was recovering from an operation he underwent Oct. 29. He complained to his wife of a severe pain and shet went for aid. When she returned he was dead. The arteries that fed his heart had closed.

Word of his death brought messages expressing grief from leaders of his State, his party and his country—from men who knew him as a modest conversationalist, a tiger in debate—one who gave no quarter and asked for none. President Hoover, whose policies Caraway fought at every turn, was among the first to send a message to the widow today. Its contents, keeping with custom, were not revealed.

Several St. Louis Men to Appear in Princeton Show; Parties Planned For Occasion.

THE Princeton Triangle Club, theatrical organization of Princeton University and one of the oldest college organizations of kind in existence, will present its annual musical comedy at the Odeon Monday evening, Dec. 28.

Try-outs for the cast and chorus, which are being held this week at Princeton, will attract 600 members of the student body. The play has been written and will be produced by undergraduates of the school, and the midwinter tour this year will mark its forty-third annual season in the theatrical field. The title of the production has not been announced.

Several St. Louis men will appear in the play, and the club is being managed this season by Albert G. Blanke Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Blanke, 625 Skinker boulevard.

Mary Shepley Is Married to John H. Briggs

Reception for 300 at Bride's Home Follows Service Conducted by Bishop Scarlett in Christ Church Cathedral.

THE chancel of Christ Church Cathedral, where her family has worshiped for several generations, was transformed into a bower of white chrysanthemums for the wedding at sundown yesterday afternoon of Miss Mary Merwin Shepley, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Behn Shepley, 50 Westmoreland place, and John Hamilton Briggs, son of Dr. Charles Edwin Briggs of Cleveland, O.

Hundreds of large white blossoms and small pompons cascaded over cybodium fern to form a floral wall concealing the choir stalls. Lighted cathedral tapers in graduated standards gleamed above the flowers. The stone pillars back of the chancel were banked high with palms and graceful baskets of ferns. On the altar Easter lilies were interspersed among the candles. The service was read by Bishop William Scarlett.

The bride was preceded by two matrons of honor—her sister, Mrs. Edward Lawrence Keyes, and Mrs. Clinton Levering Whittemore Jr., and by nine bridesmaids—Miss Jane Tyler Messick, Miss Lulie Simmons, Mrs. Kenneth Lemoine Green Jr., Mrs. Richard Baldwin, Mrs. Edward C. Simmons II, Mrs. James Lee Johnson, Miss Elizabeth and Miss Jean Briggs, Cleveland, sisters of the bridegroom, and Miss Emily Rosengarten of Philadelphia, formerly of St. Louis.

Charles Edwin Briggs Jr. was his brother's best man, and the ushers included William Palmer, Brigham Britton and Edward Williams, all of Cleveland; Henry Field, Providence, R. I.; G. Anderson Espy, Cincinnati; Edward H. Fitch, Hudson, O.; Ephron Catlin Jr., New York, cousin of the bride; Newton Noble Jr., Akron, O.; Albert E. Johnson, Vincennes, Ind., and Dr. Edward Lawrence Keyes, St. Louis.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Arthur B. Shepley. She was gowned in duchesse satin of a deep ivory tone made simply on long graceful lines. The bodice was fashioned with a round neckline and long satin sleeves. The skirt, fitted to the figure, fell straight to the floor in front and swept to a full circular train. The only trimming was narrow bands of shirred satin. The high waistline was defined by the shirred satin that traced a loop to ornament the front of the bodice. This pattern was repeated on the sleeves just above the elbow, and a low-placed hipline was marked by shirring that followed the lines of a panel to the ends of the train. Her veil was of ivory tinted tulle arranged with a tulle cap adorned by two rows of shirred satin. In place of a bridal bouquet she carried a white satin muff covered with white orchids, lilies of the valley and bovardia.

The bride's attendants wore gowns of aquamarine velvet. The bodice of each was cut to a deep V in the front to almost meet an extremely high waistline. A surplice effect was attained at the back, the velvet being draped to the left side and held in place by double loops of the material. Bias seaming fitted the skirts to the knees, where they flared to the floor. The attendants wore small wrapped turbans of brown velvet and slippers to match the gowns. The matrons of honor carried bouquets of deep red roses and the bridesmaids small muffs of aquamarine velvet, edged with kolinsky fur.

Mrs. Shepley wore an afternoon gown of black velvet, the sleeves of which were finished with a deep cuff of white velvet. She wore a small black velvet hat with a narrow lace nose veil.

A reception for 300 guests followed at Mrs. Shepley's home, where Easter lilies predominated in the decorations. Clusters of the blossoms were used in tall vases throughout the lower floor and the mantels were banked high with them. The living room, with its wood-paneled English walls, was decorated with woodwaria fern and cream-colored tapers arranged before the windows as a background for the receiving line, and the fireplace was concealed beneath a mass of Easter lilies.

The bridal table, seating 20 guests, was covered with a lace cloth, in the center of which stood a crystal and silver epergne of Joanna Hill roses on a Louis VI mirror edged with silver. At each side were crystal candelabra and near the ends were crystal and silver compotes in which gardenias were pyramided in Colonial bouquets.

Mr. Briggs' gift to his bride was a diamond and platinum bracelet. The bride gave her attendants

Makers of Vicks VapoRub Announce a New Plan for Home-Control of Colds

News Comes With Development of a New Product; A Unique Companion to the Famous Treatment, Based on a New Idea for Prevention of Colds.

Makes Possible a Further Reduction of the Family "Colds-Tax" This Winter In Time, Money, Health.

A quarter century ago, Vicks VapoRub introduced the modern external method of treating colds. Now, Vicks Nose & Throat Drops—latest development by the Vicks chemists—introduces a new idea in preventing colds. Together, these perfect allies make possible the new Vick Plan for better "Control of Colds" and reduction of the family "Colds-Tax" in time, money and health.

Here is the Vick Plan of Control:

1.—BEFORE a COLD Starts.

On exposure to colds or to any of the causes that ordinarily lead to colds—(crowded indoor places—stuffy, poorly ventilated rooms—sudden temperature changes—wet and cold, etc., etc.)—that slow down the normal functioning of the nose, Nature's marvelous "first line of defense against colds"—use Vicks Drops promptly. Or, if a cold actually threatens—at that first stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages—a few drops up each nostril, and many annoying colds will be avoided.

2.—AFTER a Cold Starts.

At night, rub Vicks VapoRub well over throat and chest and cover with warm flannel. Leave bed-clothing loose around the neck so the medicated vapors can be inhaled all night long. During the day—any time or place—use the convenient Vicks Drops as often as needed. This gives you full 24-hour treatment. (If there is a cough, you will like the new Vicks Cough Drops—medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub).

Trial Offer to Vick Users.

The makers want every user of Vicks VapoRub to try Vicks Nose Drops. Free trial samples of the Nose Drops were sent every druggist in the United States—but if you failed to gets yours, buy a bottle today and try out the Vick Plan for better Home-Control of Colds as directed. If you are not delighted with results, your druggist is authorized to refund your money without question.

To The Mothers Whose Children Won't Eat

A Simple Way to correct Poor Appetite

NATURE knows best. Never coax a child to eat! Remove the cause of a youngster's poor appetite. When appetite fails, tongue is coated white, eyes are a bilious yellow, don't give small children a constipating cathartic that drains the system and weakens tender bowels! California syrup of figs is all the "medicine" they require.

The Child's Appetite Will Always Respond

Specialists will tell you that a sluggish appetite almost always means the child has a sluggish colon. Correct this condition called stasis, and see how quickly a listless, drooping boy or girl begins to eat—and gain! The only "medicine" such children need is pure, unadulterated syrup of figs.

California syrup of figs is doing wonderful things for ailing, sickly children all over the United States. Children who get syrup of figs, now and then, soon have the appetite and energy of young animals! They keep well and avoid colds and sluggish spells.

Begin Tonight

Nature never made a finer laxative for children; and they all love the wholesome, fruity flavor of the real California syrup of figs. It's purely vegetable, but every druggist has it all bottled, with directions. Begin with it at once. The very next day, your child will be eating better and feeling better. Keep on with the syrup of figs a few days and you will see the most amazing improvement in appetite, color, weight, and spirits.

A SINGLE "IF"
The promises made by the bottlers of California Syrup of Figs are true—and it will do the same for you—IF it's genuine CALIFORNIA Syrup of Figs. Don't accept any bottle that does not plainly say CALIFORNIA. Every druggist has the genuine.

KIEL AS RECEIVER TO TAKE CHARGE OF HOTEL CHASE

Ex-Mayor to Direct Its Operation as Soon as He Gives $100,000 Surety Bond Required by Court.

The operation of Hotel Chase will be taken over by former Mayor Henry W. Kiel as receiver, under appointment by Circuit Judge Rosskopf yesterday, as soon as Kiel furnishes a $100,000 surety bond.

Kiel, a partner in Boaz-Kiel Construction Co., building contractors, is President of the Police Board, president of the Municipal Theater Association. Edward W. Foristel, Republican politician, was appointed attorney for the receiver at the request of counsel for the interests concerned. The receiver was named by agreement of all interests. Hotel Chase is at the northeast corner of Kingshighway and Lindell boulevard.

The hotel, like many other apartment and hotel enterprises in St. Louis and other cities, has been unable to make enough money to keep up with the large monthly payments on its $2,700,000 first mortgage bond issue. It has been in financial difficulties repeatedly and since March has been operated by the trustees for the first mortgage. The corporation holding the equity in the property, the Chase Hotel Co., was formed after a reorganization in 1928 and operated the establishment until the trustees took it over.

In Default Nearly a Year.

Since the Chase was opened in September, 1922, it has reduced the first mortgage to $1,922,000 and satisfied a $315,000 second mortgage, but for nearly a year, according to the trustees, it has been in default of payments on the first mortgage. These payments were due monthly, with a sliding scale of annual reduction. The hotel's difficulties have been attributed to decreased business.

The trustees are S. J. T. Straus, president of S. W. Straus & Co., Chicago, which financed the building, and William R. Orthwein, St. Louis attorney for the Straus company. When they took over the Chase they filed suit in the Circuit Court to foreclose the bonds and asked for a receiver. The suit was not pressed, because attempts at reorganization were made. Failing in this, the trustees withdrew and asked the Court yesterday to appoint a receiver. The petition for foreclosure still stands, and is likely to be pressed eventually, according to Orthwein, unless a further endeavor to reorganize is successful.

Orthwein said the $315,000 second mortgage was absorbed in some manner in the deal whereby the Chase Hotel Co. succeeded the Lindell Hotel Co. as operator and owner of the equity in 1928. William A. Meletio, president of the Chase company, declared the second mortgage was paid in cash.

How Financing Was Handled.

S. W. Straus & Co. financed the Chase by floating the $2,700,000 first mortgage bond issue. It sold the bonds at par to investors all over the country, taking its profit and expenses by discounting the proceeds to the hotel company. According to Orthwein, this dsicount was about 10 per cent, or $270,000, so that the loan netted $2,430,000 for construction purposes. In an answer to the foreclosure suit, filed last July, Julius E. and Agnes C. Tribout, owners of the hotel site, alleged that proceeds of the loan were only $2,000,000 and that exorbitant interest was charged. Orthwein, denying this yesterday, said the Tribouts were "straw men" for Chase Ulman, who promoted and originally controlled the hotel.

Judge Rosskopf was told by Theodore Rassieur, attorney for the trustees, that the Chase Hotel Co. had not co-operated fully in the effort to reorganize. In behalf of the trustees and other interests, except the hotel company, Rassieur suggested the appointment of Orthwein as co-receiver. Paul Dillon, attorney for the hotel company, opposed this, saying that Orthwein was unacceptable because as trustee under other S. W. Straus & Co. bond issues Orthwein was operating the Coronado Hotel, a competitor of the Chase, and the Mayfair Hotel. The company's answer to the foreclosure suit charges the trustees with dereliction in their duties, Dillon pointed out, and he asserted that the Chase had been losing money since the trustees took it over.

"Kicked Around Like Football."

Denying the truth of Dillon's assertions, Orthwein refused to accept appointment as co-receiver. He said the failure to reorganize was due to obstructions by the hotel company and reported that "most of the tenants were gone" when the trustees took charge. Under the trustees' management, he went on, the hotel made money, but not enough to keep up with the mortgage payments. He quoted Dillon as having said the common stockholders of the company would receive nothing for their investment. Orthwein added that the Chase had been "kicked around like a football," having changed hands seven times in nine years.

The Chase Hotel Co., incorporated in 1928, has 16,000 shares of no-par-value common stock and has issued $73,000 of an authorized $500,000 in preferred stock. Most of the preferred stock was given to satisfy claims of general creditors of the old Lindell Hotel Co., including supply dealers.

Of the common stock, Meletio, president of the company, a seafood dealer, and George L. Zollmann, treasurer of the company, a produce merchant, own 2750 shares each. Zollmann said the other large holdings were: Estate of the late T. T. Anderson, tobacco manufacturer, about 2500 shares; Preston J. Bradshaw, architect of the Chase and Coronado hotels and operator of the Coronado until trustees took it over, about 1750; Thomas J. Hester, heating contractor, about 500; S. C. McCormack, contractor, and a group of associates, together about 500. These stockholders control the company, holding about 10,750 shares. Chase Ulman was in the company originally but withdrew.

Judgement Outstanding.

For the common stock, about $400,000, or $25 a share, was paid by the holders, Dillon said. Meletio and Zollmann expressed the hope yesterday that the common stockholders would get a substantial amount back from their investment. Zollmann said the company's only debts besides the first mortgage consisted of less than $50,000 due general creditors. Orthwein was unable to forecast whether the bond holders would be paid in full.

On Sept. 21 Circuit Judge Ossing rendered judgement for $18,084 against the Chase Hotel Co. in favor of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co. as executor of Mr. Anderson's estate. This covers $15,000 due on a note and interest from May 24, 1928. Judgment not having been satisfied, the Court issued an order Friday directing the Sheriff to sell the hotel building and site to obtain satisfaction. Sheriff Strodtman is preparing to hold the sale Dec. 2. This is not expected to interfere with the receivership, lawyers saying the Sheriff could sell only the company's equity.

Six Injured at Rail Crossing.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Five University of Minnesota students and a St. Paul salesman were injured, none seriously, today when an automobile in which they were driving to the Minnesota-Northwestern football game at Evanston was struck by a Milwaukee train at Northbrook.

Dr. L. P. Hall, research chemist for the Mallinckrodt Chemical Works, will speak on "The Age of the Earth" at a luncheon meeting of the St. Louis Electrical Board of Trade at Hotel Statler Tuesday.

OTHER PROPERTIES ATTRACT INVESTORS

Negotiations Reported to Be Pending for 10-Year Lease on U. O. Nelson Structure on Chestnut.

By Berry Moore

Pointed to by real estate men as of noteworthy significance, the week closed with several downtown building objects of speculative interest.

Real estate and financial circles are said to be especially interested in the Lorenzo E. Anderson & Co.'s building at 711 St. Charles street, recently listed for sale, together with the adjoining property on the east, with the real estate department of the Mercantile Commerce Bank and Trust Co. Inquiries were reported looking to the purchase of this property on the part of both brokerage concerns and speculators.

The building is a three-story fireproof structure with a massive red granite front. It is especially well equipped for a large wirehouse brokerage concern. It was designed by the late Tom P. Barnett, architect. The lot, 40x69 feet 4 inches, is occupied under a 99-year lease executed in 1905.

The adjoining lot, 20 by 69 feet, at 709 St. Charles street, offered in connection, was acquired by the Anderson company under a 99-year lease in 1925, with plans for ultimate enlargement.

Considered Important Block.

The building is now occupied by the Reorganization Investment Co., which is liquidating the assets of Lorenzo E. Anderson & Co., which include the St. Charles street property. It is diagonally opposite the St. Charles street entrance of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co.

The block, bounded by Washington avenue, St. Charles, Seventh and Eighth streets, in which the Lorenzo E. Anderson building is situated, is considered one of the most important in the retail district. It has been under discussion several times for large department store building projects.

Offers were also reported for the nine-story Columbia building at the southeast corner of Eighth and Locust streets, owned by the late Oliver J. Anderson, who was president of the stock and bond concern of Oliver J. Anderson & Co. These offers, which involved trades, were not considered. Title to the property is now vested in his estate, of which the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co. is co-executor. The property has never been offered for sale.

Anderson Impressed by Site.

The building, together with the site, was acquired by Anderson several years prior to his death. He was impressed by the future of this part of the city, enhanced by the plans advanced for the upbuilding of the present Federal Building block, which will become available with the completion of the new Federal Building at Twelfth and Market streets.

The entire second floor of the Columbia building was recently taken under lease by Festus J. Wade Jr. & Co., investment bankers. The building is under the management of J. C. Smith of Oliver J. Anderson & Co.

Lease Negotiations Reported.

Martin & Breitt, downtown leasing specialists, reported negotiations pending for a 10-year lease of the eight-story building at the southeast corner of Tenth and Chestnut streets, owned by N. O. Nelson Manufacturing Co. This building, embracing a quarter of a block, has remained vacant since the N. O. Nelson Manufacturing Co. moved to its new building on the Wabash tracks on Duncan avenue. It is being offered for sale or for lease.

The Apex Bond and Mortgage Co. reports renewed interest in the buildings of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. at the northeast corner of Olive and Twenty-first streets, and at the southeast corner of Locust and Twenty-first streets. A lease of half of the main floor of the Locust street building has been acquired by the Community Council to be used as an office of the Bureau for the Placement of Homeless Men.

The three-story building at the northeast corner of Locust street and Cardinal avenue has been acquired under a long lease by the Rederer-Rengers Buick, Inc., through the First National company. It will be occupied for the sale and servicing of new Buick automobiles. The building comprises 21,000 square feet and is equipped with elevators, sprinkler system, etc.

TO HELP FAMILIES IN BUYING HOMES ON SMALL INCOME

National Real Estate Board Will Send Out Guide Book Showing How to Save Down Payment.

One million families living in cities will receive Dec. 1 the reorganization sheets being prepared by the National Association of Real Estate Boards as a measure to stimulate home buying and building. This will be a feature of the association's first national home savings day undertaken as an emergency program to widen the home buying market by showing employed renters how to save the all-important down-payment.

The association believes there is a great untouched market for the real estate and allied interests among families who are earning, but who, neither in good times nor bad, plan definitely to save for home ownership.

The guide being prepared by the association contains definite suggestions for saving, but does not attempt to change living standards. Banks, building and loan associations, title companies, public utilities, and material and equipment manufacturkers are joining in the unusual effort to increase the home owners.

This plan, announced three weeks ago, has been effective in stimulating activity in many real estate offices, according to Harry S. Kissell of Springfield, O., president of the association. "Long forgotten mailing lists are being dusted off for use Dec. 1, and salesmen are preparing to assume the role of bankers, at least long enough to counsel prospects to save for home owning," Kissell said.

Result of Contest.

"The idea for this program came as a result of a contest we held a year ago asking for essays on how the down-payment was secured by home-owning families. We had felt for a long time that the difficulty in getting the down-payment together was keeping many families from home-owning. The letters received from all parts of the country in our contest showed that this is, indeed, a grave problem for the average family living on a small income.

"The letters we received from home owners show that these families had undertaken the greatest sacrifices, planned in many unusual ways—and twisted and turned the families' earnings—in order to accumulate enough to make the first payment on a home.

"These were people who had made the grade, and we felt that others, perhaps with less imagination, would welcome guidance along this line. The figures we are preparing are suggestive. Some families may not want to follow our ideas, but the program will make it possible to bring out the fact that proper financial planning makes it possible for even low-salaried people to become home owners.

"It is true that this problem varies from the pleas of other interests that would have the country spend as freely as possible at this time; but it should be remembered that the same interests promoting the spending campaigns also indorse the idea that a resumption of home construction will bring a return of prosperity. The merke urging that the public buy and build homes has not and will not produce that result.

Will Stimulate Sales.

"As one real estate man pointed out to me, this home savings program will not only touch those who have not saved for home owning, but may make the family that has funds in the bank spend them for a home by showing them how other amounts can be accumulated so that they will not be using their last cent for this purpose."

Title companies and others will use the saving guide to send to mortgage holders who have become delinquent in their payments, Kissell said.

Kissell has been summoned to Washington to attend a special meeting of the Committee on Finance of the President's Conference on Home Building and Home Ownership, called by President Hoover to meet at the White House on Tuesday. The committee is seeking ways and means of thawing our "frozen" real estate credit in order to encourage revival of home buying and home building, and to aid business in general.

HEAD OF U. S. REALTY MEN TO SPEAK HERE

H. S. Kissell to Explain Mortgage Discount Plan at Dinner Tuesday Night.

Harry S. Kissell of Springfield, O., president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, will address the members of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange and invited guests at a dinner in the Palm Room of the Hotel Chase Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

He has been invited to come to St. Louis by the board of directors of the exchange to present to the real estate men, bankers and financiers of Greater St. Louis the plan of the national association for the establishment by Federal legislation of a central mortgage discount bank for the rediscounting of real estate mortgages. The plan does not propose interference with the present loaning business of real estate dealers or mortgage brokers, but rather, by drawing on the nation's investment saving, would help them increase their business by making larger capital available and enabling them to rediscount mortgages made by them. In the interest of the property owner, it is also proposed to remove the hazard of short-term home financing and reduce the excessive cost of junior financing.

At the annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards in Baltimore last May, a committee composed of Kissell, Walter S. Schmidt of Cincinnati, O., Charles G. Edwards of New York, Guy Greene of Detroit, and Sidney Middleton of Chicago, was appointed to confer with President Hoover on this matter. The committee has held several conferences with the President. Kissell talked with Mr. Hoover Tuesday and Wednesday of last week in an endeavor to have the plan completely formulated for presentation to Congress at its next session.

Bernard F. Dickmann, president of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange, will preside at the dinner. Edward M. Thornhill, chairman of the exchange's Entertainment Committee, is in charge of arrangements.

125 HOUSES IN SINGLE UNIT BEING BUILT AT PITTSBURG

Limited Dividend Project Expected to Stimulate Movement for Large-Scale Operations in U. S.

A limited dividend project for a 300-family community now being carried out in Pittsburg, Pa., by the Buhl Foundation, will, it is predicted, stimulate the movement for large-scale housing operations throughout the country.

The plan contemplates an initial group of 125 houses, according to a report by Frederick Bigger, chairman of the Committee on Economics of Site Planning and Housing of the American Institute of Architects. Construction has started, and the first of the structures, each comprising two to seven single-family dwellings separated by party walls, will be ready for occupancy in May.

The site is a rugged strip which has not been built on from the time it was originally acquired from William Penn.

One of the major purposes of the undertaking is to demonstrate that low cost housing offers a sound medium for the investment of endowment or other trust funds, without unusual risk to the principal and without sacrifice of income. It is hoped thus to show that it is possible to make philanthropic funds do double work.

A second purpose is the demonstration of advanced standards of site planning, house design and building, financial and operating management. The Foundation, Bigger declares, regards its project as having wide significance; it recognizes that the venture must be commercially successful within the self-imposed limit of a net return of almost 5 per cent; and it has asserted "more than an ordinary sense of responsibility to omit no consideration that may contribute to its success."

The dwellings are to be rented, not sold. "This appears to have been a very wise decision," Bigger says, "and I believe it was reached only after careful examination of a number of factors that are frequently disregarded.

"Certainly the difficulty of obtaining credit, or the high cost of financing, do not represent all the handicaps of the average young couple trying to acquire a home. The new purchaser's financial obligations are not eased if his community is extravagant in public expenditure, if both the home value and finanical value of his dwelling depreciate because of inadequate protection of his neighborhood.

"After the Buhl Foundation project has been designed and built as a community group of dwellings, the sale of the houses would mean the loss of any centralized control and protection. With a multitude of individual ownerships, with diverse individual financial hazards, and personal outlook, there could be no effective protection against the later influx of inharmonious families, or against zoning changes that lead to the ruin of the community's physical attractiveness and the lowering of its property values."

H. A. O'ROURKE ELECTED TO BROKERS' EXECUTIVE GROUP

H. A. O'Rourke, president of H. A. O'Rourke, Inc., 5471 Gravois avenue, was elected to the Executive Committee of the Brokers' Division of the National Association of Real Estate Boards at a recent meeting in Chicago.

O'Rourke will take office at the installation banquet, which will take place in St. Louis the third week in January

Trend Toward Basic Architectural Type Creates Favorable Interest

Unusual simplicity adds charm and permanence to small home group.

The tendency towards four straight walls, duplicated in long rows of small homes, resulted several years ago in a demand for individuality. Attempts to produce individuality in turn produced many highly decorative, but in many cases grotesque, so-called architectural effects. Fad architecture goes out of style quickly and destroys value. Design based on fundamental types of architecture remains in good taste for generations.

Simplicity Keynote of Basic Types

The small cottage of rural England, with its pleasing roof lines and interesting bays has been in favor for centuries and will undoubtedly be in good taste for many years to come. The English town house with its half-timbered second floor has also stood the test of time, especially when its original simplicity has been maintained. Little need be said about our own Colonial architecture. Passing years seem to have no effect on its charm.

Exhibit Illustrates Three Basic Types

Three small homes, reminiscent of the three types of architecture described, have been designed by Klingensmith and Grover and constructed by the Albert Wenzlick Real Estate Company at 6478, 6482 and 6484 Lloyd Avenue, and are open to the public every day and evening. The English cottage has been completely and appropriately furnished by the Lammert Furniture Co. and the American Stove Co. While these buildings are not at present for sale, their prices are all less than $7,900. Lloyd Avenue is two blocks north of Manchester and the group is just west of Tamm Avenue.

Top Flight a great filly and possibly the best that has been shown in years. She was fractious at the gate, got away well, ran into a contending position around lower turn, followed pace closely to entering stretch, where she ran into lead and stood long drive gamely. Tick On was possibly best, but was unfortunate at the start by breaking slow. He moved up very fast and finished with a rush. Burgoo King well up from the start, held on well. Mad Pursuit closed a big gap and finished fast. Osculator dropped far out of it in first half mile, but came strongly at end. Big Beau ran good race. Hygro, well up from the start, had no mishap. Lucky Tom broke in his stride, showed speed for five furlongs, then tired. Pompeius made a bid around turn, but weakened in final drive.

Two-dollar mutuels paid: Top Flight, win $4.20, place $3.20, show $2.60; Tick On, place $3.60, show $3.00; Burgoo King, show $3.50.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7.—Top Flight, C. V. Whitney's brilliant undefeated filly, today raced her way to victory in the $40,000 added Pimlico Futurity, to the top of the two-year-old heap and to three new records.

The gallant daughter of Dis Donc-Flyatit outran a field of the best two-year-olds, fought off a challenge in the stretch and finished a neck ahead of Tick On, of the Loma Stable, to win the $56,170 which went to the first horse.

By virtue of her victory in 1:44 4-5, Top Flight set a new mark for the mile and a sixteenth distance, set a new mark for winnings by two-year-olds and also set a record for winnings by one of her sex. The former time record for the modern futurity distance was 1:47, set by Flying Heels in winning the 1929 running.

Burgoo King, E. R. Bradley's son of Bubbling Over, finished third, and Mad Pursuit ran more than a length back to take fourth money.

12 Horses in Race.

Twelve youngsters faced the barrier and were delayed nine minutes at the start. Lucky Tom, an outsider, shot to the front as the barrier went up and was followed by Osculator, Hygro, Top Flight, and Burgoo King.

Top Flight, with "Sonny" Workman up, began to move up on the back stretch and raced forward with apparent ease. Going into the turn the filly responded to urging, and an eighth of a mile from the finish forged into the lead as Lucky Tom wilted and dropped far to the rear.

Tick On got away to a poor start, but gave Top Flight a gallant run in the stretch, moving up fast and finishing with a rush, just short of nosing out the Whitney filly. Burgoo King held on well from the start, while Mad Pursuit closed a big gap and finished fast.

The race was Top Flight's seventh start as a two-year-old and her seventh victory. The race made her the greatest money winning horse of her sex in the history of racing, with a total of $225,000, as compared with Sceptre's $197,915. Her earnings also set a new record for winnings by a two-year-old, the old one being $170,890, held by Domino.

Last Start as Two-Year-Old.

Top Flight paid her backers at the rate of $4.20 to win, $3.20 to place and $2.60 to show on a $2 mutuel ticket. Tick On rewarded his backers with $3.60 to place and $3 to show, while Burgoo King paid $3.50 for each show ticket. A total of $142,000 was wagered on the race.

Second place was worth $5000, third $2500 and fourth $1000. The also-rans were Osculator, Big Beau, Pompeius, Overtime, Gallant Sir, Lucky Tom, Hygro and Semaphore, which finished in order. Made Frump, Marmion and On Post were scratched.

Vice President Charles Curtis and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland were among the 35,000 who saw the race feature of the autumn season.

Top Flight, after winning the race for the second straight year for the Whitney silks, will be retired until she makes her appearance as a three-year-old next spring.

Illinois Runners Win.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 7.—Illinois cross-country runners defeated Michigan and Ohio State in a triangular meet over the four-mile University of Michigan course today. The Illini scored 27 points, Michigan 30 and Ohio State 71.

Wray's COLUMN

Man for Man.

NOT long ago, in the game with Drake, Hunk Anderson, the new genius of Notre Dame, used 57 football players to overwhelm the foe. Drake, a smaller school, had perhaps half as many available men and of these only 18, we will hazard, measured up fully to first string requirements. It is the popular belief and the boast of Notre Dame's followers that its third or fourth team could afford the varsity first-class opposition.

All of which suggests the thought that popular schools like Notre Dame, where turning out football players is almost a mass production proposition, should temper their superiority to the shorn lambs.

In other words, if a school sends an eligibility list containing only 10 substitutes, why would it not be a good sporting policy for its better equipped foe to meet this visiting squad on a man-for-man basis and limit its substitution list to the same number of replacements mentioned by the opposing team?

A small enrollment school might have 18 first-rate players who could hold their own with any 18 rivals; but they could hardly withstand the assaults say of 36 to 50 enemy replacements.

Shock troops can take a lot of efficiency out of regulars who can not be replaced.

U. S. C. Defeats Stanford 19 to 0 Before 95,000

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7.—Southern California advanced a long stride toward the Pacific Coast Conference Football Championship by defeating Stanford 19 to 0 today before a record crowd estimated [illegible] 95,000 persons.

The largest assembly to witness a football game in Los Angeles saw the Trojans of Southern California display a powerful attack with which the alert but less sturdy Indians from Stanford could not cope.

The players of Howard Jones and followers as well of Southern California awaited with fearsome anticipation some wizardry from Glenn Warner and not until the game was over was the fear dissipitated that the veteran "Pop" might begin at any minute to pull rabbits out of any available helmets.

The old magician introduced a clever hidden ball that baffled the Trojan team but it was not enough to manufacture a touchdown.

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 7.—After being checked for 56 minutes by a band of hard-fighting Dartmouth Indians today, Capt. Barry Wood rallied his fumbling and stumbling Harvard forces just long enough to put over a touchdown with one of his amazing aerial miracles and then drop-kicked the vital point that gave the undefeated Crimson a 7-6 victory.

Four Harvard scoring thrusts had been turned back by the valiant Indians and there was but four minutes unplayed when Wood opened a determined overhead attack on Dartmouth's 38-yard line. He attempted two short heaves that were grounded and drew a five-yard penalty. Another toss was ruined and on fourth down he ran wide to the right on the 45-yard line and whipped a long, straight pass that Carl Hageman caught at the 10-yard line. Hageman was unchallenged as he ran over the Dartmouth goal line and Wood coolly booted the winning point between the uprights.

Dartmouth put over its touchdown early, after its acting captain, Quarterback Bill Morton, recovered John Schereschewsky's fumble on Harvard's 29-yard line. Morton faded back on the first play and completed a scoring pass to Halfback Bill McCall, hero of last week's tie with Yale. Hageman blocked the place-kick try for the seventh point and twice afterward, when Harvard miscues enabled Dartmouth to penetrate its territory, Morton was unable to score with place-kicks inside the 25-yard line.

Nebraska Sub Beats Iowa, 7-0

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 7.—A 62-yard victory march in the third period enabled the University of Nebraska, Big Six Conference title seekers, to humble the University of Iowa here today by a count of 7 to 0.

Marvin Paul, subbing in the backfield, furnished the punch for the Cornhuskers. Starting on his own 38-yard line after an exchange of punts, he consistently hit the line for yardage, finally plunging across from the six-yard mark. George Koster, Husker guard, booted the ball squarely between the goal posts for the extra marker.

100 to 0 Victory for Michigan State; 32 Points for Monnett

By the Associated Press.

EAST LANSING MICH., Nov. 7.

MICHIGAN State's "iron man" football team, led by Halfback Bob Monnett and liberally sprinkled with substitutes, ran wild over Ripon College today, crushing the Wisconsin eleven with a score of 100 to 0.

The game, considered a breather before State's annual tilt with the University of Michigan next Saturday, enabled Monnett to boost his point total for the season to 126. He scored four touchdowns and made eight points after touchdown by placements.

Tulsa Gets 89 Points Against University of Mexico.

By the Associated Press.

TULSA, Nov. 7.—The University of Mexico's heavier but less experienced "Futbol" team took a terrific drubbing at the hands of the University of Tulsa eleven here this afternoon. The final score was Tulsa 89; Mexico 0.

QUEEN OF THE TURF She Set a World Record for Money Won

Top Flight, C. V. Whitney's unbeaten two-year-old filly, surpassed Sceptre's record (for fillies) of $197,915 by winning the Pimlico Futurity. She is shown above winning the Belmont Futurity, her biggest individual money prize, worth $94,780. She undoubtedly will be winter book favorite for the Preakness and the Kentucky Derby.

Northwestern Comes From Behind and Beats Minnesota, 32-14

By Charles Dunkley
Associated Press Sports Writer.

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 7.—It's all over now except the shouting for Northwestern. The undefeated Wildcats of Northwestern, the same team that held Notre Dame to a scoreless tie, mowed down Minnesota, 32 to 14, in a fourth period scoring riot before a homecoming crowd of 48,000 today, and as good as won the 1931 championship of the Western Conference. Only Iowa and Indiana remain in the path of the Wildcats for undisputed championship honors. It appears overwhelmingly certain the Hawkeyes and Hoosiers will be conquered by just as many touchdowns as Northwestern wishes to score.

In the most dramatic game played in the Big Ten this season, Northwestern, trailing 14 to 0 at one time, came back like a real championship team, to score five touchdowns, and eliminate the Gophers, the only other undefeated crew remaining in the championship race.

Gophers Score on Four Plays.

For the greater part of the first half Northwestern, taken by stunning surprise by a touchdown Minnesota scored on the first startling four plays of the game, was outplayed and overwhelmed. And before the Wildcats could get their bearing, Minnesota had crashed over with another touchdown. But in the end class, speed, power and superior material, plus courage, turned the game into a victory, after the Vikings from the North had played their hearts out in vain.

The first half ended with Minnesota leading, 14 to 7. At the start of the third period a drama was unfolded that reminded the spectators of "Red" Grange. "Pug" Rentner, Northwestern's flashy halfback, grabbed the opening kick-off and, running behind marvelous interference, slashed his way 95 yards for a touchdown.

Ollie Olson, the great Northwestern kicker, failed to drop-kick to tie the score, but this omission failed to cause a ripple.

The second play of the fourth period, a dramatic and tricky forward passing formation, resulted in another surprise touchdown for

SOLDAN WINS, TIES FOR LEAD; CENTRAL VICTOR

By Harold Tuthill.

The Soldan High School football team established itself as a worthy contender for the City High School League championship when it defeated Cleveland, 7 to 0, yesterday afternoon in the first game of the double-header at the Public Schools Stadium. Central moved out of the cellar by taking a 6 to 0 decision from Beaumont in the second contest.

It was a fine day for football and about 8000 spectators saw the well-fought battles.

There had been a tendency to count Soldan out of the running, because the West End eleven failed to impress when it won from Central, 2 to 0, in the opening game of the season. The poor showing then was largely due to a bad fumbling habit, no trace of which was apparent in the game with Cleveland yesterday.

Break Permits Soldan Score.

Both the Soldan and Cleveland lines were about equally matched and it took one break, an excellent play for the West Enders, to earn the victory. In the second quarter, Soldan was in possession of the ball in midfield and Bob Minkey dropped back to forward pass. Minkey faked to the right and shot a shot pass to Leon Hudson, on the left, Hudson reversing his field and running 43 yards for the touchdown. Leslie Post added the extra point by place-kicking.

The Cleveland attack, based on a single wing back formation, which was a change from the triple-quarterback, did not function well until the end of the third quarter and the beginning of the fourth period. Starting from the Soldan 27-yard line, Earl Hahn passed to Lester Pieper for 12 yards. Earl carried the ball once and Gene Poteet twice to bring the ball to the four-yard mark, with four downs to go. Here the Soldan line stiffened and held Cleveland for downs. Hudson punted from behind the goal line out to the 49-yard line to relieve the tense situation.

The victory put Soldan in a tie with Roosevelt for the lead.

Pass Wins for Central.

It was a long forward pass by Central that spelled defeat for Beaumont. In the opening period, the mid-City eleven started from the Beaumont 48-yard and moved SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 7.—Notre Dame's football hurricane swept the Quakers from Pennsylvania right into a storm cellar today and buried them there under the debris of an astounding 49-to-0 defeat.

The one-sided triumph for the "Fighting Irish," which boosted their long victory string to 25 in 26 combats, came after probably the best display of offensive power ever witnessed on the home battlefield, before 35,000 spectators. Holding the Quakers without much effort except for a mild threat that carried into their 33-yard line at the start of the third period, the men of Notre Dame scored almost at will. The first team piled up 21 points in the first two periods just to prove their contention of superiority, the seconds took up the baton in the last half and completed the rout by rolling up four more touchdowns, before their dazed and battered foes, who had ridden into the West with an undefeated record.

The rout of the Quakers was nine points greater than the one staged by the Rockne raiders on Penn's home lot a year ago, when they dazzled their foes with a 60-to-20 victory. Even today's score might have been higher, for twice the Irish backs ploughed to within easy scoring distance, only to lose their chance by penalties, which set them back 40 yards during the afternoon's track meet.

The Greatest Team.

If ever the critics agreed that Notre Dame of 1931 was on a par, or better than the undefeated elevens of 1929 and 30, and the immortal Four Horsemen of 1924, it was today. Pennsylvania threw up a stronger battle line than a year ago, they all agreed, despite the loss of two star ends, but the difference between the two teams was 49 points or more. After the first period, the great Quaker line sagged and wavered, unable to stop the fury of the South Bend hurricane. Official statistics show the yawning chasm of class between the two. From the line of scrimmage alone, the Irish backs gained 390 yards to but 30 for the Quakers, while the variance in first downs was 16 to 3 in Notre Dame's favor.

It was the one and only Mr. Marchmont Schwartz who started the Notre Dame victory march. After a few thrusts, Schwartz took the ball on a delayed buck and smashed the Quaker ramparts through his own right tackle for 16 yards and a touchdown. Jaskwhich kicked the extra point from placement. Joe Sheeketski immediately followed through by going through the same spot for 46 yards and another score behind perfect interference. A pass netted the third touchdown. Taking the ball on their own 23-yard line, the Irish backs skirted the ends and smashed the line until they brought the ball to midfield. Then Schwartz dropped back and heaved a long, high pass to Jaskwhich, who jogged over from the Penn 13-yard line for the score.

The first and last real Quaker threat came after the start of the third quarter, when they tossed safety measures to the winds and unleashed a passing attack. But the 33-yard line was as far as they could go and the Notre Dame seconds went to work.

Koken Starts March.

Koken started the march of the seconds by sprinting 17 yards around his own right end behind airtight interference to cross the Quaker goal. A few minutes later he flipped a pass over the center of the line to Host from the Quaker 11-yard stripe for another tally. Two more scores rattled off the Irish gatling gun in the final period

AMES, Ia., Nov. 7.—An Iowa State football team came back today from a three-year stretch of ill fortune to make a bid for the Big Six championship by overcoming the previously undefeated Kansas Aggies, 7 to 6.

A place kick from the toe of Dick Grefe, lanky halfback, after Kenneth Wells had gathered in a pass for a touchdown, was the margin that sent the Kansans into the ranks of the vanquished conference elevens. Nebraska, the Cyclones' only remaining Big Six foe, is the only other undefeated eleven in the conference.

The Kansans outgamed Iowa State consistently from scrimmage, making 393 yards to the Cyclones' 83, but the veteran Cyclone line folded over the Aggie backfield when the goal line was in sight and gave the dependable Roger Bowen, quarterback, a chance to kick out of danger. Twice the Cyclone forwards had their feet on their own goal line and turned back the Aggies.

The invaders scored first in the initial period when Eldon Auker broke through his left tackle and raced 80 yards to a touchdown. His try for the extra point failed.

The Cyclones, aided by a break, counted their winning points in the second period. With the ball on the Kansas Aggie 44-yard line, Schafroth heaved a long pass 40 yards to Wells. Auker tried desperately to knock down the throw but just tipped the ball, knocking it into the hands of the Cyclone end, who raced to the goal line 10 yards away.

Louisiana State Is Defeated by Army Team, 20-0

By the Associated Press.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 7.—A stubborn, colorful band of Tigers from Louisiana State, clad in purple and backed by all the loyalty of the State, gave Army a tussle today before bowing, 20 to 0.

Far more powerful, with a multitude of reserves, the Cadets scored in each of the first three periods and forced the Tigers to stop a final march on downs on the seven-yard line in the final quarter.

Ray Stecker, Army's halfback ace, climaxed a drive from midfield through the Louisiana tackles by loping around his own right end to score the first touchdown on a five-yard run in the opening quarter. With the Tigers pressing in the second quarter, Joe Almokary, who throws passes high and far, tossed one from Army's 32-yard line that dropped into the arms of Paul Johnson, husky young Cadet back, on his own 10-yard stripe, and Johnson raced 90 yards down the sideline to score the second touchdown. Tom Kilday leaped over the Tiger center for three yards and the final touchdown in the third quarter.

NOTRE DAME SCORES EASY VICTORY OVER PENNSYLVANIA TEAM

—Leonard taking the leather over from the one-foot line after another march down the field and Cronin sweeping around the Quaker line for 12 yards and the final score. To add to their class, every attempt for extra point from placement was good, splitting the uprights perfectly. Then, just before the game ended Leonard of the seconds ripped off an 18-yard dash to the Quaker 16-yard lone only to be called back and hear a five-yard penalty for off-side.

While Schwartz again was the starting sparkplug of the Irish machine today, it was Sheeketski who reeled off the most yardage from the line of scrimmage. He lugged the ball seven times for 77 yards, or an average of 11 yards a thrust. Schwartz averaged 4.4 yards a try, while Koken averaged 5.7, and Ray Brancheau, another "sub," averaged 6.1 yards. Carl Perina, Pennsylvania's great fullback, was stopped in his tracks most of the afternoon, averaging but 1.4 yards a try. Most of the Quaker linesmen were badly shell-shocked and Bob McCaffery, Quaker guard, was carried off the field in a stretcher with a badly wrenched shoulder.

COUNTRY DAY IS DEFEATED, 27-0, BY MILWAUKEE

Bob Greene, captain and fullback of Milwaukee Country Day School, ran wild on St. Louis Country Day School's field yesterday afternoon and Milwaukee won, 27 to 0.

Greene scored one touchdown on a 33-yard run, while his dashes put the ball in scoring position two other times, on which occasions Kelley carried the ball over the line, and on the fourth touchdown it was Greene who passed to Warner for the score. In addition to all of that, Greene kicked three extra points out of four tries.

Wheaton's punting was all that held the score against St. Louis down to what it was.

CONGRESSIONAL CLUB CADDY MASTER LEADS IN GOLF TOURNAMENT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Frank Cunningham, caddy master of the Congressional Country Club, playing in his first big tournament, led the field today in the opening round of the national capital open tourney with an even par 70.

Cunningham's closest rival among a field of 133 at the Kenwood Club, was Willie MacFarlane, 1925 open champion, who scored a 72. Wiffy Cox of Brooklyn was third with 73.

E. L. Caldwell and Thomas Cole, both of the Hillendale Club of Baltimore tied for amateur honors with scores of 77. Billy Howell, Richmond's 19-year-old star who was finalist in the national amateur, fell down on his last nine to score a 79.

Many of the best known professionals were far down the list, including Gene Sarazen with 76; Tom Creavy, P. G. A. champion, with 77; Johnny Farrell, 78; Tommy Armour, British open champion, 78, and John Golden, 82.

60,000 Watch Ohio State Trim Navy Eleven 20-0

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 7.—Ohio State smeared the Navy gridiron machine to the tune of 20 to 0 before a homecoming crowd of more than 60,000 this afternoon.

The Buckeyes scored twice in the second period and once in the third. All the touchdowns were made by linemen, Ferrall and Gillman, the Buckeye ends, and the points after touchdown were registered by another lineman, Haubrich, tackle.

Navy got within striking distance of the Buckeye goal time and again, but lacked the punch to put the ball over.

GUNNERS MEET CHICAGO ELEVEN IN INTER-CITY FOOTBALL GAME

In the football half of the intercity competitions between St. Louis and Chicago today, the Battery A Gunners will entertain the Chicago Panthers at Public School Stadium in the local pro team's third game of the season. Kickoff will be at 2:30.

Beef and experience in league play make the Panthers loom up as a tough foe for the Gunners. The Chicago team has won the championship of the Midwest Pro League three years in succession and is undefeated in league play this season, according to Fullback Marvin Wood, who came down in advance of the squad, which arrives this morning.

The Panther line will average 206 pounds, according to the list given out for the start of the game, and will outweigh the Battery A forward wall by nearly 20 pounds per man. The top weight for the Panthers is 230 pounds, for Ryan, a guard, while the Gunner players range down as low as 160 pounds for Lally.

Each team will present a fast, light backfield, and the game is expected to be something in the nature of an individual duel between "Red" Saussele of the Gunners and Ray Gallivan of the Panthers. Gallivan, the headliner of the Chicago team, is a former Illinois U. star, having been a teammate of Red Grange when that famous player was winding up his college career.

Gus Butz, center at Washington U. last season, is expected to replace Bob Miller at the pivot position for the Gunners. Otherwise the Battery team will be the same as last Sunday, when it ran over the Kansas City Cowboys, 24—0, with Saussele racing 74 yards for a touchdown and gaining altogether 170 yards. Miller will likely be seen at his regular position of guard.

NORTHWESTERN DOWNS MINNESOTA U., 32 TO 14

Pass Puts Purple in Front.

Running behind the line of scrimmage, across the gridiron, Olson tossed a forward pass to Fencl, who heaved a short lateral to Johnny Sullivan, coming into the game as replacement for Meenan at halfback. Sullivan clasped the ball and galloped 54 yards to score. At times he was within six inches of the sideline. That gallop put Northwestern in the lead, 20 to 14.

After that, Minnesota's defense faded. Olson intercepted a pass and ran 55 yards for a touchdown, and then Rentner caught a punt on his own 20-yard line and dashed 80 yards for a touchdown that ended the scoring slaughter.

Minnesota started the scoring in a surprise attack with Somers, quarterback, returning the kickoff 50 yards to Northwestern's 45-yard line. Manders, then shot away on a 22-yard run to Northwestern's 18-yard line and on the next two plays broke through for a touchdown, kicking the goal from placement himself.

Olson's fumble near the end of the period paved the way for Minnesota's second touchdown. Gay, the big Gopher tackle, recovered for Minnesota on Northwestern's 25-yard line. Manders picked up 8 yards and then a tricky pass, Ubl to Hass, placed the ball on Northwestern's 2-yard line. Somers advanced it a yard as the period ended, and on the first play of the second Manders slashed through center for the touchdown, kicking the extra point. Then the Northwestern power began to function. The Wildcats marched from Minnesota's 38-yard line with Olson going over for the score, and kicking the goal. On two other occasions he attempted, in desperation to score needed points from the field by drop kicks, but failed, one missing narrowly and the other one blocked.

Then followed four dazzling, long runs for touchdowns by the Wildcats and Minnesota went the way of other defeated teams, to leave Northwestern standing alone in the conference, undefeated.

The next wrestling show under Packs' promotion is scheduled Wednesday night at The Arena, bringing together in the main event Hans Kampfer of Germany and Pat O'Shocker of Utah, who now makes his home in St. Louis. Other bouts on the card are: Earl McCready vs. Jim Clinkstock, 45-minute time limit; Gino Garibaldi vs. Milo Steinborn, 30-minute time limit, and Ernie Dusek vs. Louis Jennings, 30-minute time limit.

GRINNELL DEFEATS BEARS, 25 TO 0

Grinnell reserves late in the game. Hardin tossing passes all over the field to get to the 28-yard line on two successful attempts. The Bears were stopped there, however. It was their best bid for a touchdown.

The Versatile Thomas.

Thomas was the big star of the contest, gaining 134 of Grinnell's 390 yards from scrimmage and passing for all of Grinnell's 134 yards via the aerial route. The Pioneers completed seven passes in nine endeavors while Washington failed to click until late in the game, getting only two good tosses out of 13 tries.

Most of the 172 yards picked up by Washington backs were a result of occasional sensational dashes by Tyrell and Weingart. The blond Tyrell almost broke away in the third quarter but slipped as he tried to dodge the secondary.

The game was played on a dry field with a warm sun shining. There were about 2000 present. Coach L. L. (Fuzz) Watt sent his men on the field in yellow jersies to avoid confusion with the red uniforms of the Bears.

1931 BILLIKEN ELEVEN BEING COMPARED TO COCHEMS' TEAM

By James M. Gould.

St. Louis University's splendid 32-0 victory over Loyola of the South at New Orleans, Friday night, definitely places the Billikens of 1931 among the greatest ever developed at the school. It will stand comparison with the Cochems team for, in the days of that wonderful football combination, the then "new game" was in its infancy and most of the St. Louis team's opponents had not developed the new plays and new strategy as had the far-seeing Eddie. Now, every team has developed along modern lines.

In winning from Loyola, St. Louis scored two more touchdowns than did the University of Detroit a week before, and Detroit has no difficulty scheduling the best teams in the country. Nor will the Billikens, in a year or two, for they have proved capable of taking care of themselves in any class of competition. If there is any one regret at St. Louis U., it is that the team, as it is going now, can't have another chance against Illinois. There is no partisanship in the statement that the Billikens of last Friday night probably would win decisively from Zuppke's present team.

There was class to the way the Billikens defeated Loyola. Held even in the first few minutes, Walsh's team played for a "break" and got it early in the second quarter when the alert Capt. Muellerleile recovered a Loyola fumble in midfield. On the offense, Coach Walsh immediately substituted his "first eleven" and, from that point, the St. Louis attack was irresistible with Loyola threatening to score only once and then losing the ball on downs on the Billikens' three-yard line.

Home today with their fifth victory in seven games played, the St. Louis team will step right into preparation for another tough customer — Davis-Elkins — the West Virginians being due Friday night. On paper, the record of the Easterners is impressive, but as a matter of fact, they have encountered no real opposition in running up big scores. Moreover, the way the team is clicking, the Billikens have no reason to fear anyone.

Here are the teams Davis-Elkins has played to date—see if you recognize any of them—St. Vincent, Concord, Dakota Wesleyan, Lincoln Memorial, St. John, St. Francis, Bowdon and St. Thomas. Surely, not a fearsome set of opponents.

Signs pointing to another great team in 1932 for the Billikens were many in the Loyola game for the sophomore members of the team were decidedly "hot" and it is these sophomores who will bulk largely—literally as well as figuratively—in the next year's eleven.

For the first time in years, St. Louis has a scoring punch. In seven games, the Billikens have scored 153 points, an average of 22 per game, and they have made 24 touchdowns. The opposition has scored 40 points and has made only six touchdowns, an average of less than six points and less than one touchdown a game. Last year, in eight games, the Billikens scored 106 points to the opposition's 82 and averaged only 13 points per game in making 15 touchdowns to the 12 scored by opponents.

As for the coming Davis-Elkins game, it may not be as hardfought as expected. As has been said, the visitors have had no real competition while the Billikens have had to battle in all their games. Then, again, it is not at all likely that the West Virginians are as strong as were the Oklahoma City U. eleven and the Billikens lost to the "Firemen" by only a single point and were within a few inches of victory.

Last week's problem for Coach Walsh carries over to this week. It is the necessity for keeping the players from going stale. This may not be as difficult after that slashing victory at New Orleans. Some teams might get a bit "chesty" over recent successes but there isn't the slightest evidence of such an inclination on the part of any of the St. Louis players. Confident, yes, but absolutely lacking signs of needing larger hats.

Undoubtedly, Coach Walsh will, against Davis-Elkins, follow the plan which worked so successfully against Loyola—send in his second varsity and replace them with the lads who carry the touchdown punch.

QUICK MEALS LEAD IN VOLLEYBALL LEAGUE

The Quick Meal still leads the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Volleyball League by virtue of their victory over the Ralston team, 15-12, 15-4. The Quick Meals now have three games won and none lost.

Three teams are in a tie for third place, Ralston Purina, Fulton Iron Works, and McQuay-Norris. The Midwest Piping and Wabash Railroad teams took drubbings from the McQuay-Norris and Fulton Iron team, respectively, to drop into a tie for the cellar position.

The standings:

Ralston Purina	2	1	.667
Fulton Iron	2	1	.667
McQuay-Norris	2	1	.667

to find numerous instances where 11 men have played throughout the game and won against teams with plenty of reserves.

Coaches with large squads will tell you that the reason for using many reserves is not necessarily to wear down a team which has fewer replacements. They say it is because they want to keep active as great a number of boys as possible, and they contend that there is less liability to injury when fresh men instead of tired ones are kept in the game. They also say there is no unfairness, because second, third and fourth string men are necessarily only a dilution of the regular eleven's strength. Coaches are forced to use as many players as possible in order to observe how their material is developing with a view to next year's possibilities.

It is a fact that there are many instances where teams have played through games without replacements; and several notable cases where great results have been achieved with only a few replacements. Perhaps no more spectacular instance of this exists than in case of the celebrated team from Centre College a decade or so ago, a team assembled by Umpire Charlie Moran and captained by Bo McMillin and which startled the country for a season or two. Those iron-boned young men could stand it—so why not the youth of today?

Probably they can. But nevertheless we still think it would be a good sporting gesture if teams rich in football material agreed on a substitute limit that conformed with that of less fortunate rivals.

High Cost of Baseball.

J. C. FULTON of Holman, Ky., wants the manufacturers of baseball to cut the price of equipment to where it will be in reach of the American youth of today. He argues as follows:

"Boys cannot afford to pay five or six dollars for shoes, five for a glove, and two dollars for a bat. It is cheaper to play tennis and even golf. I speak from experience. I coached an American Legion outfit this summer. We could barely get together three teams. Fifteen years ago we would have raised ten."

Lack of grounds and cost of equipment have interfered with lot baseball to some extent, no doubt. But there is another factor that is working against baseball and other team games. That is the tendency toward sports in which the individual and not a team is emphasized. The growth of tennis among youngsters is only limited by the number of courts made available for them. And numbers of boys would rather caddy and earn golf pin-money than play baseball.

This year baseball suffered a still bigger equipment pinch, because business firms, many of them undergoing retrenchment periods, did not come forward in their usual strength to equip and back the organized boys clubs, as they did in the past.

But even so, there is a trend away from team games, in the opinion of this writer, with the exception of basketball, which is growing in popularity each year.

If one were to name a national pastime and base the choice on that which was represented by the greatest number of disinterested players, that sport would have to be basketball.

Getting the Breaks—All Bad.

INSTEAD of climbing quickly to fame and fortune in the ring, our good-natured, roly-poly heavyweight hope, John Schwake did a nose dive and is now trying to extricate himself from the wreck of his pugilistic flight.

John went up quickly, after a late start and despite his uncouth and even laughable physique, he showed a stout heart, a destructive wallop and stamina that amazed everyone. When he waded through to the international amateur title they laughed at John and predicted his downfall. But he came on through and it was only after he beat the tough Johnny Risko that the gallery began to pay attention to him.

Just as John was about to be moved up into bigger purses, Old Man Depression hit the game here and elsewhere; fights planned for him fell through.

Under the Ban.

A few weeks ago he started to renew his ring activities and ran afoul the Missouri Commission by fighting without a license at the "injunction" show held by the Jackson Johnson post. For this he was fined $100 and suspended 90 days.

This penalty became effective yesterday, just after John and Kayo Christner had been thrown out of the ring and their money held up in Indianapolis for a "no contest" display.

And so the disgusted Schwake now finds his career stymied and himself in more or less of a mess. But we feel quite sure that John is not through. Nor has he greatly deserved his fate. He is one of those boys who try their best at all times; and if the Indianapolis fight was not satisfactory it was due to Christner's tactics and not to John's.

Schwake will not be able to fight again until Feb. 7 and this may prove a serious handicap to his future. The big fellow began fighting late in life and normally would only have two or three more good years in which to establish himself.

The commission could do worse than show leniency to this big fellow, especially since others on the "injunction" card were allowed to escape unpunished.

It Might Have Helped.

MISSOURI'S open season for quail begins Tuesday, and hunters, it is said, will find a satisfactory number of birds, despite the ravages of the drouth of 1930. At least, that is the information received at the State Game and Fish Commission.

It seems almost incredible that the birds can be plentiful this year, when the situation was such last year that a moratorium was necessary. In fact, it might have proved better in the long run if the 1931-2 season could have been closed, to permit recuperation.

The game department does splendid work in building up the wild life of the State, but it seems doubtful if even its efforts could materially offset the ravages of the 1930 season.

In any case, the quail are reported in largest numbers in the agricultural counties north of the Missouri River. According to wardens' statements, there were only five counties that reported a low supply of birds—on the other hand, 70 of the 114 counties reported they were fairly numerous.

Missouri has five counties that are always closed against quail shooting, and, of course, the supply in these is certain to be in excess of the others. These counties are Atchison, Harrison, Daviess, Cass and Johnson. They have been closed for two years under local option.

Arkansas and Chicago Battle To a 13-13 Tie

CHICAGO, Nov. 7. — Arkansas turned loose a greased Razorback, Fullback Ledbetter, who slithered through Chicago's line for two touchdowns in the final period today to earn a 13-13 tie with the Maroons in their intersectional football game.

The fourth period was a breathtaker and it had a crowd of about 12,000 spectators in an unaccustomed state of excitement. Vinson Sahlin, Chicago sophomore halfback ace, had given the Maroons a 13 to 0 lead with touchdowns in the first half and Chicago seemed to have its first major victory of the season safely won. But the Razorbacks, who had tossed passes for three periods with varying success, suddenly came back to earth.

Passes from Murphy to Nations and one by Holmes, with which a Maroon interfered, put the ball on the Chicago 19-yard line. Ledbetter slipped five times through the Maroon line to score. Secrest added the point and another march started. The Maroons interfered on two other passes, which interspersed Ledbetter's line-battering, and starting on the seven-yard line the Razorback fullback rammed it over in four tries.

Bob Dunlap, Sooner back, turned the trick that completed the major scoring bracket with a brilliant 47-yard run for touchdown. Massad, fullback, kicked goal. As the game neared the final gun, Capt. Guy Warren booted a perfect placement between the bars from the 33-yard line.

Kansas gained 121 yards on rushing, while the Sooners gained 110. Kansas completed two of nine forward passes for 18 yards, and Oklahoma completed one of 14 for six yards. 97-YARD RUN BY GEORGIAN BEATS NEW YORK U., 7-6

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Two spectacular displays of football, the first a 97-yard gallop for touchdown from kickoff by Buster Mott and the other a magnificent goal-line defensive stand, enabled the University of Georgia to conquer New York University today and continue an unbeaten march toward national championship honors.

Sixty-three thousand spectators, the biggest crowd that has witnessed a gridiron game in New York this season, saw the scrappy Georgians keep their slate clean with a 7 to 6 victory after a thrilling battle.

The Georgians struck their decisive blow at the outset of the third period to take the lead and then defend it with a staunch exhibition. Mott, shading the slanting sun with his hands, took Jim Tanguay's kickoff at the outset of the third period on his three-yard line. Quickly slipping behind a wedge of interference, the speedy Atlanta backfield star zig-zagged his way and completed a 97-yard dash for touchdown, aided by superlative blocking. Georgia's end, Vernon (Catfish) Smith, calmly place-kicked the extra point that turned out to be the winning margin. It marked Georgia's sixth straight triumph of the 1931 season.

Early in the second period a long pass from midfield by Jim Lamark was caught by Bob McNamara for a gain of 47 yards that put the pigskin on Georgia's four-yard mark. McNamara knifed through for three yards on the second play to cross Georgia's goal. Tanguay tried the kick for extra point, but Red Maddox, Georgia guard, burst through to block the ball.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 7.—A hopeful but dubious football team from Hoosierland seeking its second conference victory of the season came to Ann Arbor today, caught the University of Michigan eleven at the top of its stride, and went down tamely to a 22 to 0 defeat.

Some 25,000 spectators, blanketed but still shivering in a raw November wind, with a threat of snow, saw the Wolverine team completely outclass Coach E. C. Hayes' Indiana University squad, piling up three touchdowns and a safety for the third Big Ten victory of the season.

Ivan Williamson, an "all A" student who finds time to play football, and whose specialty is blocking punts, was the star of the game. With the first period only a few minutes old, Williamson, an end, broke through to block the Indiana fullback's punt, the ball bounding into the end zone for a safety. It was the third time this season that a punt blocked by Williamson has resulted in a score.

Roy Hudson, Michigan's halfback captain, ran Jones' punt back to the Hoosier 20-yard line after the safety was scored and Stanley Fay sneaked around right end for the first touchdown.

Harry Newman, Michigan's star at pass flipping, went in at quarter back in the third period, tossed the ball to Williamson for a 43-yard gain, and Williamson trotted the 10 yards necessary for another goal. Newman's kick failed.

up 11 yards on an off-side penalty and Clem Wright's six-yard buck. On the next play, Wright flipped a pass to Carl Newson for 14 yards and Carl ran the remaining distance for the touchdown. Julius Jouret's try for the extra point by drop-kicking was low.

Jouret, who usually drop-kicks well and far in practice session, did not have much success with his endeavors yesterday. Before the only score of the game, he attempted a boot from the 26-yard line, but the try was high and to the left of the goal posts. Again in the final period, Julius tried from the 21-yard line, bu the ball hit a Central player and was recovered by Beaumont.

The superiority of the Central attack over that of Beaumont's is shown in the number of first downs. The Mid-City eleven accounted for 13 as compared to Beaumont's five. With the exception of Charles "Chick" Droke, there was little power in the Beaumont backfield.

Before the only score of the game, he attempted a boot from the 26-yard line, but the try was high and to the left of the goal posts. Again in the final period, Julius tried from the 21-yard line, bu the ball hit a Central player and was recovered by Beaumont.

The superiority of the Central attack over that of Beaumont's is shown in the number of first downs. The Mid-City eleven accounted for 13 as compared to Beaumont's five. With the exception of Charles "Chick" Droke, there was little power in the Beaumont backfield.

PASS ENABLES CLAYTON TO BEAT WEBSTER, 7-0

After trying aerial work almost constantly throughout the game, Clayton High football team finally completed a heave over the goal line late in the last quarter and repeated the process for the extra point to win over Webster High's eleven, 7-0, in the only County League game played yesterday afternoon, at the new Clayton stadium. This was the first time Webster has been beaten by Clayton since 1922.

Red Oliver and Leroy Litzsinger figured in the lone score after Coach Davis' team had brought the ball to the 13-yard line from midfield. Oliver shot a pass to Litzsinger for the score, and then completed a second throw to Bill Miller for the point.

There were several times when both elevens were able to approach within scoring distance, but neither had the punch to score. Immediately after the kick-off, Carr and Burgess of Webster hit the line with quick succession to go to the two-yard line, but Clayton held.

Webster repeated the action early in the second period and took the ball to the eight-yard mark, but again failed to score. The third quarter was marked by good runs by each team, but both were unable to threaten the goal line. Clayton almost scored in the first part of the fourth, but was stopped on the one-yard line, when Morey blocked a pass from Oliver.

EAST ST. LOUIS WINNER, 26 TO 0 OVER WOODRIVER

Coach Jack Nolen's Orange and Blue East St. Louis Flyers football machine continued their winning streak of Southwestern Illinois Conference victories when they defeated the Wood River "Oilers" at Wood River yesterday, 26 to 0. This was the East St. Louisans' fourth straight conference win and they are now tied with the Belleville Maroons for the conference lead, each team having won four.

Coach Nolen had his first string material in the first quarter and scored 12 points on the Wood River eleven before they could get going and then Nolen inserted his second team and in the second quarter the Wood River team held the East St. Louisans scoreless. In the first quarter Frank Kavalier threw a long pass to Chambers, who intercepted and advanced the ball to the two-yard line and on the next play Kavalier plunged over for the touchdown, Holten missing the try for extra point on a place kick. In the latter part of the first quarter, Smith, Wood River quarterback, hurled a pass that Fash, East Side center, intercepted and ran 13 yards for the second touchdown, and on the try for extra point Holten missed a place kick.

The East Side second team played the second quarter, but in the third quarter Nolen inserted his team and they ran over the Wood River team for 14 points, after which the second team played the remainder of the game.

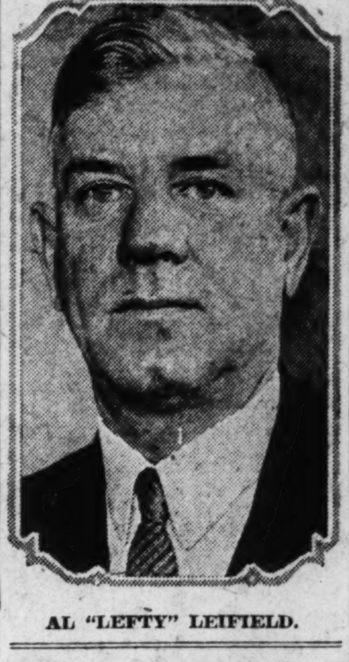
Night Baseball Dying in Minors, Says Leifield; Novelty Is Wearing Off

By Damon Kerby.

"Lefty" Leifield, St. Louisan, who managed the pennant winning St. Paul team of the American Association the past season, believes that night baseball for minor league clubs is on the way out.



AL "LEFTY" LEIFIELD.

Only one American Association city—Indianapolis—has a night baseball plant, but Leifield's experience with night baseball extends outside the Association. In 1929 he managed Oklahoma City of the Western League, where a majority of the teams played night baseball.

"First of all, baseball is a day game," said "Lefty," who is spending the off-season at his home here. "You can't play it at night and expect the game to have the same appeal as day baseball.

Night Baseball a Novelty.

"The minor leagues fell hard for night baseball. Many teams were in bad financial circumstances and they were quick to jump at the straw of night baseball.

"Early attendance figures after the change seemed to bear out the night baseball enthusiasts. Some owners may have paid for their plants in extra attendance. But it was only a novelty. After the fans made a few trips to the ball park at night they became filled up with the spectacle, and the teams that were not drawing before the change dropped back to small attendance."

Leifield pointed out that players are affected by playing under the lights.

"Take an experience we had in a game at Indianapolis last summer," he said. "I pitched Lester Munns, and Burly Horn worked for Indianapolis. Both are mediocre pitchers, but Munns struck out eight men and Horn six during the first three innings. Those two pitchers don't figure to do work like that in a day game.

St. Louis Example Cited.

"While the night game helps a fast ball pitcher, it reacts in just the opposite way on the batter, as witness the example that took place in St. Louis this fall, when a pitcher struck out Bill Terry four times, Babe Herman three times and Paul Waner twice in a night game at Stars' Park.

"The fielders are not bothered much by the the lights if the equipment is good," was Leifield's comment on the fielding side of night baseball. "That doesn't apply to the catchers, however. They have trouble on low balls, particularly. And so do the umpires," Lefty added with a smile.

Leifield says that two young second basemen, Bill Herman of Louisville, and Jack Saltzgaver of St. Paul, are about the best prospects among players going up to the majors next spring. Herman has been bought by the Cubs and Saltzgaver by the Yankees. Both are polished fielders right now, according to Leifield, and are sure of regular major league berths if they show that they can hit big league pitching.

Clyde Manion, who proved a sensation at bat with the Milwaukee club, after failing to hit big league pitching while a member of the Browns, is a greatly improved batter, according to Leifield, who said the "rabbit" ball in the Association played only a small part, if any, in Manion's improved work at bat. The former Brownie has been drafted by the Cincinnati Reds on the strength of his record with Milwaukee.

"When Manion came to the Association from the Browns he was a rightfield hitter," said Leifield. "We played for him to hit to right field and there he hit. Then he got wise to himself and, the boys tell me, practiced pulling the ball over to left field. When we found he was hitting to left we started playing for him again and he crossed us up. He can hit to either field now and I look for him to stick in the majors."

Leifield Praises Shires.

Another player whom Leifield thinks will make good on his second trip to the majors is Art Shires, the talkative first baseman, sold to the Braves by Milwaukee. Shires also batted above his normal stride last season.

"Shires is really a fair ball player and above all, he's a hustler. You can forgive a lot in a player if he hustles all the time. Shires never loafs.

"To illustrate: There was talk in the papers that Shires was to be sold to the Philadelphia Athletics at the end of the season and Shires had visions of playing first base for Connie Mack in 1932.

"The Milwaukee club was playing at St. Paul when the sale of First Baseman Oscar Roettger of the Saints to Mack's club was announced. The fans were not slow to get on Shires.

"'Where you gonna play next year, now that Roettger's got your job at Philadelphia,' they twitted him.

"'Looks like I'll be right here, knocking your pitchers out of the lot,' retorted Shires, as he marched to the plate.

"You can't beat a guy like that," concluded Leifield. And you can't.

BUD WESTHUS TO PLAY TOMORROW IN CUE TOURNEY

Bud Westhus, St. Louis billiard player, who was "seeded" for divisional play in the qualifying tests for the national three-cushion championship tournament, which will be played at Chicago, next January, will get into action against two other players in the Southern sectional final, which starts at Peterson's tomorrow.

Westhus' opponents for the right to play for the national honors will be Gene Deardorff, local star, and Neal Jones of Indianapolis.

Deardorff won the event completed last Friday at Peterson's, with four straight victories, while Jones, participating at Champaign, Ill., won three of four matches. The field which Deardorff defeated included Harold Wills, Walter Ramsey, L. M. Dieckmeyer and Edward Huether.

Among the three-cushion stars beaten by Jones was Frank Fleming, of Champaign, former national amateur champion, as well as Walter Schwietzka, another star amateur performer.

The matches in the final qualifying test here will be 50 points.

Tiff Denton, the Kansas City star, was originally scheduled to play in the tourney, but he was placed in the national tournament without qualifying at the last minute by the officials in charge.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 7.—The Badgers of the University of Wisconsin edged over a one-point victory today against the downtrodden University of Illinois, 7 to 6.

Playing for nothing but the honors of the day, both having suffered Western conference defeats, the teams battled through a scoreless first half. A Badger pass, from John Schneller to Joe Linfor, placed the ball on Illinois' five-yard line early in the third period and Schneller bucked it over for the first down. Linfor, the other hero of that long pass, kicked the all-important extra point that decided the game.

The Illini, beaten by Purdue, Michigan and Northwestern, bounced right back. Gil Berry intercepted a pass from the same Schneller and ran to midfield. Bob Horsley on the next play threw a pass to Fullback Ed Schalk. He grabbed it and journeyed behind two blockers to a touchdown.

Horsley attempted to convert the try for the extra point by a placement, but a Badger lineman broke through and blocked it. Wisconsin spent the rest of the afternoon knocking down Illinois passes which threatened its one-point lead.

University City Hands M.M.A. First Defeat Since 1929

The University City Indians yesterday afternoon on their own field defeated the Missouri Military Academy team of Mexico, Mo., 20-0, administering the first defeat for the academy team in the last two years, although it had been tied eight times, having four deadlocks this year without a defeat. The Indians had everything their way throughout the game, the academy team never threatening throughout the game. The nearest approach to a threat being when it reached U. City's 20-yard line.

U. City lost no time in scoring in the first quarter, taking the ball from M. M. A. on downs after kicking off to them, and then marching down the field 45 yards on line plays with Caskey and Lamb carrying the ball; Al. Reiter scored from the three-yard line. McMurray passed to Boain for the extra point. This march was repeated in the second quarter, after an exchange of punts gave the Indians the ball on their opponents' 40-yard line. This time the whole backfield shared in the ground gaining. Lamb scored from the four-yard mark, and Martin place-kicked the extra point. In the last period the Indians again marched down the field from M. M. A.'s 40-yard line, Lamb scoring his second touchdown from the one-yard line. Martin missed the extra point.

By Herman Wecke.

Professional soccer teams of this city engage in two important matches this afternoon. An eleven made up of picked players from the St. Louis Soccer League will tackle the Bricklayers of Chicago in an exhibition match at Sportsman's Park, while the Stix, Baer & Fullers go to Gillespie, Ill., for a first round United States Football Association cup match. The All-Star-Brickies game starts at 2:30 o'clock.

While the eleven selected to oppose the Brickies is not the strongest in the league, since players from the Stix team were omitted, it is nevertheless one which has plenty of punch and a stout defense. Any forward line which has such players as Flavin, Hennessy, Nash, Moore and Kickham will make trouble for its opponents.

Bricklayers Strong.

The Bricklayer team which comes here is practically the same one which eliminated the Ben Millers, two games to none, in the Western final last season and then was defeated by Fall River for the national championship. Last Christmas, the Brickies came here for a match with an all-star local team and lost, 3 goals to 2. Since then two changes have been made in the lineup, as two of the club's players, Willie McLean, forward, and Bob Gregg, fullback, have been signed by the Stix team of the local circuit.

To replace Gregg, Tom Scott, a former St. Louis League player, has been moved back to fullback from half, while Robert Walker is playing outside left, the place formerly held down by McLean. The club has another new star, Jimmy Martin, at center halfback. Vic Neate, well known to St. Louis fans, is still playing goal for the Chicagoans.

The defenders for the All-Stars will be Hamm in goal and Joe Hand and Tom Erbe at fullback. Benoist, Tracy and Egan have been assigned the halfback positions.

Three of the leading players of the Stix eleven will not see action in the cup match against Gillespie. These men are La Barge, McLean and Gregg. With La Barge ineligible, Bill Lehman will use Dave Bartnett, injured a little more than three weeks ago, or Joe Tuvil, a halfback between the uprights. Nolcan and Hebberger will continue at the fullback positions. O'Hara, Lehman and Corbett make up the halfback line, while Hanson, Ahrens, Rudge, O'Reilly and Pastor will work on the forward line.

Gillespie's team will be selected from the following players: William Fulton, Tom Finnegan, Richard Ellis, Robert Love, Andrew Main, Charles McCormick, William Keith, Thomas Lambie, John Ellis, James Watson, Charles Lyon, William Harris, John Calderwood, Hugh Baxter, James Milligan and James Anderson.

First Cup Match.

While it will be the first national cup match for a St. Louis team, the Gillespie eleven has already won one match, defeating West Frankfort in a preliminary battle, 4 goals to 2. Four members of the Gillespie team saw service abroad before coming to this country. T. Lambie and John Ellis were senior forwards in the old country, while J. Calderwood was a senior in Scotland as late as 1928. He is 25 years of age. R. Ellis played four seasons as a junior in Scotland. All the other members of the team are American-born.

In the matches today, the St. Louis players will be forced to play 45-minute halves for the first time this season. Len Zarschel will referee the All-Star-Brickie contest, while Robert "Ribby" Murphy has been selected to handle the cup match. The admission at Sportsman's Park is 75 cents for men, and 25 cents for women and children.

Lead in Several Municipal Soccer Divisions Will Be At Stake in Matches Today

First place in several divisions of the Municipal Soccer Association will be at stake in matches this afternoon. At Fairgrounds No. 4, the Clearys, formerly the St. Matthew Jrs., will defend the top position against the Franklins.

STAR HALFBACK OF BRICKLAYER TEAM

JIMMY MARTIN.

The Franklins are second, only one point out of the lead. Another battle for the lead will be waged at Fairground No. 5, when the Park Rats oppose the Bly-Moss eleven. At Sherman Park, the St. Louis Hurling Club can tie for the top berth by trimming the Macks. The Macks in winning two games have scored only two goals, while holding the opposition without a tally.

The Andersons, leaders at Fairground No. 2, minus the services of Hatchard, a fine player, who has been suspended, will tackle the strong Russells, last season the St. Matthews finalists in the championship race.

One of the younger elevens, the Grand-Kossuths face a stiff argument at Fairground No. 3, in tackling the Longos. The Longo team has signed several new players during the week one of the number being Buddy Brengle, an outside right, who last Sunday was released by the Andersons of the St. Louis League.

At Carondelet, the Spanish Sport Club, pacemaker with two victories faces the Eugene A. C., which despite the fact that it has played good soccer, has dropped two decisions. J. Moore, a member of the Eugenes is serving the second Sunday of a suspension.

The first game of each group starts at 2 o'clock, with the second at 3:30. The schedule follows:

Fairground Park No. 3—Grand Kossuth Business Men vs. Longos; Thomas Stars vs. Spick and Span. Referee, J. Cradock.

Fairground Park No. 4—St. Michael's vs. Walnut Park Business Men; Cleary's vs. Franklins. Referee, W. McManus.

Fairground Park No. 5—Hellrung & Grimm vs. St. Edward's No. 1; Bly-Moss vs. Park Rats. Referee, H. Ratican.

Sherman Park—Mack's vs. St. Louis Hurling Club; Christian Bros. College Alumni vs. St. Edward's No. 2. Referee, R. Wall.

Carondelet Park No. 1—Eugene A. C. vs. Spanish Sport Club; German Sport Club vs. Gebken. Referee, N. Reidy.

Forest Park—Grace Evangelical vs. Universal; St. Ambrose Y. M. Sodality vs. Rock Church. Referee, L. Robbins.

Carondelet Park No. 2 (Juniors)—Waverly vs. Christian Bros. High; Harold vs. SS. Mary and Joseph. Referee, W. Brady.

TIPPETT TO HOLD NOV. 18 BOXING SHOW AT ARMORY

By W. J. McGoogan.

Jack Tippett has obtained the Market street Armory for his next boxing show scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 18, he announced last night. Tippett also stated that he would reduce prices and sell seats at 55 cents, $1.10 and $2.20.

He plans to use Al Stillman in the main event of his first program and is seeking to match him against Willie Oster of Boston, who has been boxing in Chicago for several months.

Tippett's main event will be over the 10-round route, with two other 10-rounders, a six-round bout and a four-rounder on the card.

Johnny Kaiser, whose string of victories was interrupted by his defeat at the hands of Joe Ghnouly last week likely will be a principal in one of the 10-rounders.

Stillman proved that his knockout punch is in good working order when he disposed of Chick Rains at The Arena with neatness and dispatch. Rains had never been knocked out previously, but Stillman put him down for a long count within two minutes.

Kid Bandy, who promoted the Kaiser-Ghnouly battle for the Fred W. Stockham Post of the American Legion, plans to hold another show at the Coliseum about Dec. 1, but has not determined what boxers he will use.

John Schwake and his manager, Joe Herbst, returned from Indianapolis yesterday where John's bout with K. O. Christner was declared "no contest" Friday night and his purse held up. Herbst said he was assured by the Commissioner before he left that Schwake's purse, amounting to $120, would be paid, but it was likely that Christner's money would be declared forfeited.

Herbst said Christner asserted after the fight that Schwake had hit him one hard punch on the chin and that he would not take a chance of John landing another one.

The bout was similar to the one in which Christner engaged here with Angus Snyder, holding and pulling and hauling. The old boy is on his last legs going around the country picking up numerous small purses and he does not, apparently, want to have his picking interrupted by a knockout which would probably prove fatal to him as a drawing card.

Bob Probst, president of the Western A. A. U., who is handling the matchmaking for the amateur show to be held at the Elks' Club Thursday night, has announced three special bouts for the card. Frank Lansing, Litchfield, Ill., is scheduled to meet Ray Lang, St. Louis, in one of them; Pat Cooney, East St. Louis, boxes Babe Davis, Y. M. H. A., while Joey Parks and Jack Forrester mix. In another special Leslie Schulte is scheduled to compete, but his opponent has not been named as yet.

Missourians and Dauers Meet in East Side Game

The East St. Louis Municipal soccer leagues will go into their third round games today at Jones Park in East St. Louis. The schedule in the first division finds the league leading Dauers playing the third place Missourian A. C. and the Unions opposing the St. Charles eleven. The games in the second division should also prove interesting as the United A. C. meets the Landsdownes, while the Celtics play the Granite City team.

The schedules of the two divisions for today's games are as follows:

DIVISION ONE.

Unions vs. St. Charles, No. 1, at 2 p. m.

Dauers vs. Missourian A. C., No. 1, at 3:15 p. m.

DIVISION TWO.

United A. C. vs. Landsdownes, No. 2, at 2 p. m.

Celtics vs. Granite City, No. 2, at 3:15 p. m.

DIVISION ONE.

Team.	Won.	Lost.	Tied.	Pts.
Dauers	2	0	0	4
Union	1	1	0	2
Missourians	0	1	1	1
St. Charles	0	1	1	1

WESTERN MILITARY JUNIOR TEAMS WIN FROM COUNTRY DAY

The Western Military Academy "B" and "C" teams defeated Country Day "B" and "C" elevens yesterday on the Country Day field. In the B game, the Alton team won, 31 to 7, while the C eleven triumphed, 14 to 6.

Loesche proved the star for the Western B aggregation, scoring four touchdowns. Two came as a result of passes from Henderson, while on another Loesche took a Country Day kickoff and ran 88 yards for a score, while his fourth was the result of a 60-yard dash. Paulin counted the fifth touchdown for Western. Paul Jamison's 30-yard run gave Country Day its score. He also kicked the extra point.

In the C match, Messing for Country Day scored on a six-yard plunge, while Rest tallied twice for Western. One of his scores came on a 50-yard end run. Rombauer was the defensive star for Country Day.

ST. LOUIS BOWLERS WIN TELEGRAPHIC BOWLING MATCH

The Western Union employes of St. Louis met Kansas City men of the company in a telegraphic bowling match yesterday afternoon at Mid-City Alleys. The match was for total pins but the St. Louisans made a clean sweep of all three games, scoring 2758 pins to 2470 at Kansas City.

At the same time a team of girls from both cities also met in a match, the Kansas Cityans reversing the score, taking the long end of the count. The score at both cities was kept up to each bowler at each alley by special telegraph wire direct to the alleys.

MUNY STARS TO PLAY PROS IN BENEFIT GAME

The All-Star Municipal League eleven, which will meet a professional team in the feature match of the Soccer Players' Protective Association program at Sportsman's Park, Wednesday, has been selected by officials in charge of the arrangements. In a preliminary, the Spanish Sport Club will play an eleven made up of Italian athletes. The program will start at 2 o'clock, with an admission of 25 cents.

The Players' Association at present has 557 players. The dues are 50 cents a man.

The eleven which will oppose the professionals will be selected from the following players: Dumas and Bertel, goalies; Runge, Rich, Banaker and Wyland, fullbacks; Malone, Schweppe, Ahrens, O'Connor and Ulmer, halfbacks; Brengle, Thumm, Jim McCarthy, Roe, O'Mara, Kane and Murphy, forwards. The players to oppose this aggregation have not been selected.

There are quite a few Italians from which to pick the eleven to face the Spaniards. The team is likely to be named from the following: Mauna and Tagini, goal; Grassigner, and Godro, fullbacks; Longo, Mercurio, Scalfano, halfbacks; L. Merlo, Saporita, Ruma, F. Marino, C. Vitalle, Briscusa, Ruggeri, J. Vitalle, C. Merlo, and Beera, forwards.

The Players' Association has taken out insurance on the athletes and all the money raised at Wednesday's attraction will go towards paying the premium. In addition to the contests, there will be a field meet for the players, something never before attempted.

Four players have suffered injury this season. Dave Bartnett received a fractured jaw; Schweppe and O'Hara, broken noses and Eddie Hart, an injured ankle. This in three weeks.

Back to Man Style

"No thank you, I'm smoking cigars now," is heard a lot these days from men. With this change to more masculine taste the long, graceful Robt. Burns Panatela ushers back Man Style in smoking.

Modern and modish—this shapely cigar adds the virility that fashion often needs to attain manliness. Smart men like its gentility, the shape that suits clear-cut features and well-groomed appearance. All men fancy the mildness of its clear Havana filler.

Exchange commonplace smoking ideas for old enjoyment new again, and smoke Robt. Burns Panatelas.

Woman Wearing Fur Coat Helps Two Men in Robbery —All Armed.

Two men, accompanied by a woman wearing a fur coat, obtained $600 in a holdup of a restaurant at 131 Winstanley avenue, East St. Louis, shortly before noon yesterday.

The men ordered coffee and, when they were served, the woman drew a revolver from beneath her coat and covered the waitress, Miss Tillie Winegartner. The men also drew revolvers and ordered Gus Millona, the proprietor, to give them the money from the register. Langdon Doyle, driver for a soda water concern, and his Negro helper, entered the restaurant and were searched, but were allowed to keep their money when found to have only small sums in change.

The robbers marched the four persons into a rear room, forcing them to lie on the floor, and then ran from the restaurant and drove away in a sedan, which they had parked at the curb.

Millona drew the $600 at a bank yesterday to cash checks for packing plant employes.

MAN ROLLING DICE SHOT TO DEATH BY GANGSTER

Submachine Gun Used in Killing of Richard Fleischman Suspect in Four Chicago Slayings.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Richard Fleischman, alias Fishman, once acquitted of murder and suspected in three other slayings, was shot to death today as he rolled dice in a West Side cigar store and gambling house.

Police said he was killed by gangsters for his alleged part in four killings. A heavy-set man who carried a sub-machine gun beneath his coat fired 10 bullets into Fleischman's head as he stood at a dice table.

Fleischman was acquitted three years ago of killing William Marzano, a newsboy, at a dance and was suspected in the more recent killing of Ely H. Orr, secretary of the Newspaper Drivers' Union, Art Buckner, a taxicab driver who witnessed the Orr killing, and Herman Horwitz, West Side hoodlum.

Police ordered the arrest of Abe ("Humpy") Klass and Sam Kaplan, West Side hoodlums once questioned in the killing of Octavus Granady, Negro political candidate in the "bloody twentieth" ward in the 1929 election, and Oakie Cohen, reputed owner of the store where Fleischman was shot.

WHEAT HOLDS ITS GAIN DESPITE PROFIT TAKING

Trading in Chicago Heavier Than for 18 Months—Other Grains Strong.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—The grain market clung to its advances today, withstanding one profit-taking wave after another and rounding out one of the busiest weeks of recent years with more gains than losses.

The market has see-sawed wildly, first to new high prices for the season, then down as much as 2 cents, back up around the opening figures, back down on a new flood of profit-taking orders.

The changes left wheat at the close just about where it was at yesterday's close. The gain for the week, however, amounted to between 5½ and 6⅝ cents.

Corn, relatively stronger throughout the session, closed unchanged to ¾ cent higher. Oats were fractionally lower, but rye closed from 2¾ to 3½ cents higher.

The bull market in grain has continued without serious interruption for more than a month. The low point of the season was reached Oct. 5. For about two weeks the slow but steady climb passed almost unnoticed.

For the last week professional traders have declared the public was in almost complete control. Buying orders, most of them small, have piled up faster and faster. The blackboard service has been unable at times to keep up with them. The volume of trading has been greater than any previous time in the last year and a half.

Usual trade news has been disregarded. Wall street, somewhat mystified, has looked to the grain market as stocks followed, rather than led, the commodities.

Indicative of the interest in the wheat market were the figures released late today regarding the total transactions in wheat futures. For the week ending Nov. 6 the total was 399,587,000 bushels; last week the figure was 288,233,000 bushels, and a year ago the total was 193,648,000 bushels.

Traders today could choose the news they considered the more important and buy or sell accordingly. On the bear side there was comparative weakness in foreign markets. Liverpool, although from 1 to 1½ cents up for the day, failed to respond fully to the bull movement of American markets, and Buenos Aires was a cent and more lower.

War reports from the Orient were chalked up on the bull side, along with official reports confirming the poor outlook for the new winter wheat crop in the Southwest.

COOLIDGE ASKS NATION TO AID HOOVER RELIEF PLANS

"Give What We Think America Is Worth to Us," Former President Says.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Calling on the country to "give what we think America is worth to us," former President Calvin Coolidge today urged support of the presidential relief organizations' campaigns. In a letter to Owen D. Young, chairman of the Committee on Mobilizatiion of Relief Resources of the President's organization in unemployment relief, he said of the two groups:

"Their work is being accomplished with a system and thoroughness never before equaled in the country. Sometimes it requires considerable effort to get the people to realize the facts, but when that is done no duty has ever been too difficult for them to perform. When they really comprehend a situation, the harder it is the more eager they are to meet it.

"The question remains as to what the ordinary individual can do to help. The final solution for unemployment is work. All those who have any kind of work that needs going should start it at once. There are many who cannot give work, who can give money. Such contributions should be made to the local relief organizations."

ST. LOUIS' CHILD ARTISTS "GO MODERN" INSTINCTIVELY

Pupils at Community School Begin to Paint in Kindergarten—Their Work Is Watched but Not Arbitrarily Directed—and There Are Astonishing Results.

By M. W. CHILDS

Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

SEE like a child. For nearly two generations that is what the chief painters of the world have been trying to do. They have sought a pure, naive vision of things around them, unadulterated by rules and technique. Unfortunately, most of these painters have had to overcome years of training. They have had to forget hundreds of lessons in how to paint a picture, how to foreshorten, how to attain effects of light and shade—the whole bag of tricks of the academician. There have been books on how to see like a child.

Now, possibly for the first time, children are being taught to paint things as they see them, or imagine them. And with some rather remarkable results. Here in St. Louis, at Community School, which is at 400 De Mun avenue, children of 5 and 8 and 11 years paint pictures that would not look strange on the walls of a Paris or New York art gallery. In fact, unless you were a specialist in art, it would be difficult to pick the work of these children from that of Picasso, Segonzac, Gauguin, Von Gogh, the great figures of modern art, whose canvases bring enormous sums in the art centers of the world.

The reason why the work of Nancy, aged 6, looks like that of Cezanne, who has been dead and enshrined these many years, is perfectly plain. Cezanne struggled most of his life to break the confining limits of traditional technique. These youngsters at Community School will never have the handicap of a technique stamped at an early age upon impressionable minds. If Nancy sees a landscape as a design of brilliant blocks of color, then she can paint it that way.

Children at work in the modeling room.

THIS does not mean that the children get no instruction in art. There is an art director, Mrs. Laura Hancock Flint, and an assistant, Miss Helen Miller. It is their chief aim to let the children develop individual tendencies.

Painting at Community School begins in the kindergarten, with children of 4 and 5. They are given great squares of paper and a special kind of ready mixed water color paint, and they go to it. Throughout the grades it is the rule to provide each child with a large area on which to work, the object being to give free rein to the play of the arm, the big-muscle movements. Even as early as the kindergarten it is possible, according to Mrs. Flint, to discern talent. This year, for example, Nancy Galt, who is 5, did a design that shows a striking sense of color and symmetry. It bears a resemblance to certain Navajo designs. But it came out of Nancy's mind, her own idea of something good to paint.

Nancy's father is Charles Galt, the portrait painter. Her sister, Frances, in the second grade, has also begun to show marked originality. There are several other children in the school whose fathers or mothers are artists

MOSCOW.

THE 2,000,000 Communists who direct Russia's destiny have long recognized that all work and no play make Jack a dull boy. Even the patient, earnest, hopeful Jack Alexandrovsky, the ideal Russian under Communism, does not give his best to a society that holds him constantly at the bench and forge.

In the early years when the Communist philosphy regimented life as arbitrarily as the laws of mechanics, this need for play was recognized, but the theory was that it could be successfully controlled for the good of the state. The games of children were to be so managed that they should be doing some form of useful work at the same time that they played—picking up papers on the streets or gathering discarded materials that could be used again in accomplishing the five-year plan. Men and women factory workers were to indulge their play spirit in contests to see which worker could produce the most units a day or hour.

This approach to play was not, it is scarcely necessary to add, altogether successful. The pictures on this page indicate how far Stalin has gone toward making life more pleasant and gay for his workers. They show the great "Park of Culture and Rest" at Moscow. An inherent Puritanism, the fanatical faith that all shall be done for the good of the state, probably dictated this didactic name. The Park of Culture and Rest is very similar to American amusement parks. It is more intelligently planned and it does contain certain cultural ements, but nevertheless it is a Russian Coney Island.

Throughout the park an effort has been made to enable pleasure seekers to take an active part in sports and games. The motive seems to have been—players, not passive watchers. There are volley ball courts, communal dancing centers, tennis courts; and this is only a beginning. As yet probably the majority must watch. In addition, there are tree-shaded corners for quieter games—chess, backgammon, ping-pong.

As the panoramic view at the top of the page shows, the Park for Culture and Rest stretches for a long distance by the banks of the Moscow River. There are numerous bathing piers and bathing beaches. And—bathing suits. Russia's Puritanism, according to observers, takes this form, too. Men still bathe as they were born, but for the most part women at Moscow have adopted suits, and in some provinces men are wearing them. The same tendency is noted in the vast new blocks of workers' flats. Once they had no interior doors to the various apartments — only screen doors. Now doors are being fitted, and they are always locked.

ANOTHER striking change is seen in the "dachta mort," which is Russian for the American week end cabin. Thousands of Moscow citizens have saved enough to rent, or even buy, a week-end hut. And in these week-end huts, and in the flats in town, they are putting the junk that seems to be a human necessity, the junk that under the rigid philosophy of Communism, went onto the junk heap. There are no ikons or other religious motifs on the walls this time They have been replaced by pictures of Stalin and busts of Lenin.

It has perhaps been difficult for the leaders of the Soviet to realize that life cannot be contained within fixed theoretical limits, even with all the propaganda in the world. That they have begun to learn the lesson is indicated by this first big amusement park and by numerous other significant and important changes.

The Quarrel Between the Celibate Churchman and His Wife

And How Dean Noe Is Now Trying to Effect a Reconciliation Without Compromising His Ascetic Principles.

Mrs. Ellen M. Noe.

Dean Israel H. Noe.

MEMPHIS, Tennessee.

DEAN ISRAEL H. NOE stood before his people at St. Mary's Cathedral on Sunday morning. He had been through days of distress. His home had been revealed as the habitation of unseemliness and strife. His wife had left the shelter of the deanery and had taken their children with her. Fireside bickerings had been spread upon court records. A divorce trial had been only averted by the scant promise of a reconciliation. The dean stood accused of turning from the wife he had espoused to the duty to which his life had been dedicated. He would make his defense before his people.

So, after he had prayed for strength to withstand the world, the flesh and the devil, he told again the story of Samson and Delilah, the strong man of Israel and the woman of the valley of Sorek, who took his strength from him. There was a man who was devoted to the service of God and dedicated to an extraordinary work. But he fell in love with a woman. She enticed him and found the secret of his strength, and took it from him. A guilty woman had greatly wronged a noble man. Still he cleaved to her. He sold his honor and conscience and interests for the gratification of his passions. Woe unto him, for he had sinned.

This Samson was a symbol of a man who gave up his God-given destiny for the gratification of his lower desires. And Delilah was the type of the tempter. A man must come to the conflict in all the strength of his manliness. Then would Delilah's lying in wait be vain.

After the sermon came communion, and after that, as the people were leaving, the Dean stood in his white vestments at the door, and they shook hands with him as they passed out, and to a stranger who stood by it seemed that Dean Noe read understanding and sympathy in their greetings and was strengthened.

From the service the Dean went for his Sunday dinner to the apartment maintained by his wife for herself and her children, apart from the deanery, not as a Samson to be shorn but as a man still strong, seeking a solution for the sorrows besetting him, a solution that would not cost his strength or impair his usefulness in his high calling.

Reconciliation in his case was not merely the adjustment of differences that had arisen between his wife and him, leading to their separation and the filing of a divorce suit by the wife, but the squaring of the terms of the adjustment with the ascetic code that he had adopted for himself, fidelity to which he deemed determinative of his fitness to continue his priestly offices. Through suppression and sublimation he had attained a celibacy which his wife had named as her chief grievance in her suit for divorce. What she required of him was a degree of devotion which he felt he could not bestow without treason to his conscience and infidelity to his self-assumed vows.

A reconciliation, on the other hand, was greatly to be desired, not only to bring his wife and children back under his roof, but to end the scandal that was crippling his usefulness and jeopardizing his future. These were considerations to which his wife, it might be supposed, would not be indifferent. So, when the Court had granted a continuance and the lawyers had stood aside they tried to find common ground upon which they could stand, as man and wife, he without abandoning his principles and she without foregoing her privileges.

There were other differences between them, all set out in her petition in chancery court and his answer, but it was plainly enough to be seen that the jangling in the deanery had been mainly due to the major conflict between the woman's demands and the man's denials.

MRS. NOE was not the woman to accept tamely the indignity of her husband's indifference. She had spirit and resourcefulness. She found a substitute satisfaction in annoyances that tried his patience, sometimes, to the breaking point. They had separate incomes, hers greater than his in the earlier years. She accused him of financial inefficiency and he accused her of extravagance, not without apparent grounds on both sides, for with his salary of $4800 in later years and her income of $3000 from her mother's estate, they ran into debt.

The marital barque of the Noes would not have been wrecked upon their financial difficulties nor upon their incompatibilities, and these would not have been mentioned if the dean had been willing to let the case rest upon the question of whether his celibacy, continuing three or four years, constituted desertion, but when he filed an answer denying that he had neglected his wife, maintaining that what she called desertion was merely the practice of birth control, out of consideration for her, she came back with an amended bill setting up the additional complaints.

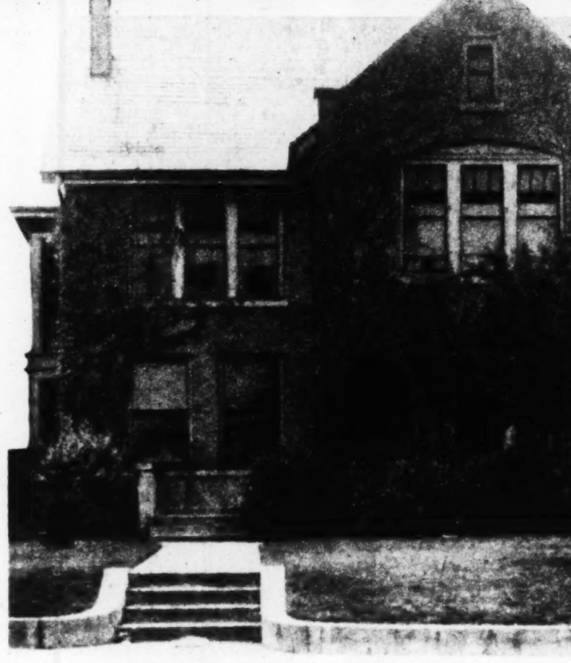
It appears from these complaints and the Dean's answer to them that when they were married in 1916 at Marietta, Georgia, Noe was still a student, although he had just been ordained, and was not earning enough to support a wife. She says he urged marriage at that time. He says she wanted an early marriage because she was not happy with her stepmother, and suggested that her income would supplement his earnings. Before the marriage she gave him $100 for his personal expenses. After they were married she obtained an advance of $1000, part of the legacy she would receive when she was 21, which was used for their support and to enable him to return to college.

When the legacy of $7000 was received, Mrs. Noe says, she bought her husband an automobile and complete vestments and personal clothing, and a down payment was made on a home which afterwards was sold, and out of the proceeds her husband bought a diamond ring for her, but, as was to be expected of a young man who was a very good rector but a poor trader, he paid $150 for a ring that was worth only $75.

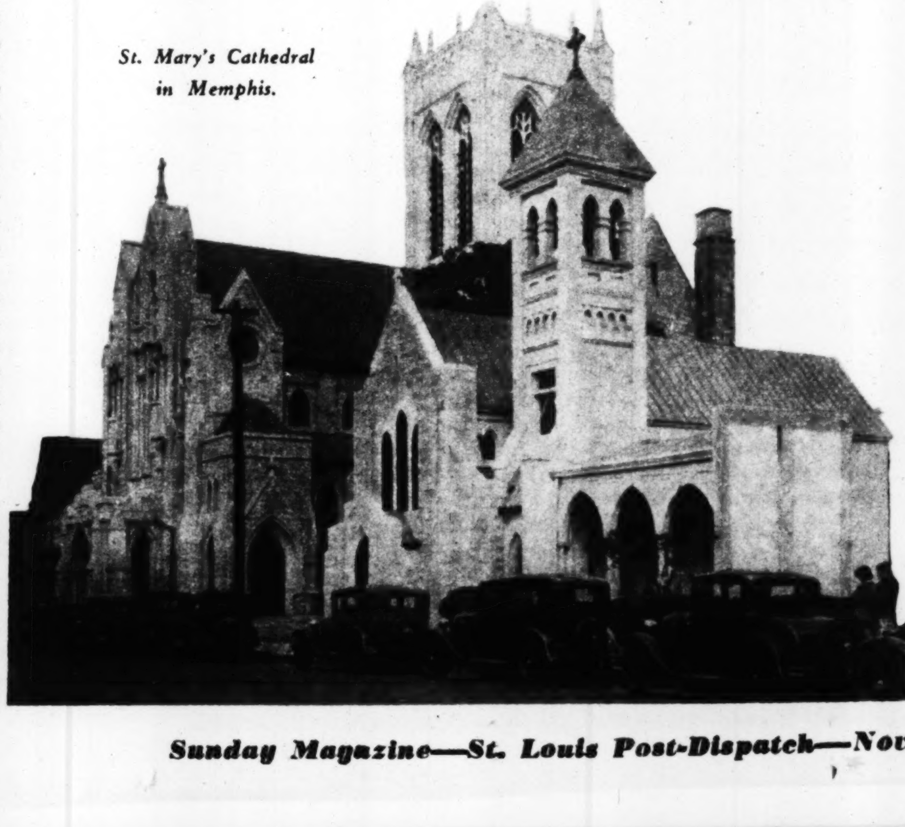
It was just like him, too, that after she had bought a cemetery lot and paid the burial expenses and erected a tombstone for their first child, and there remained only $900, he should "over the remonstrances, objections and tears of complainant," loan the $900 to a member of his congregation who had embezzled from his employer and but for the loan would have been prosecuted. The money was not repaid, she says, and when the man died the most that they could recover from his estate was $300.

Dean Noe says, however, that Mrs. Noe is all wrong about that. He did help out the man with $900, but he borrowed the money from Mrs. John W. Harrison, and he has the cancelled notes to show that he paid it back in monthly instalments.

As time passed the husband's income increased. After his first rectorate at Windsor, North Carolina, where his pay was $1200 a year, he was transferred in 1920 to the Tennessee diocese and later made Dean of St. Mary's Cathedral, where his salary now is $4800, but despite his increased earnings there seems to have been all along a good deal of discord over financial matters, with disputes frequently arising as to which should pay this and which pay that. Finally, about two years ago, when obligations had accumulated, a decision was reached to pool their resources, with Mrs. Noe as financial manager. In the exercise of her new responsibility, Mrs. Noe borrowed $1500 from a member of the congregation, without saying anything to her husband. He learned about it and was displeased and took it upon himself to advise the man who had loaned the money to bear down on Mrs. Noe and require prompt repayment, in instalments, to teach her a lesson, because she had always been extravagant.



The Dean's residence.



St. Mary's Cathedral in Memphis.

Speaking of extravagance, says Mrs. Noe in her come-back, who was it that bought reducing bread at $1 a loaf, running up a bill for this and other expensive foods? The Dean. And the Dean says, yes, he did buy reducing bread, but most of it was eaten by others.

MUCH more of the same sort is set forth in Mrs. Noe's petition for divorce and denied or explained in the Dean's answer, all showing that for several years there had been continuing discord in the deanery, increasing after marital relations ceased and the drift apart was emphasized by Mrs. Noe setting herself up in a separate establishment on the second floor of the deanery and filing suit for divorce. Two months later, in April, she removed from the deanery to an apartment at 123 Bellvue avenue, taking her children with her.

There seems to have been an expectation that the Dean, to minimize publicity that was harmful to his work, would not resist the action, but the filing of his answer dissipated that expectation and the naming of additional grounds by Mrs. Noe in her amended petition followed. The reason was that there was doubt whether, in a contested action, a decision could be won for Mrs. Noe on the single allegation of technical desertion, as there has been no decision in the Tennessee courts on the question whether such neglect as Mrs. Noe alleged constitutes desertion, while in other states the question has been decided both ways. Mrs. Noe's lawyer, Judge Edgar Webster, therefore, decided to set out in the amended petition the other indignities and ill-treatment to which she claims to have been subjected.

There had been a hinted hope of reconciliation in Dean Noe's answer to his wife's amended petition. After denying and explaining his wife's charges at length, he concluded his petition with this conciliatory gesture:

"Respondent is appreciative of all the help that complainant has rendered to him in the past and states it to be his belief that such loyal and co-operative service will continue in the future when complainant has entirely recovered from the shock of her illness."

Friends lent themselves to efforts toward a reconciliation.

THEY were helped by another expression in the Dean's answer that seemed to indicate that he had found a way to modify his views on marital relations without compromising his principles, granting that such relations might be "creative" for the purpose of fellowship, "leading ultimately to that perfect expression of love which is neither dependent upon physical contact or lessened by distance."

There was ambiguity about this, and Mrs. Noe was not convinced that it would remove the original grounds of her complaint.

That was the situation when the case was called for trial. Dean Noe was there, but Mrs. Noe did not appear. Her attorney asked time for a conference, and an hour was granted. At the end of that time Walter Armstrong, the Dean's attorney, asked that the case be continued generally. He believed the parties were becoming reconciled. The continuance granted, the Dean, his wife and the lawyers went to Webster's office. The conference ended without a decision, and the principals went their separate ways.

It was understood that Mrs. Noe was not satisfied with the concession suggested in the Dean's answer, but there seemed to be a chance of ultimate reconciliation, and the lawyers agreed to hold aloof and await a final decision.

Since then the Dean has been a frequent caller at Mrs. Noe's apartment. They have been seen in public, accompanied by their children. Mrs. Noe, however, when seen at her apartment, was not ready to say that she would return to the deanery. She volunteered the information, though, that the Dean had been to dinner at the apartment the day before and added, with evident satisfaction, that they were going out to dinner together some evening soon. A direct question whether there would be a reconciliation was parried. "But you never can tell what a woman will do," she said.

Dean Noe, at the austere deanery, spoke soberly of the problem that confronted him. "If it were merely," he said, "a matter of a man and wife who had been estranged making up, it would be simple, but there are principles involved and a man must be true to his principles."

BOSTON.

SUPERSTITIOUS folk in the Neponset district of Boston are convinced it was the curse of the famous Hope diamond that put May Yohe where she is. They wag their heads and mutter things about the gem's power for evil.

Others, less imaginative and a little more hard-boiled, say the curse of a bewitched diamond wasn't necessary; that May Yohe's indiscretions and blunders were enough to put her where she is without any help from the supernatural.

At any rate, May Yohe is down and out. There is no argument about that. The one-time musical comedy star who, in the 'nineties, had both America and Europe at her feet, is now a worn and tired old woman without a penny to her name. The heroine of a dazzling stage romance, who was once the wife of a British Lord and who might now be the Duchess of Newcastle had she kept her head, is now approaching the end of her checkered career in an humble flat in Granville street. Suffering from a lingering illness, she is waging a gallant fight to live, although, as she herself admits, life holds nothing for her but want and suffering.

May Yohe might have been a figure in British society and growing old in luxury and ease, but she is indulging in no vain regrets now as she reminisces on what might have been. She says she made her own bed and now she's going to lie in it without complaint. She takes little stock in the superstition about the Hope diamond, and smiles at the beliefs of some of her neighbors. They believe that when she married Lord Francis Hope, the present Duke of Newcastle, she fell under the influence of the diamond, which he then owned, and that her subsequent misfortunes and her present illness are traceable to the gem's sinister power. She says it was the spell of the footlights, and not the flashing of an unlucky gem, that lured her away from happiness. She staked everything on her ability to continue indefinitely as a public idol. She couldn't do that.

Only the older generation of theater-goers remembers May Yohe now. The younger generation has scarcely heard of her. And neither generation knows her by her present name—Mrs. John Smuts. But she hasn't been able to forget the world as speedily as the world has forgotten her. has had to bring all her memories along as she has come down from fame to obscurity. And what memories! It's not so easy to be content with obscurity when one has known the thrill of taking two continents by storm. May Yohe did that. Her name must go down in any history of the stage, if only by reason of her supremacy as a singer of "Negro" songs of the minstrel variety.

May Yohe, a Pennsylvanian by birth, reached the stage after an intensive education in America, France and Germany. It was her voice that won her a trial and then she proved she could act as well as sing.

THOSE who can recall her in the part of a convent girl some 40 years ago in one of the earliest musical comedies will scarcely need be reminded of her infectious vivacity, spontaneous humor and intimate little mannerisms which made all her audiences her friends at once. She was, in fact, a born actress with a style and personality all her own, and, when she sang a song, she sang it as no one ever sang it before.

If America raved over her, England took the Pennsylvania lassie to its heart and enshrined her as one of the great in the field of musical comedy. In her large hat and conventional minstrel costume, she had much to do with making the new type of melody the rage of the day. She had hundreds of imitators in her specially created field of amusement, but they did not provide serious competition. This Pennsylvania girl was in a class by herself as a "song shouter."

Her name on any program was sufficient to pack the theater or music hall and May Yohe not only became the fashion, but was herself fashionable on both sides of the Atlantic. In London she became the toast of the town. The gilded youth of the British metropolis flocked to the stage door. Gilded middle-age and old age, too, sought introductions to her, and the London world in those days was the best possible of all worlds to this charming, merry, saucy girl.

May—the name was derived from the initials of her name, Mary Augusta Yohe—was playing the lead in "The Magic Opal" at the Lyric Theater, in Shaftesbury avenue, London, in 1893, when a friend introduced her to Lord Francis Hope, the brother and heir-presumptive of the Duke of Newcastle.

Lord Francis at 27 was a few years her senior, and he was already known as a popular young peer with plenty of money and more character than is commonly associated with rank and riches. Now at 27 the son of a duke, or the son of any other man, ought to know his own mind, and Lord Francis had no qualms when, after he and May Yohe had been on the friendliest terms for some months, he asked her to become his wife.

It was considered a brilliant catch and a very desirable one, quite apart from its great worldly advantages. Lord Francis not only had considerable personal charm, but also a high sense of honor and loyalty.

The girl he proposed to was an actress, and there was still a certain prejudice against members of the profession in those circles of the British peerage which worshiped the conventional, but May Yohe was of an eminently respectable and decent American family and her educational attainments placed her above many of her critics.

It was in May Yohe's favor, too, that she possessed an original mind, a generous nature and an overwhelming sympathy for the unfortunate. Thus Lord Francis Hope had no reason to suspect that he was making a blunder when, in November, 1894, he married her at the Register Office in Hampstead.

May Yohe was now Lady Francis Hope and her home, Deepdene, a palace packed with treasures. Her husband had inherited it from his mother and his heritage had included the famous, or rather notorious, Hope diamond, that baleful gem which is said to have brought misfortune to each one of its owners.

High social rank, a glorious English home, and an adequate income should have been strong enough attractions to keep her away from the footlights, but Deepdene, though historic, was dull, and she believed she could not be happy without the frantic demonstrations of applause to which she had been accustomed for years in the theater.

FOR seven years she was May Yohe on the stage and Lady Francis Hope off the stage and she seemed to fill the double role very well. There appeared to be no cloud. Lord Francis was proud of his wife's cleverness and delighted with the public's appreciation of it. The seventh year of the marriage was spent in a round-the-world trip that was regarded as a sort of second honeymoon and everybody thought the alliance was assured of permanent success. Then came the first rift.

The journey ended in New York. May had been engaged some time previously to appear at one of the Broadway show houses at a huge salary and stopped off to fill the contract. Lord Francis left her there and went on home to attend to urgent business. Although the separation itself was not in the nature of a break, it led to that eventually. May Yohe says now it was a great blunder and she was responsible for it.

For some time her husband had been urging her to give up the stage altogether and retire to a quietr life. This she had refused to do. Then when he had gone home and she found herself treading the boards of a New York theater again, she forgot all about her station as Lady Francis Hope and became again the carefree May Yohe she had been originally, drunk with success and bent on winning still more fame.

She discovered, or thought she had discovered, that there was life and movement and freedom for her in her own native land such as she had never known or could know in the highest British social circles.

She was made the special prey of unscrupulous adventurers. Everybody in New York City knew that May Yohe was the soul of generosity and that the bigger her income the more she gave away. So they crowded around her with flattery, and May, remembering with a shiver the rather chilly atmosphere of the aristocratic homes of England, mistook their worship for the real thing and paid dearly for her mistake.

Lord Francis Hope heard of the undesirable salon she was forming in New York and hurried to rejoin her, but the May Yohe who met him on his arrival was vastly different from the girl he had parted from a short time previously. Her manner, cold and even hostile, soon convinced him that his society gave her no pleasure.

The natural consequence was a number of scenes before they parted again, and when they did part again they parted forever. That parting seems to have marked the end of complete happiness for May Yohe. Although she searched for it in many lands afterwards she was never to find it again.

There was, as might have been expected, another romance or two. Hovering hopefully and expectantly in the background was an adventurer, Captain Putnam Strong, son of a former Mayor of New York, William L. Strong. He dressed the part of the fire-eater and gallant who devotes himself to making history in the lesser known corners of the earth.

He had fascinated the titled actress by stories of valorous deeds on three continents and apparently he was in New York only because he had exhausted the adventures of the Old World. He had added a fresh chapter to the history of American valor in the Philippines and the medals he had gained would have filled a trunk—according to his own chronicles.

To lend credence to his yarns, he aped the typical soldier of fortune, and May Yohe, accustomed to the delicate chivalry of her English husband, threw herself into the arms of Strong, who wooed her with the alluring crudity of the wilds.

FOR his sake she threw away her rank, thought nothing of the ducal coronet which must be hers in the ordinary course of events, and discarded the high-minded British gentleman she had married. She was so anxious to become the wife of Captain Strong that she made no secret of it and when Lord Francis Hope sued for divorce she offered no opposition.

She enjoyed much publicity as a result of her second marriage, being "front-paged" for preferring a commoner of the United States to an English aristocrat. But the tune was different when, not so long after Lady Hope became Mrs. Strong, she realized that this second marriage had been a grave mistake. This marriage was a blunder and only by a divorce action on her own account did May Yohe get rid of the Captain.

The experience left a permanent mark on her, although she tried to convince herself and her admirers that it had just been a passing episode. Her public, which had been so worshipful, slipped from her grasp. She couldn't exercise the old charm any more. Her vivacity was obviously forced, her attempts at spontaneity a failure, and her acting powers visibly degenerating.

For a time she was worth something to theatrical managers of England because she had once been Lady Francis Hope and because everybody on both sides of the Atlantic was talking about her adventures with Captain Strong. But it was only a passing curiosity that brought people to see and hear her now, and the life of a stage curiosity is short. Soon people were no longer interested and the great May Yohe was reduced to the ranks. Fresher news sensations, fresher curiosities usurped her place and the day came when May was glad to get a job as barmaid in a Bohemian club of London.

DURING the war she suddenly reappeared at the Kingsway Opera House, now a motion picture theater. There she sought to revive interest in a past age by singing: "Oh, Honey, My Honey," and other minstrel songs.

A few hundreds went again out of curiosity to see her, and considering all things she was not a complete failure, but she was out of date. No one was interested in the feeble music-hall fare of the early 'nineties.

So May hied herself back to America, and sought surcease from woes and troubles by settling down in Boston with her third husband. He is Captain John Smuts, a nephew of General Jan Smuts, hero of the Boer War. With her present mate, who is of Dutch stock like herself, May Yohe's life has been one of constant struggle to keep body and soul together and a shelter above her head. Her present husband is a good man, according to all accounts, and willing to labor, but he is now unemployed and things have been far from comfortable in the Smuts' household. The once celebrated May Yohe is lost in obscurity, while the husband she threw aside for an adventurer is now the immensely rich Duke of Newcastle, happily married and living in luxury and comfort.

The Church Where They Talk With Their Dead

By MEIGS O. FROST

Interior of the church at Momostenango where Guatemalan natives converse, according to their belief, with their dead.

The Strange Guatemalan Edifice, in Which the Christian and the Ancient Mayan Rituals Are Mingled, Visited for the First Time by an Outsider.

GUATEMALA CITY.

THE strangest Christian Church in the world stands in a little mountain-ringed valley nearly three miles above sea level, high and far in the northwestern part of Guatemala over toward the Pacific side. Tourists never penetrate that remote mountain Indian pueblo. But the handful of visitors who have climbed those mountain trails have departed with a memory that lasts while life lasts.

They have seen the Church of Momostenango.

The church where they talk with their dead.

In that great, white, cathedral-like church, with its flagstone floor, its Spanish lines, its huge, high altar, is one of the most amazing survivals of a mingling of the Roman Catholic faith and the pagan religion, 3000 years old, of the Mayan Indians, that this world can show.

Four centuries have passed since with sword and battle ax and pike and bellowing, muzzle-loading, bell-mouthed arquebus, with steel armor and strange horses, the Spaniards conquered Guatemala in the name of the Cross of Christ and His Most Catholic Majesty, the King of Spain. They brought a new faith to the Indians—and death was the penalty of those who did not adopt that faith. Yet today in Momostenango you can see with your own eyes how thin a veneer is the Christianity that the Spaniards sought with steel to drive home in the hearts of a conquered Indian race.

The church where they talk with their dead. There is nothing like it anywhere else in the world.

And now for the first time that story is told to the outer world. For those who rule in Momostenango in the name of the Republic of Guatemala told the reporter who writes this story that he is the first newspaper man who ever penetrated that remote mountain pueblo, and the first human being who ever obtained a photograph of the strange scene of these Indians, inside that church, talking with their dead.

They are a proud race, these Indians of Momostenango. Proud in their independence of the outer world. Proud of the fact that they give to the army of the Republic of Guatemala a reserve of 4000 of the best mountain infantry that ever fired a rifle. Proud of the fact that the blankets of Momostenango, woven by hand of the wool they shear from the mountain sheep they raise, dyed with the mountain vegetable dyes they gather and steep in iron pots, are the brightest and most beautiful Indian blankets woven anywhere. Proud of the bright blue cloth they weave by hand, that lasts forever and is as water-proof as anything not rubber can be.

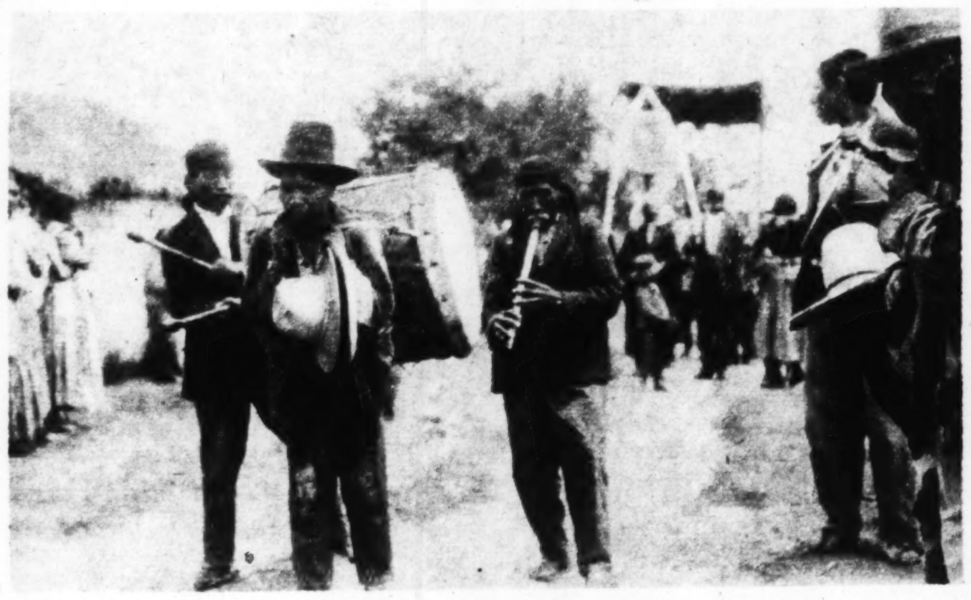
A clannish race, the Indians of Momostenango. The men short in stature, broad of shoulder, solidly, squarely built, with bulging calves to mountain-climbing legs that carry them over wild-goat mountain trails hundreds of miles with 200 pounds of weight slung on their shoulders by a broad leather strap.

THEY jog-trot from dawn to dusk, up and down mountains, under loads that would make a college athlete stagger inside a hundred yards on level ground. And as soldiers, with rifle and cartridge belt, with a pouch of cold tortillas and of cold fried black beans, they can march and camp and fight on mountain sides steeper than the roof of a house.

Still, they till their fields of mais (Indian corn) as their fathers tilled them before the white man came. As in dry weather your automobile, and in wet weather your saddle mule, pick their way over mountain trails where a mountain side rises 2000 feet above you and a valley drops 5000 feet below you, you see those fields of mais growing on mountain sides so steep that the cornstalks, growing straight toward the sun, make a sharp "V" with the earth. All the Indians have done is chop down trees and scrub with machetes, set fire to them after they have dried and, with sharp sticks, poked holes in the ground, fertilized only by the wood ashes, weeded by hand, with heavy hoes of hammered iron as the corn grows. And still the Indian women soak the corn in water and "cal" (something like lye), wash it clean, roll it into a wet paste, with stone roller on stone mortar, pat it into cakes with their hands, and cook the tortillas in wide, shallow clay comals, over open fires. Still they hunt the "javelina"—the wild pig of the mountain forests, and roast it over those open fires. Still they boil and mash and fry the black beans that are their daily "meat."

And still in their hearts they worship the ancient Mayan gods to whom they bowed in the days before the Spaniard came.

No man knows, not even the priests, just where these Indians of Momostenango got the idea that in this church at Momostenango they could talk to their own dead as one talks to the living. But somewhere in the workings of the primitive Indian mind that belief grew amid the teachings of the Catholic fathers.



Guatemala natives with primitive Mayan musical instruments on a feast day.

OVER the mountains, day after day, across the miles of steep scenery that form the Department of Totonicopan of the Republic of Guatemala, in which Momostenango stands, plod these Indians. They sleep at the homes of friends, they sleep in the open air where night finds them. They are quiet, but friendly. When you meet them and wave greeting as they approach, with "adios" called out as you pass them, always the courteous return of "Adios, Senor," sounds in your ears.

Some of them wear American or European style coats and trousers, cut by their village tailors or their own women, and sewn from the bright blue ever-lasting cloth they weave themselves. Some of them wear the same Indian costume the Spanish soldiers of Don Pedro de Alvarado saw on their Indian enemies back in the early 1500s. Cotton shirts and cotton drawers, like knee-length track pants, lavishly embroidered in red. Heavy, black, woven woolen robes of their own weaving, girt at the waist with scarlet woolen sashes. Bright-colored head cloths, bound about swarthy heads with shocks of coarse black hair. The women, in beautifully embroidered, colorful guipils for blouses, and skirts with all the colors of the rainbow. Barefoot or with heavy leather sandals strapped to their feet.

Always the men carry the machete, that steel blade civilization gave them, their tool and their weapon. There seems nothing they cannot do with it.

Thus, over the mountain trails they come into Momostenango. There, ringed by cloud-wreathed mountain peaks, stands the white church in the little valley nearly three miles above the sea.

On the steps of the great white church sit Indian women in bright costumes, with masses of wax candles hung around them by looped candle wicks. And there begins the first of a series of the strangest ceremonies man can find in a Catholic church in the world today.

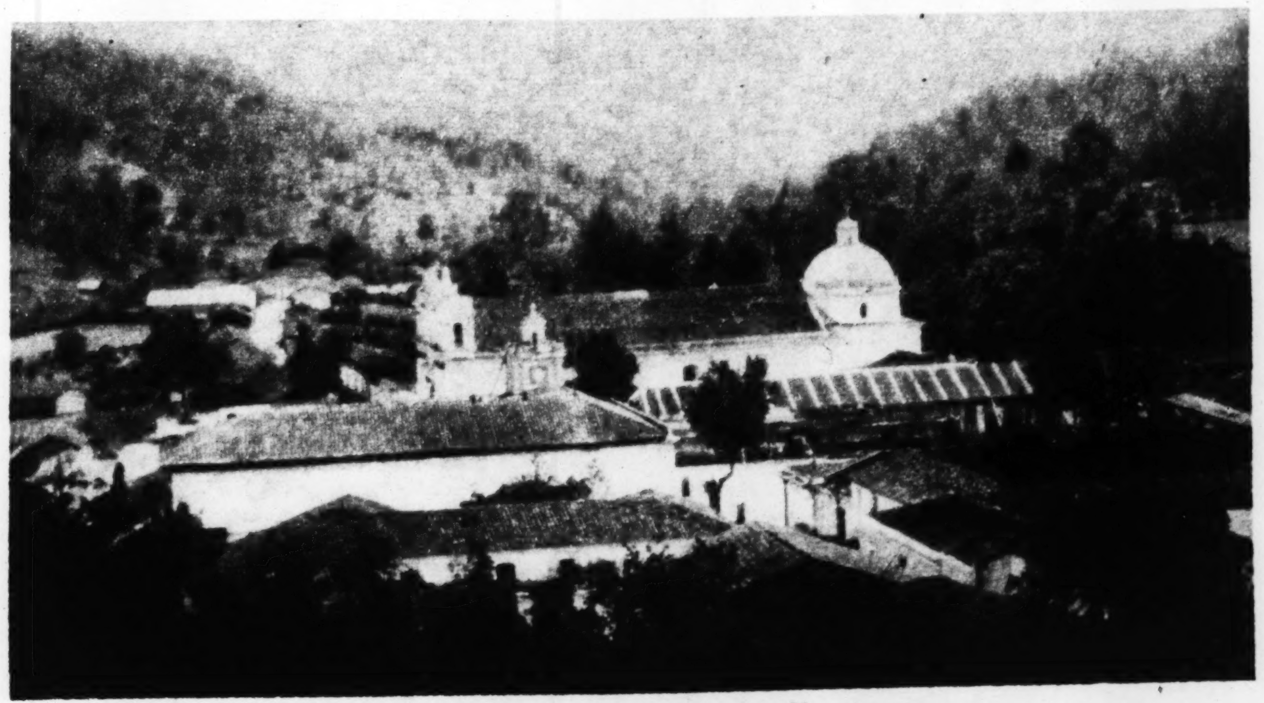
First of all, the Indian walks up and buys a candle from the women on the steps of the church; buys it for a small copper coin.

And then, lighting the candle, he goes back out of the shadow of the church and kneels in the dust in the center of the wide, sun-lit plaza. He places the lighted candle in the dust of the earth where he kneels.

And in the Indian tongue, so audibly that you can hear him 20 feet away, and your interpreter can tell you exactly what he says, that Indian prays. He is praying to the God of the Universe, the ancient Mayan Indian deity his ancestors worshiped before the white man came.

He is praying for the permission of the God of the Universe that he may enter what he calls "the Church of the God of the Spaniards!"

WHILE that candle burns, there in the broad light of day, he keeps up his prayer to the ancient Mayan God of Gods. The God of the Universe, greater than the God of War or God of the Forest; greater than the God of the Fields of Mais; greater than the God of the Hunters or the God of the Fishermen. The greatest God that could be conceived by the Mayan priesthood that at the time of the birth of Christ was 1000 years ahead of all the rest of the world in mathematics and art and the science of astronomy; that built temples and pyramid cities as beautiful as the temples of ancient Greece and Rome. There, in the sunlight of 1931, in front of a church of the Roman Catholic religion that counts him a communicant, that Indian prays to a god the Spaniards in the sixteenth century tumbled from his temple throne. The prayer ended, and apparently answered to the Indian's satisfaction, he rises from his knees. He walks across the plaza. He climbs the steps of the Church of Momostenango.



View from the mountain side of the church at Momostenango.

He is going to talk to his dead.

He buys a candle for every dead member of his family he knew in life. This reporter saw one Indian buy six such candles.

Into the church he goes. Far up in front, toward the altar, are some half a dozen movable pews. All the rest of the great flagstone paved interior is bare. As you enter the dim great vaulted space, you see 20 to 30 Indians kneeling on the stone floor, behind the twinkling flames of their candles, stuck upright to the floor in their own melted wax.

THE newcomer selects his spot on the floor, after having crossed himself devoutly before the altar. He lights his candles. Carefully he spills a little pool of melted wax on the stone flags; sets his candle in it as it cools. Presently this one Indian was behind a rampart of six lighted candles. They burned gravely in the dimness of the great church. For a few moments the Indian knelt behind them in silence.

The reporter edged a little closer behind him, his educated Indian interpreter at his side. And then as the Indian kneeling on the floor began to talk softly, the interpreter translated the tongue that four centuries of official Spanish have not conquered.

"He is calling them by name now," whispered the interpreter. "His father, his mother, his first wife, his his son, two daughters."

And then, to the Indian, his dead were there. Softly, he began to talk to them. It was exactly as though he was sitting in their home, paying them a visit. He told them about the prospects of his crop of mais. He told them of how a new calf was not doing so well; that this new calf was a sickly animal. He told them about some blankets his present wife was weaving. He told them of a fight he had had the week before in a cantina, where he and a neighbor had drunk too deeply. Family gossip. It went on, moment after moment. And then he inquired about the ones to whom he was talking. Were things going well with them in this other world they now inhabited. Were they happy? Were their crops good? He trusted no bad fortune attended them. He had not been so lucky.

WHY, even last week his woman had broken the big stone mortar on which she rolled tortillas. She was clumsy, that woman. Careless. Two comals (clay frying pans) she had broken, carelessly slamming them down on the three stones on which they rested over the fire.

It was uncanny. As the full import of it gathered in your mind, you felt a curious chill run up your spine. This was not a prayer. This was a conversation. And all over the church, behind a score of twinkling candle flames, was rising the soft murmur of similar family talks.

The church where they talk with their dead!

More than that. In the center of the church, amid more burning candles, three Indians, all men, sat cross-legged on the floor. They were talking with one another.

"What are they talking about?" the reporter whispered to his interpreter.

"They are making a deal to trade some livestock and some wool," he said.

"But why here?"

"It is their way to prove good faith," he explained in a whisper. "They have a phrase for it. They say they come into the church to do business under the power of God," with eternity in hell as the pledged penalty for breaking faith.

That scene simply had to be recorded.

But the interpreter explained that he would not answer for the consequences if the Indians saw that they were being photographed talking to their dead. So Benjamin Corona, staff photographer of El Imparcial of Guatemala City, was slipped into the church, his camera concealed under a raincoat hung on his arm. Quietly, he was slipped into an empty confessional, toward the rear. And, without a chance to use a flashlight, through the opening in the confessional, he took a time exposure of that strange scene—the first time a picture ever was taken of these Indians of Momostenango talking to their dead.

CLEVER ALICE

By

JAN FOSTER

HOUSES blurred by. Hedges. Gardens. Like pictures on the rapidly flipped pages of a bright book. Alice sat in the swift, scarlet roadster with her hands folded. She could not help reflecting that for two years her life had blurred by in just this dreadful, disquieting fashion. But she could, and did, help remarking this to her daughter, Anne—a large, dark, formidable girl, who sat beside her and drove, among other things, the scarlet roadster.

Two years ago Anne had finished college and begun on her mother.

It was all about something which was called, by Anne, the cultural side of life. Alice had neglected this. Anne had neglected Alice.

"In those days, all was well," thought Alice.

But Anne had come marching home from college like a crusader, determined to no longer neglect her mother, who must no longer be allowed to neglect the cultural side of life.

"And from this moment on, all was—well, not well," thought Alice.

It sifted down to this: they were all clever but Alice. Her circle of women friends included artists and authors; women who went in for politics and out for office; skilled exploiters of charity in all its most virulent forms. Only Alice stood alone.

She had had a clever mother and a clever father. She had had a husband who was clever enough to die quite early, before he could be proved to be otherwise. She had clever cousins. Uncles. Aunts. She had Anne, the omniscient. But Alice herself, poor Alice, was never very clever.

A long row of pepper trees, dripping graceful green lace, blurred by.

"Darling," Alice called, making a horn of her two small hands and crying into the great wind which was created by the rush of the car, "might we, do you think, go, perhaps, a little slower?"

"No," said Anne thoughtfully.

Alice refolded her hands. After a little she comforted herself with the reflection that, if only God would send a motor cop, they might yet go to jail instead of the Woman's Club.

"Must hurry," cried Anne. "Must be on time. Might not be able to get in."

"Do you really think, darling," shouted Alice, and her voice held a faint thread of hope, "that such a thing might happen as that we might not be able to get in?"

"Don't worry," returned Anne encouragingly. "I'll see to it that you get there in sufficient time."

Anne was like that. Good to her mother.

ALICE sighed. A solid wall of telegraph poles tore by. Almost incredibly, Anne drew up at their destination, intact and unarrested.

The tailored intelligentsia were surging into the Woman's Club; clever, alert women, eagerly on their way to meet a poet, or something worse—if, reflected Alice, there was anything worse.

The president herself, a very large woman, whose smile was too small for her, was just puffing up the steps. She beamed upon Anne with genuine enthusiasm, and with a slight effort enlarged the beam to include Alice.

"My dear," she puffed, "you are fortunate. This dear little daughter is, I should say, almost perfect."

"Almost perfect," Alice agreed. "Thank God that she is not quite," she finished inaudibly, with a faint, unorthodox grin.

"Fortunate," cried the president, rubbing it in. "Yes, I do believe that Anne takes you everywhere."

"Everywhere," agreed Alice wanly.

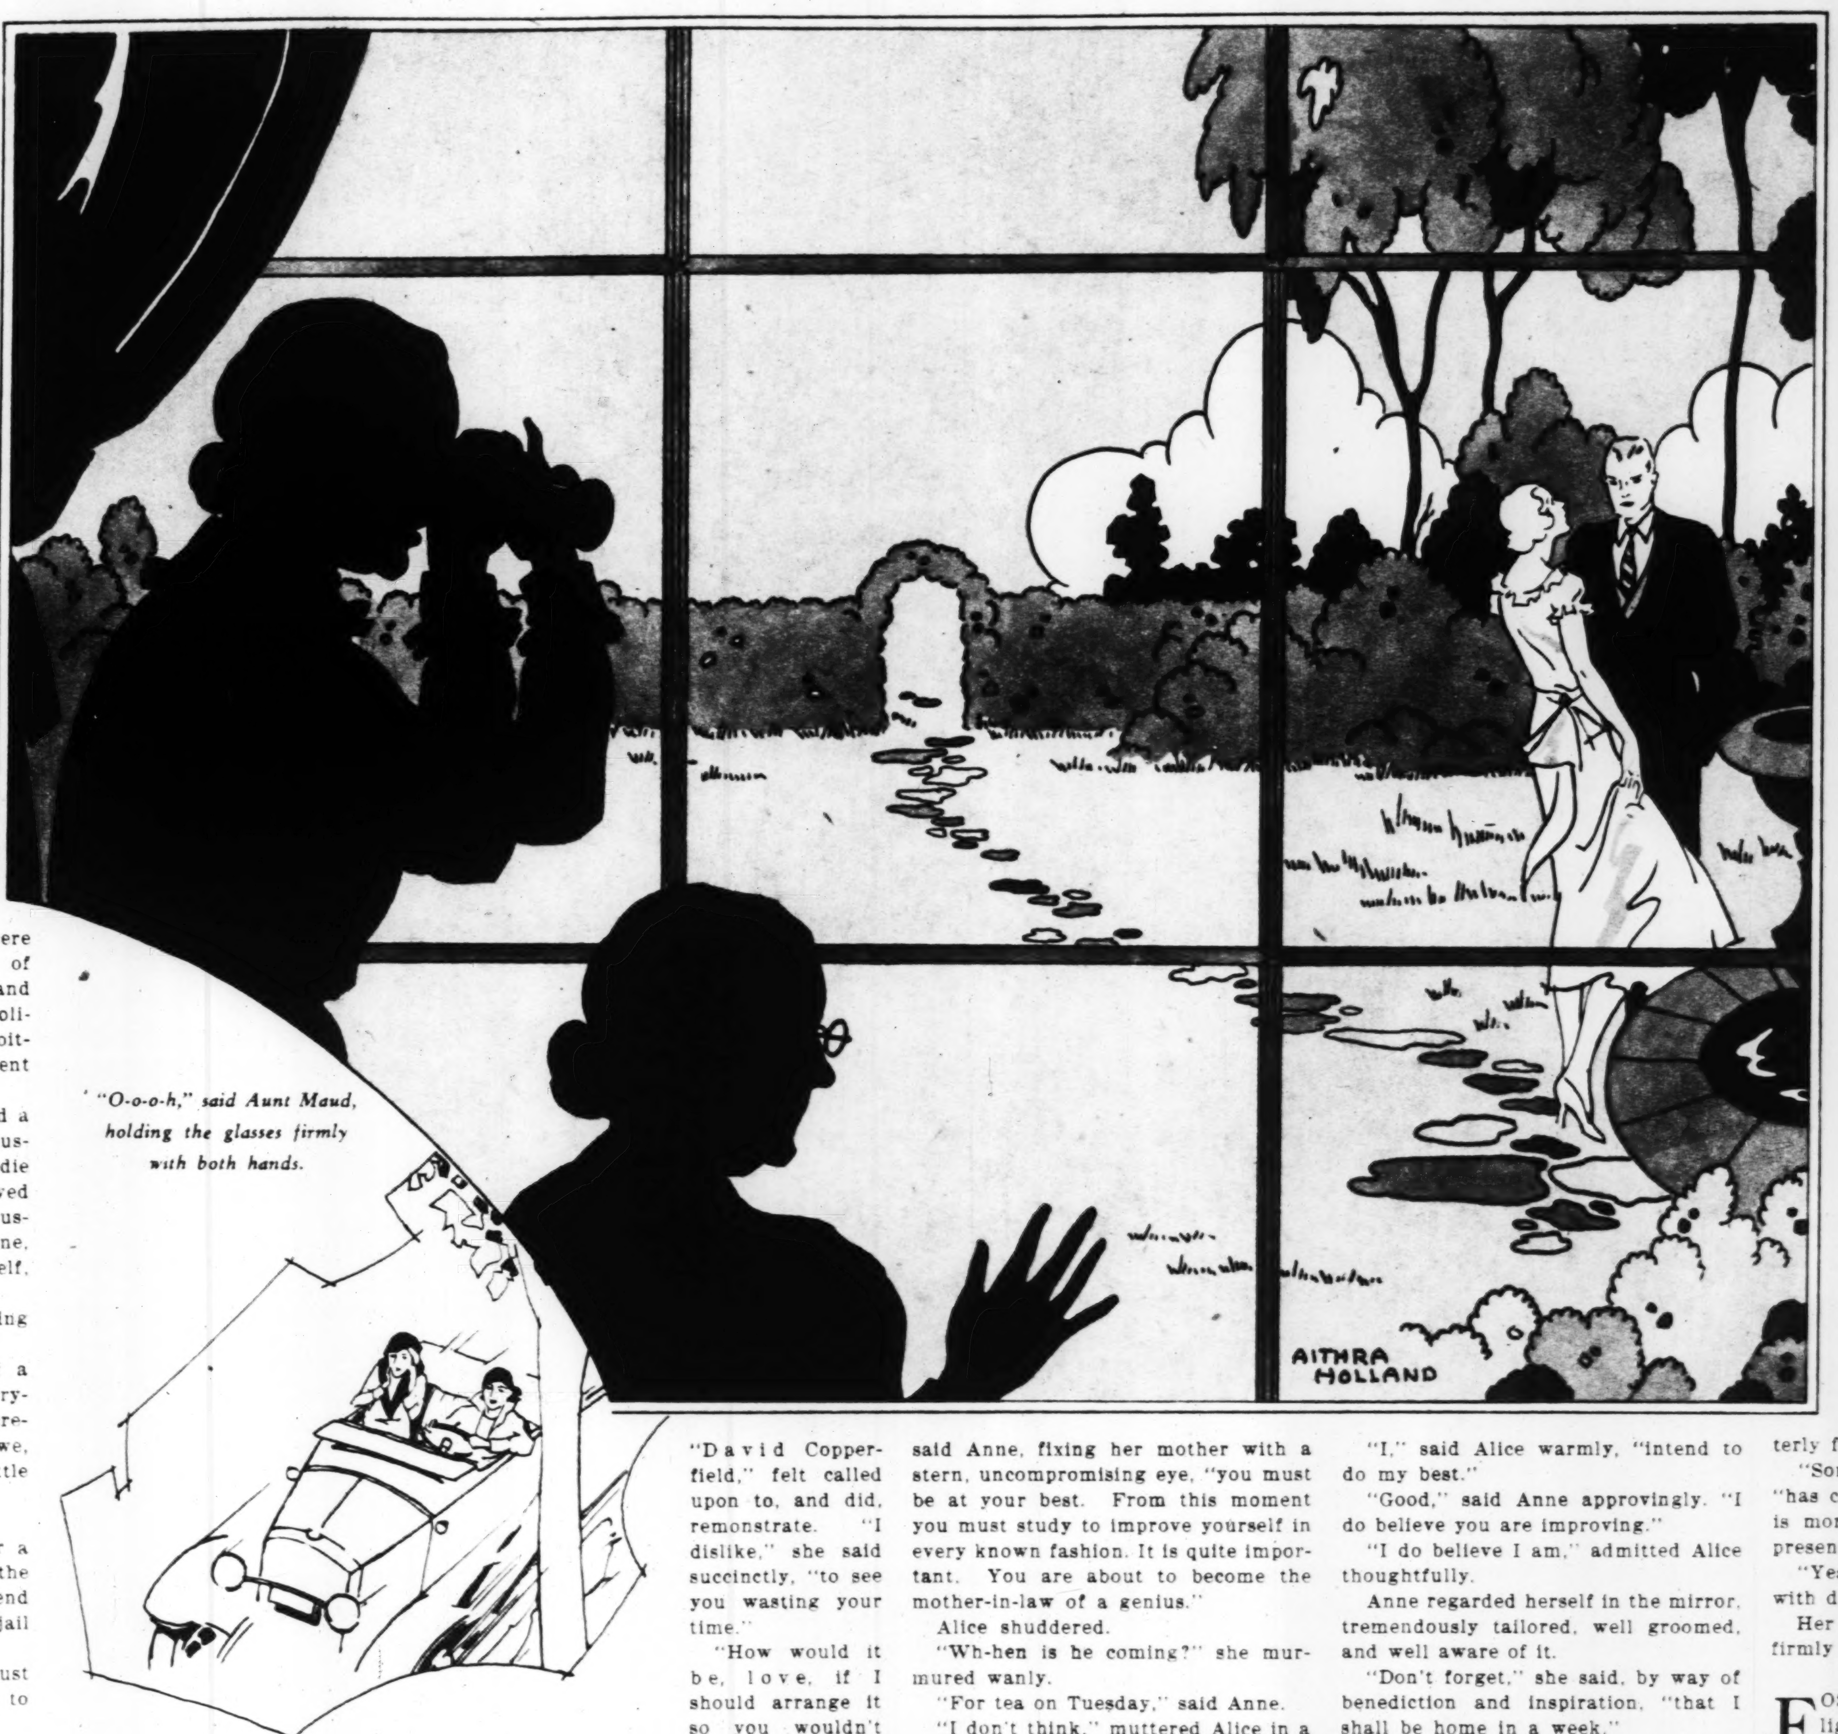
"In this day and age," pursued the president, blowing her words out like soap bubbles, "when there are so many neglected mothers. Thousands of them. Think of it."

Alice thought of it. Thousands of them. Disregarded and undisturbed. Beautifully neglected. It seemed a pity that she could not make one of their number.

"What," finished the president, pausing at the door, "my dear, what would you do without her?"

The enormity of this question. Alice felt weak before it. She found herself suddenly forced to sit down on the steps and think it over. What would she do without Anne? Enough. She would have peace, and no traffic whatsoever with the cultural side of life. She would sew a little, and cook a little and read a little Dickens. She would choose her own clothes, and they would not be tailored. She would have done with this dreadful, restless rush. She would be herself.

Anne was at the top of the steps, looking down at her mother disapprovingly. It was often so.



"O-o-o-h," said Aunt Maud, holding the glasses firmly with both hands.

"Mother," she said severely, "you do such ghastly things. Why are you sitting on the steps? Why don't you come up?"

Come up. For two years Alice had been coming up. She was weary of coming up. There were too many steps. She thought of the number of steps that there were. And after that she thought of the number of neglected mothers that there were. Suddenly nonconformity broke out on her like a rash. She rose and stood, a small, blond, incredibly childish figure, gazing up at her great, dark daughter.

"Darling," said Alice, and her voice was suddenly light and elated. "I forgot something. I must go home. You go in."

"What," inquired Anne coldly, "could you have forgotten? Was it important?"

"Most important, love," said Alice equably. "I shall walk. You keep the car."

She turned her back firmly on the Woman's Club and the cultural side of life.

"Mother," commanded Anne, "what did you forget? I think I should know."

Alice took, in a downward direction, six small steps that were light and gay and graceful.

"Darling," she called over her shoulder, "it was this: I forgot how bored I seemed to be at the last Woman's Club program."

WITH a slight wave that was, very definitely, a gesture of finality, she whisked down the steps.

Anne remained for a moment at the top of the steps, taking considerable pleasure in looking pained. For she did not really feel pained. The rise of new difficulties brought her little but the zest of fresh fields to conquer. She was unashamed to admit that she was equal to any situation. So, with a stained-glass smile on her lips and new relevancies forming in her thoughts, the omniscient daughter of the erring mother went briskly in.

Alice strolled ecstatically down the boulevard. By the postoffice she met two of the cleverest of her clever cousins, belatedly on their way to the Woman's Club.

"Where," said one clever cousin curiously, eyeing her smile, "are you going?"

"Nowhere," said Alice. "Isn't it delightful?"

Anne, finding her mother eating bread and apple sauce, and reading "David Copperfield," felt called upon to, and did, remonstrate. "I dislike," she said succinctly, "to see you wasting your time."

"How would it be, love, if I should arrange it so you wouldn't see me?" murmured Alice, but faintly, knowing that her big moment had come and gone.

"Listen to me," said Anne emphatically. "I have something to say to you."

"There is nothing exactly epochal about that," reflected Alice.

"I am going to be married," said Anne equably. "I have decided to marry Foster Farwell."

"That's nice, darling," said Alice enthusiastically. "Who is he?"

"Mother," said Anne resignedly, "everybody who knows anything knows Foster Farwell. He wrote that symbolic poem, 'Ecuas Elppa.' He read from it this afternoon. You surely missed something."

"I SURELY did," agreed Alice thankfully."

"He's rather elusive. It will take a very clever woman to marry him," mused Anne. "I'm just the type."

She strolled to the mirror and regarded herself.

"Everybody's mad about him," she announced. "But I'm his ideal."

"Did he say so?" inquired Alice delicately.

"He described me in his poem," explained Anne. "Symbolically, of course." She gestured largely. "It was a masterly and enthusiastic pean of praise for the intellectual emancipation of the modern woman, who has freed herself from femininity, thrown off the shackles, whetted her intellect like a sword and stands ready to do battle with man on his own ground."

"It must have been," she assented meekly, "quite a poem."

She was silent for some moments.

"Can you," she said, "love this person?"

"Mother," Anne said, "what has love to do with marriage in these enlightened days? It will be a union of fine minds. I am a brilliant woman. He is a brilliant man. Together we will go far."

"How far?" inquired Alice hopefully.

"Your literal mind will be your undoing," Anne answered. "Rest assured that I shall never leave you. What would you do without me?"

Alice shut her eyes and moaned a little.

"And now I come to the point," said Anne.

Alice looked up apprehensively. In two years she had learned to dread the points to which Anne came.

"When you meet Foster Farwell," said Anne, fixing her mother with a stern, uncompromising eye, "you must be at your best. From this moment you must study to improve yourself in every known fashion. It is quite important. You are about to become the mother-in-law of a genius."

Alice shuddered.

"Wh-hen is he coming?" she murmured wanly.

"For tea on Tuesday," said Anne.

"I don't think," muttered Alice in a small, wavering voice, "that I shall be in on Tuesday."

"You must be in," said Anne implacably. "It is enough that I had to explain your unfortunate absence this afternoon. I was, however, equal to the situation. I said you were ill."

"You spoke the truth," said Alice dully, putting her cold hands to her hot head. "I am ill."

Fate helped Alice. Or she helped herself. For, before Tuesday came Anne went—chosen as a delegate for a woman's club convention in Boston.

There was not a moment to spare. As she packed, Anne gave her mother complete and definite directions as to the character which the tea on Tuesday must assume.

"Whatever you do," she said, "don't let him know that you never heard of him before. Make him feel that you are looking forward eagerly to meeting him."

"Why, darling," said Alice suprisingly, "I am looking forward to meeting him."

"Don't let him find out that you are Victorian, domestic, feminine and feeble-minded," continued Anne darkly.

"Victorian, domestic, feminine, feeble-minded," repeated Alice.

"He has a light appetite," said Anne. "Serve him with something quite unusual and artistic and atmospheric."

"I shall serve him with something quite unusual," promised Alice.

"And above all," said Anne, "stimulate him mentally. Give the occasion some intellectual significance."

"In short," said Anne, "follow in my footsteps. Be as like me as you can."

"I," said Alice warmly, "intend to do my best."

"Good," said Anne approvingly. "I do believe you are improving."

"I do believe I am," admitted Alice thoughtfully.

Anne regarded herself in the mirror, tremendously tailored, well groomed, and well aware of it.

"Don't forget," she said, by way of benediction and inspiration, "that I shall be home in a week."

"My love," said Alice gravely, "I couldn't forget it. It would be quite impossible."

At last Anne was off. Alice drew a happy sigh and then went forth in quite a jubilant manner.

The shop windows were beautifully gay. She stopped before one, seeing herself reflected—a small, correctly tailored figure, in garments neat, darkish, impeccable, uninteresting, and chosen by Anne. Only the vivid smile of the mirrored Alice lifted her from dullness. But back of her reflection, casually hung on a quaint, carved chair, was a garden frock, green, gay, insouciant, frilled and feminine. And tossed beside it was a wide garden hat, lined with lilac. Assuredly a dress and a hat to match her mood. Stopping only to think that she would not stop to think, Alice stepped into the shop.

Aunt Clara and Aunt Maud sat all in black on their white stone porch, being clever in their fashion, which was critical. Black on white, not unlike two crows on a tombstone, they sat in the shade, and read a little from something which bored them sufficiently so that they were able to feel noble over it, and watched the world go by.

SUDDENLY Aunt Clara seized the opera glasses and stared down the street.

"Here," she said dramatically, "comes Alice."

It was really Aunt Maud's turn to have the glasses. She felt this injustice keenly, and would not give Aunt Clara the satisfaction of being asked in what manner Alice came, that she was announced with such enthusiasm. So Aunt Maud continued to sit, silent and distinctly aggrieved. Now Aunt Clara began to quiver with excitement. All her beaded blackness sparkled in the sun.

"A-a-a-ah," said Aunt Clara, leaning forward.

Aunt Maud permitted herself to lean forward in like manner, but all she could see, with the naked and near-sighted eye, was a faint figure approaching. She gritted her teeth.

"O-o-o-oh," said Aunt Clara.

Aunt Maud could not bear it. She weakened.

"What is it, Clara?" she begged. "What? Oh, what?"

"It is Alice," said Aunt Clara with relish. "She is all dressed up in green. And her dress is very thin, and very . . . very skittish," said Aunt Clara, feeling for and finding a word. "And her hat is very large and very greenish and noticeable. At her age," said Aunt Clara, calculating rapidly. "She must be 40, if she is a day, and she looks like a child. Isn't it absurd?"

Then she called commandingly: "Oh, Alice."

Alice strolled to the porch.

"Isn't it a perfect day?" she said idly.

Aunt Clara shook her head somberly.

"You have a new dress, Alice," she said. "It looks like green."

"It," said Alice, "is green."

Aunt Clara shuddered. Alice did not look a day over 25. It was downright immoral of her to look so young. Aunt Clara shuddered. Aunt Maud, seeing Aunt Clara shuddering and shuddering, set her teeth and refused to shudder. She felt just as badly about this as Clara did, but she would not be a slave to a selfish sister.

"Alice," said Aunt Clara in a shocked voice, looking at the fragile flimsiness of the green dress, "I do not like to speak of this. It pains me. But I am your aunt"——

"I know you are," agreed Alice very gently. "It pains me as much as it does you, Aunt Clara, so why mention it? There is nothing that can be done about it."

"I," said Aunt Clara, somewhat nettled, "was about to remark that, when you stand in the sun in that garment, I can see through you."

"Now, I wonder," remarked Alice thoughtfully, "if you can see through me, Aunt Clara."

Humming a gay little tune, she strolled slowly through the garden, to her own gate and passed from sight.

Aunt Maud took considerable pleasure in laughing loud and long and boisterously; but Aunt Clara ignored, in a masterly fashion, this insubordination.

"Something," she said ominously, "has certainly come over Alice. There is more to this than is apparent at present. You will see."

"Yes," said Aunt Maud, speaking with determination, "I will see."

Her fingers reached for, and closed firmly about, the opera glasses.

FOSTER FARWELL rang the bell lightly, and waited. He rang again, less lightly, and waited. There was no answer. He was surprised this was so. For his former experience had led him to believe that bells which he approached might be, and often were, answered before they were rung. And it had led him to believe that many ladies lived only to answer Foster Farwell's bells before they were rung. He paused irresolute. He was seized with the desire to leave this inhospitable home immediately. He left this inhospitable home immediately. But at the gate he again paused, irresolute. To merely ring and run away was ignoble. Perhaps his conscience smote him. Perhaps it was something else. At any rate, smitten somehow, in some fashion, for one reason or another, he turned back.

At the end of a brown, crooked path that ran, rimmed with pink hollyhocks, through the quaint, tangled old garden that was Alice's joy and Anne's despair, there was a gay flash of green and lilac, moving here and there, like a flower among the flowers. It vanished into the rose arbor. Foster Farwell sighed a little and followed the flash. And there was Alice herself, in the flesh and the green dress, cutting pink roses and laying them in a basket, just blue enough to reveal that her eyes were bluer.

Hearing the step of Foster Farwell on the garden path, she gave no evidence of recognizing that the step of genius is not as other steps and merely said, abstractedly, over her shoulder, "I suppose you are wondering why I ordered two plumber's helpers. It is like this:

"Last time the plumbing bill read, 'To plumber, $30. To plumber's helper, $2.50.' And the helper did all of the work. So this time I just said, 'Send me two good plumber's helpers.'"

"I suppose," she said absently, "the other helper has gone back after the tools."

Slowly she raised her eyes to meet the gaze of a very tall and amazingly handsome and scholarly gentleman.

"Why," she said disappointedly, "I don't believe you are the plumber's helper, even if you haven't any tools."

The gentleman was regarding her with a curious intentness.

"No," he said after a little, with a faint reluctance, as if he would have preferred to have found this unnecessary. "I am not the plumber's helper. Nor yet the plumber. I am Foster Farwell. And I came to meet your mother. She invited me to tea."

Alice opened her eyes until they were enormous, and sat down suddenly on the rustic bench.

"I," she said in a very pretty and feminine confusion, "am your mother. My mother. The mother for whom you are looking. I am sorry that I shall have to admit that I quite forgot that you were coming."

Foster Farwell gasped. There was, in the rose arbor, a hammock. He sank into it.

"Tut," he said reprovingly. "Don't say these things to me. You can't be Anne's mother."

"I know," said Alice regarding him. "It is a shock to you. It doesn't seem credible. Anne is such a clever girl."

"M-m," said Foster Farwell. No more. No less.

THE arbor was cool and soft with shadows. The conversation languished, lay dead beneath the roses. Moments drifted by like blown petals. He slept.

Eons later, a faint spicy odor assailed his nostrils. He opened his eyes. He rubbed them. Apple sauce, and bread and butter, and milk.

His hostess sat opposite him, a tiny green figure, like a child playing tea party.

"I thought we would just have a picnic out here in the arbor," she said calmly. "Try some apple sauce. I'm afraid I'm very domestic. I made it myself."

Alice watched Foster Farwell eat. He was, she reflected, a rather good sport. It was too bad that he was also a Fine Mind. It was too bad that such a handsome man, old enough to know better—forty or therabouts—should be a poet. Vaguely she regretted the whole affair. Vaguely she wished that she might have met Foster Farwell elsewhere, under other and more favorable circumstances.

"Mr. Farwell," said Alice firmly, "you have seen me as I really am."

"Yes," agreed Foster Farwell.

"My conversation and lack of it put you to sleep," continued Alice. "I am Victorian and domestic, and feminine and feeble-minded. I detest the Cultural Side of Life. I read Dickens. I sew. I am an excellent cook."

"Yes," said Foster Farwell, absently helping himself to the last piece of bread and the last spoonful of apple sauce.

"And surely," said Alice with tremendous earnestness, "you would never consider marrying a girl when she has a mother like me."

"No," shouted Foster Farwell, suddenly and fiercely.

The shout rang over the hedge. Aunt Maud leaned from the library window and took up the opera glasses. "A-a-a-h," said Aunt Maud.

"No," shouted Foster Farwell into the mighty rose-colored silence of the arbor. "I should never, for one moment, consider marrying a girl—when she had a mother like you."

And he reflected that at last he had found that for which he had searched weary years, a clever woman.

Alice looked up. Foster Farwell looked down.

"O-O-O-OH," said Aun Maud, holding the glasses firmly with both hands. (Not that Aunt Maud could see anything.)

"Darling," said Alice, comin timidly into her daughter's room. "I do not wish to disturb you."

"I should not wish to hav you," said Anne.

She wrote: "Dear Emily: Yo will be interested in hearing tha I am planning to marry Foste Farwell."

"Two weeks ago," continue Alice, with a soft persistenc "you said to me, 'I shall marr Foster Farwell.' And two week ago I said to myself, 'Anne mu not marry this man. I shall pr vent it.' I have prevented it."

Anne turned and stared at he mother. "Mother," she said, "wi you please tell me what yo mean?"

"Why," said Alice very gentl "I have married him myself."

IT HAPPENED IN NEW YORK

The Follies of 1931 in a Congested Metropolis.

By JACK ALEXANDER

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

NEW YORK.

THE modern social phenomenon which has caused millions of people, who might be enjoying fresh air and unadulterated sunlight, to throw themselves into the scrimmage grounds of the cities and spend their leisure hours in cubicles called apartments, finds its extreme example in New York. So much greater in New York than in other cities are the congestion and the torrential compulsion of the forces which drive man to nightmarish ingenuity in order to keep life flickering in unprimitive atmosphere; so monstrous are the daily dives through tunnels under streets and river beds (there are 26 under-water tubes); so ever-disturbing are the unmatched (thank God) tall and usually hideous buildings; so thundering and nerve-wracking is the ordinary stroll among the trucks and taxicabs, that between dodging death-dealing automobiles, acclimating the nervous system to the noise and keeping body and soul together, most inhabitants, save those who commute daily to outlying regions, where sanity prevails, become a little silly. Or, what is worse, dejected and ingrown. In the last year or so the business depression has added to the strain on their nerves. The tragedies and antics of these clowns of the greatest three-ring circus on earth are what make New York newspapers and newspaper work interesting. Silent and tolerantly bovine but handsome observers of the spectacle are the white-gloved police, who are steadier than their fellows only because their jobs are sure and they have no imaginations.

Here are some of the year's best examples of New York's balminess, mostly clipped from the papers:

In Palisades Park one hot afternoon a man on a bench was acting queerly. A policeman, wearing the usual policeman's look of disgust at what he sees of the human race, took him by the arm and began to lead him to the station house. On the way the heat overcame the officer and he folded up on the sidewalk. The prisoner, doing the gallant thing, hoisted his captor over his shoulders and lugged him four blocks to the station. With justifiable pride at his act of sportsmanship and his obvious vindication on charges of drinking, the man deposited his burden at the desk. The Desk Sergeant booked him for drunkenness, and the next day he was fined $10.

THE brilliant young editor and founder of one of the country's successful magazines returned from a late engagement to his Park avenue apartment. He laid aside his gloves, silk hat and cane and undressed, getting into pajamas. Sitting at a desk, he wrote a casual note to his mother. He then walked to the French windows, hung by his fingertips from the balcony for a few seconds and dropped 23 stories. The note stated merely that he was tired. He was 29 years old.

A millionaire Japanese resident of New York paced the deck of a liner on the way back from a Halifax cruise. A steward passed by in the moonlight and saw the Japanese stop and look across the sound toward Fire Island, the lapel of his dinner jacket glowing dully. No one has been found who saw the Japanese after that. He just passed out of the picture.

A prominent Judge dropped completely out of sight more than a year ago, with no clew to his fate or whereabouts.

AN INTOXICATED gentleman, said to be a journalist, some time back planted himself in the roadway at the Park Row entrance to Brooklyn Bridge and blocked the path of a stream of automobiles with a piece of scaffolding held horizontally. While horns raised a din of impatient protest, the gentleman explained to interested observers, between martial shouts, that he was Horatius at the bridge and who would volunteer to stand at either side and hold the pass with him? Before anyone could respond, a cop was at either side and the gentleman was led a short distance and told to run. This heroic chap, I am told, has since passed to his reward.

A group of men in working clothes stopped a truck in front of a hotel and walked into the lobby. Under the direction of a straw boss, they rolled up the lobby rug, worth thousands of dollars, and took it way. The bellhops and clerks thought the rug was being taken to the cleaners. The management got a trip to the cleaners, but the rug didn't. It turned up later in a pawnshop.

This frequently happens: A man or a woman will sit on the edge of a dock and look at the water for hours, then, without a word, jump in. Police on dock beats sometimes talk them out of it. More often they keep as close watch as possible and then pull the victim out, if he hasn't disappeared. Whatever the attempted suicide may think of the value of living, no class of men, barring physicians, seems to be so imbued with a passion for maintaining life as policemen.

A striking example of what the constabulary does in an emergency where life is at stake occurred here recently. As a platoon of patrolmen was leaving a station house, an Italian woman rushed up, screaming that her baby had stopped breathing. It had, too, and was apparently lifeless. Taking off their tunics, the police made a soft bed for the child on a bench in the station house and stood in line, taking turns breathing into the infant's mouth. Inside an hour, the child's bellows began flexing again and were as good as new. Then the patrolmen resumed the walk to their posts.

FOUND asleep on the elevated track, a man explained that he was just tired and thought he would lie down. To all outward appearances and medical tests he was perfectly normal and, after a warning, was sent home and told to find a less dangerous place to sleep. An elevated train had all but run him down, and one hand was inches away from the third rail.

Consider how the psychological makeup suffers. Young Abe Spielberg (his real name) goes to Evander High School. He lives in the Bronx and sleeps by a window. A few mornings ago his mother called to him to get up and dress for school. Less than half awake, Abe leaped out of bed. Unhappily, his psychological machinery was in reverse this notable morning and, instead of landing on the floor amid his shoes and socks, Abe did a Peter Pan and flew straight out the window. The Spielbergs live on the third floor, and it is 40 feet to the courtyard. The courtyard is of concrete. Yet all Abe suffered was abrasions. Three clotheslines slowed up his rate of descent. The first two snapped, but the third held steady and dropped him with comparative gentleness to the concrete.

AN OBSCURE junk dealer spends his Sunday afternoons riding down Fifth avenue in his rustiest clothes and battered derby, astride a fat draft horse with a bobbed tail. With a rope for a bridle and no saddle, he bows this way and that and is most appreciative of whatever smiles he can provoke. A bootblack on Lafayette street wears a silk hat and formal coat and smilingly brandishes a cane at passersby. He is "Silk Hat Tony."

Travel in New York is done largely by subway and elevated, speedily if somewhat uncomfortably. Only a few people use the surface cars. However, it seems that someone insists on running them, and the result is that the rolling stock is the finest collection of Victorian relics ever assembled.

Particularly funny are the lines which ply jerkily across Manhattan. Stymied continually by traffic lights on the main highways, these primitive conveyances take almost as long to cross the island as a pedestrian. One of last winter's shows caricatured them in a skit in which several generations of passengers were born between Avenue A and West street. The operators (usually the cars are one-man affairs) are harried, frustrated men, ever on the verge of nervous breakdowns. In fact, they look as if they had at one time contemplated breaking down, but decided no one would pay any attention, so what was the use? There are no overhead wires, the power coming from a slotted third rail, which has dead segments at the intersections. It is no uncommon thing for a car to stall on dead spots several times in a crosstown trip. In such emergencies, the motorman waits for the next car to come along and push him off the dead segment. And he rattles onward, tramping viciously on the gong, whether anyone is in the way or not. Nobody hears it, so it doesn't matter, and the wild-eyed motorman finds a release for his nerves. Another way is to curse and make faces at taxi drivers. I have seen them making faces.

POLICE in an outlying section, responding to a call from neighbors, entered a cottage from which issued great commotion. Inside they found a man, not five feet tall, and his mother-in-law, both of whom were drunk and obnoxious. The lady was making the noise because her tiny son-in-law had located a shotgun, which he held leveled at her head. While the police were discussing ways and means, the little man slunk out of the house.

An hour later he was found many blocks away, walking in the center of the street, with the gun over his shoulder, singing a rousing marching song. Taking him to the station, the police found themselves confronted with a situation. The mother-in-law declined to press charges. She said she wasn't the kind of woman who couldn't take a joke. The neighbor who had sent in the alarm could not be located, as the telephone call had been anonymous. The police couldn't charge the perky son-in-law with carrying a concealed weapon, because the weapon was larger than he. But, since he had caused plenty of bother, they resolved to hold him on some charge. He was booked for parading without a permit.

Tattoo artists no longer do much tattooing. Most of their business is in removing tattoos, for which they get even better fees. People rarely get decorated these days except as an alcoholic joke. You know, somebody says, "Let's all go down to the Bowery and get tattooed." These ideas have a way of sounding plausible at certain moments.

Child Artists

and it is interesting to note that, with one or two exceptions, they have displayed interesting talent.

But these children are, perhaps, exceptional. The creative urge is by no means limited to them. In each class an hour a day is devoted to work in art of some sort. And almost always there is a note of humor, or a sensitive use of color, or an exceptional line to reward the teacher. Several times a week Mrs. Flint or Miss Miller visit the classrooms to observe progress.

But for the most part the children are their own critics. When they have finished painting in the morning the teacher puts a half-dozen drawings up for criticism. The children have no adult reticence. They would just as soon tear the picture to pieces as not.

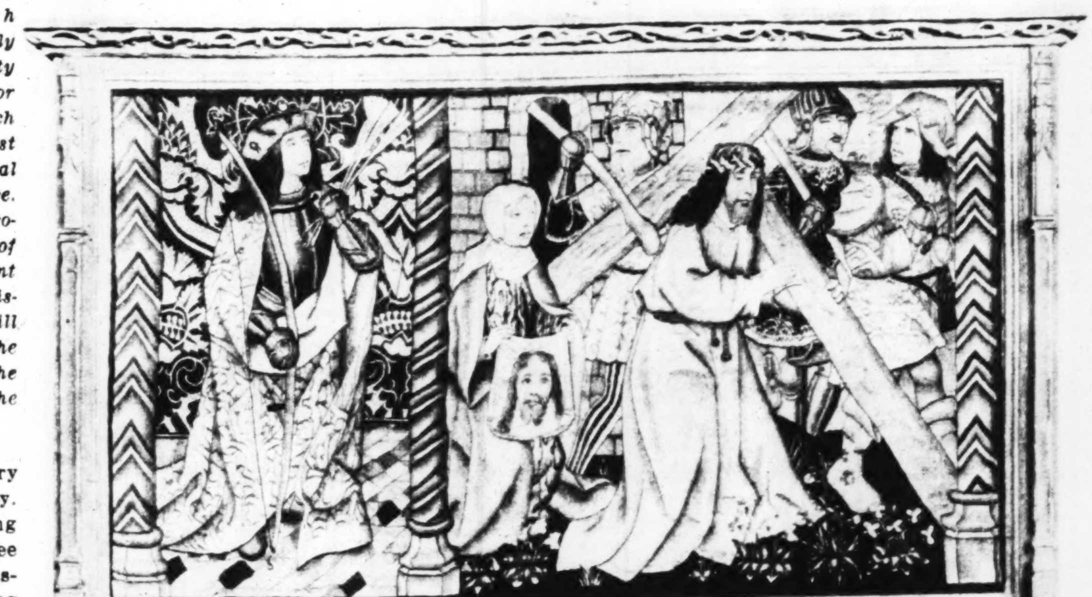
I VISITED the school on a Monday. Most of the drawings were of things seen over the week-end. A girl in the first grade had drawn an apple tree. The tree was just a kind of box with apples in it. Under the tree was a little dog with an apple on his nose. The artist explained, very seriously, that the apple had fallen off and hit the dog. But her critics found 20 faults with the picture, mostly because it did not look like an apple tree at all. Apple trees weren't boxes, they objected; the trunk was too thick, and the little dog looked as though he were sitting up and balancing the apple on his nose.

There is a modeling room in the basement, just off the workshop. As would be expected, after the fourth grade a majority of the boys prefer to hammer and saw at practical things. Those who are genuinely interested keep on modeling clay or painting.

SIXTEENTH CENTURY TAPESTRY

The Sixth of a Series of Art Objects Being Given a Special Showing at the St. Louis Art Museum.

THIS tapestry is the sixth in a series of masterpieces which are being prominently displayed at the City Museum by Director Meyric Rogers. Each week one of the museum's rarest treasures is placed in a special setting to the left of the entrance. Each masterpiece will be reproduced in the Sunday Magazine of the Post-Dispatch, with an account by museum authorities of its history. The complete series will serve as an excellent guide to the most precious possessions of the city's museum. The story of the tapestry follows:



The art and craft of tapestry weaving is of great antiquity. Fragments of Egyptian weaving are still extant showing a degree of skill both in design and craftsmanship attained only by long experience and slow development. Through all the years that followed the fall of the Roman Empire the tapestry weaver must have continued his work, for it appeared again early in the Middle Ages and reaches its greatest attainment about 1500 A. D., when the other arts of the Gothic Age were all on the decline.

This little tapestry, one of a pair formerly in the Haenauer collection and acquired by the City Art Museum in 1928, was made about 1520 and is now ascribed to a weaver of Tours, in France, though eminent authorities have successively affirmed its origin to have been South German, Flanders in general and Arras in particular. This confusion is not strange at this period, weavers trained in one region, usually in Flanders, which was the center of the industry, wandered or were called to far distant places, where their services might be in demand, usually for some particular piece of work for a particular princely patron. These temporary workshops flourished for a time and then disappeared, but at any one moment all their productions were much alike, save in quality.

The tapestry here shown, like its fellow, has for its main subject an incident in the life of Christ. The design is divided into two unequal panels by a decorative colonnette, repeated at either end, a common device when more than one subject was to be introduced in a single design. In the larger of these panels Christ is shown carrying the Cross on the road to Calvary, accompanied by Roman soldiers and St. Veronica bearing her napkin, on which appears the miraculous impression of the Savior's face. The armored figure in the smaller panel probably represents St. Sebastian.

Save for the figure of Christ, all the personages are clad in early sixteenth century costume and placed against a conventional background without the least effect of three-dimensional existence, modeling of rounded surfaces being hardly more than suggested. This flatness and simplification is the very strength of tapestry design which in essentials is the enrichment of a plane surface in color and texture. In later work the weavers strove after perspective and three dimensional relief practiced by the painter, thus losing the unique beauty of the earlier designs and bringing on a marked decadence in the craft.

LIKE most contemporary examples, the design of this tapestry was probably inspired by a manuscript illumination. From this small painting a full-sized model in color, called a cartoon, was prepared and the tapestry woven on either a horizontal or vertical loom. The cartoon was placed directly behind the warp or framework of plain threads, on which the design was woven from the back, the resulting tapestry being the reverse of the cartoon. Great skill was therefore necessary to follow the intricate passages, months and even years of constant work being required to complete a piece of only moderate size.

TOY TALKIES

by Walter Quermann

THE WRECK OF THE FAST MAIL.

This is a game that can be played by any child. All that is needed are scissors, paste and some cardboard. The directions for playing "Toy Talkies" are given at the bottom of the game.

THE PLAYERS.

THE FAST MAIL—A noisy little train that likes to run all over the house every night at 12 o'clock.

DOLLY—Jane's little doll, who is afraid that the toys will be broken, playing recklessly.

TEDDY BEAR—A good natured soul who is never unhappy.

WOODEN SOLDIER—A member of Bobbie's gallant little army.

It is 12 o'clock and all the toys become alive and play, while their young owners are fast asleep.

THE PLAY BEGINS.

The Fast Mail is heard approaching by its faint chu-chu-chu and its bell faintly saying clang-a-lang. The sounds grow lounder until at last with a loud clang-a-lang it is drawn on the stage. It doesn't stop, but noisily crosses and disappears off the other side and the noise slowly fades away.

DOLLY now enters; she stands in front of the stairs well to the front of the stage so the other characters can pass behind her.

DOLLY—Goodness, gracious, that train is running wild again. I am so afraid he will get into mischief.

TEDDY BEAR enters and crosses stage going behind Dolly. He stops when he reaches extreme left side of the stage.

TEDDY BEAR—Did you see the Fast Mail? I wanted him to give me a ride.

DOLLY—No I didn't see him, but I heard him.

TEDDY BEAR—I suppose he is having a good time all by himself.

WOODEN SOLDIER comes on stage and stands facing Dolly.

WOODEN SOLDIER—Some bad news, folks. The Fast Mail was wrecked. He ran into the table leg in the dining room.

TEDDY BEAR—Well, one thing is certain—no passengers were hurt.

DOLLY—This is terrible; Bobby and Jane will cry when they see their train wrecked.

TEDDY BEAR—Gee! That's true—I will see if I can fix him. (He is drawn off the stage.)

DOLLY—I hope he can fix it.

WOODEN SOLDIER—I will call out the army. We might be able to help. (He is drawn off the stage.)

DOLLY—I hope they can fix it. I don't like to see Bobby and Jane cry. Oh, this is awful. (Starts to cry.) She crys for a moment. Presently the Fast Mail is faintly heard, and with a louder clang-a-lang is drawn on stage with Teddy Bear riding it.

TEDDY BEAR—Here we are. Fast Mail was on his side and couldn't get up, but we helped him.

DOLLY—Gee! That was fine. Now we had better get back in our places. It is getting awfully late.

So with a laud clang-a-lang all characters slowly leave the stage.

DIRECTIONS: Cut out back-drop and pin it on a wall near the floor. Next, take two books and stand them at each end and about 5 inches in front of back-drop. Then take characters, cut them out, and paste them on thin cardboard, folding flap at bottom so they will lean back a little. Attach a piece of thread about 15 inches long. Place the characters back of the book on the right hand side of the stage and draw them on the stage with thread as they are needed. The operator may talk for the characters, changing his or her voice as different characters go on the stage, or each character's part may be spoken by a different child. A flashlight can be used as a spotlight.

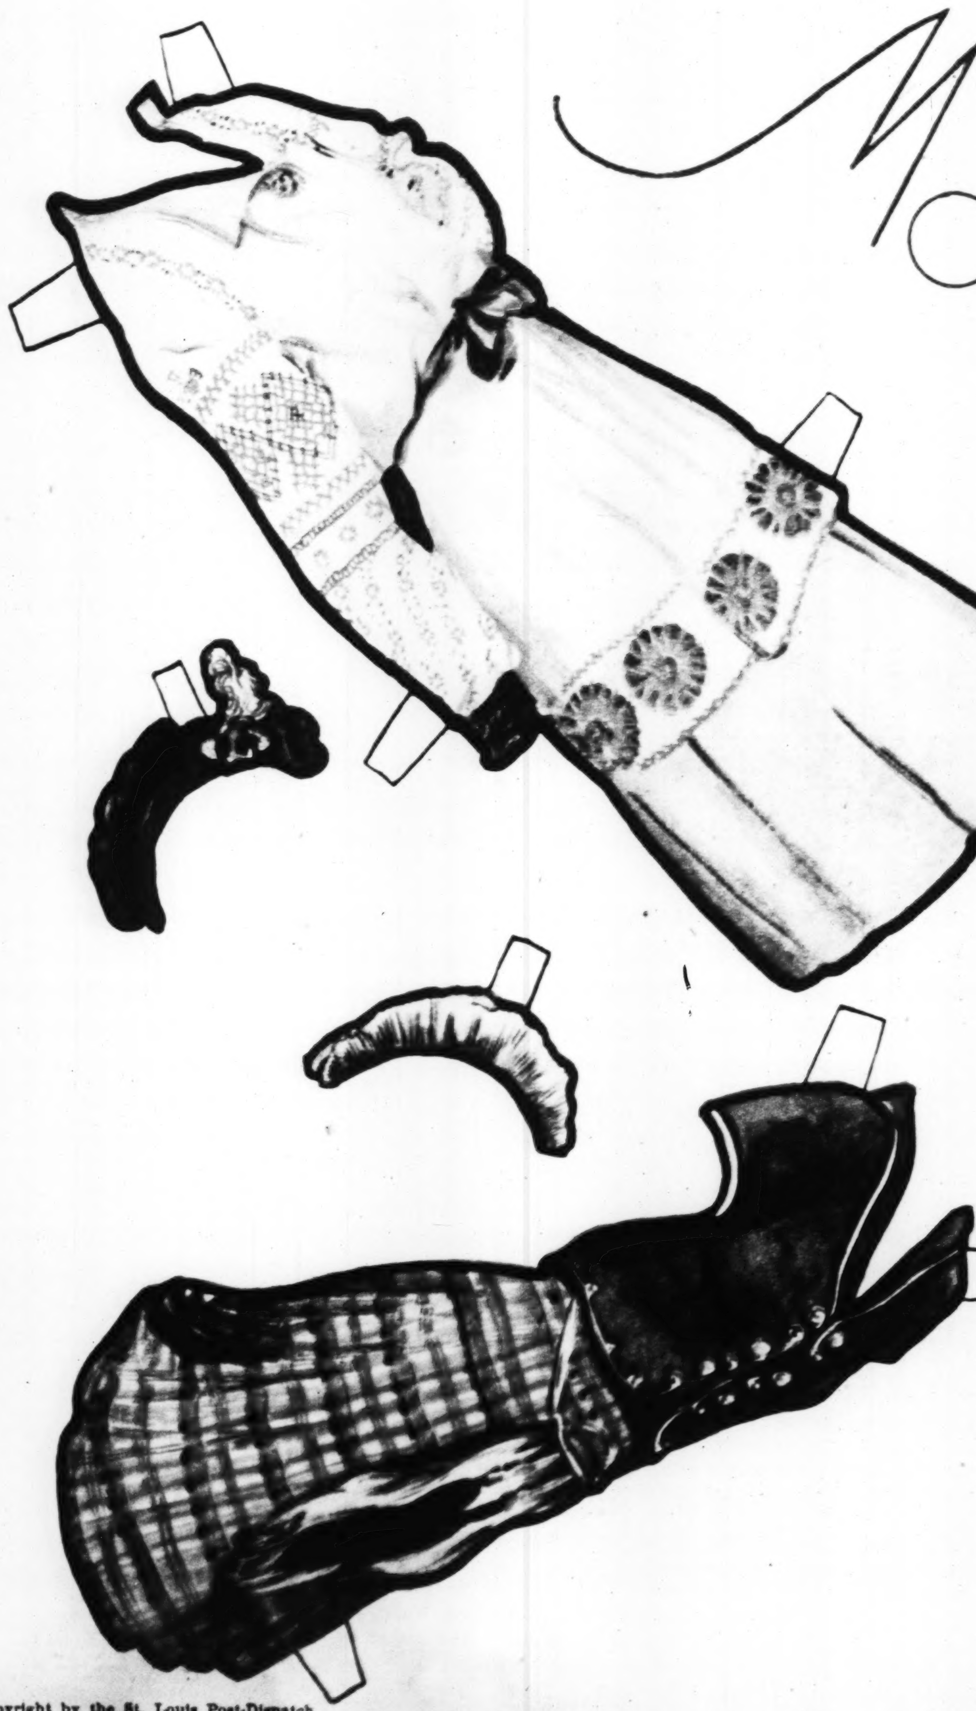
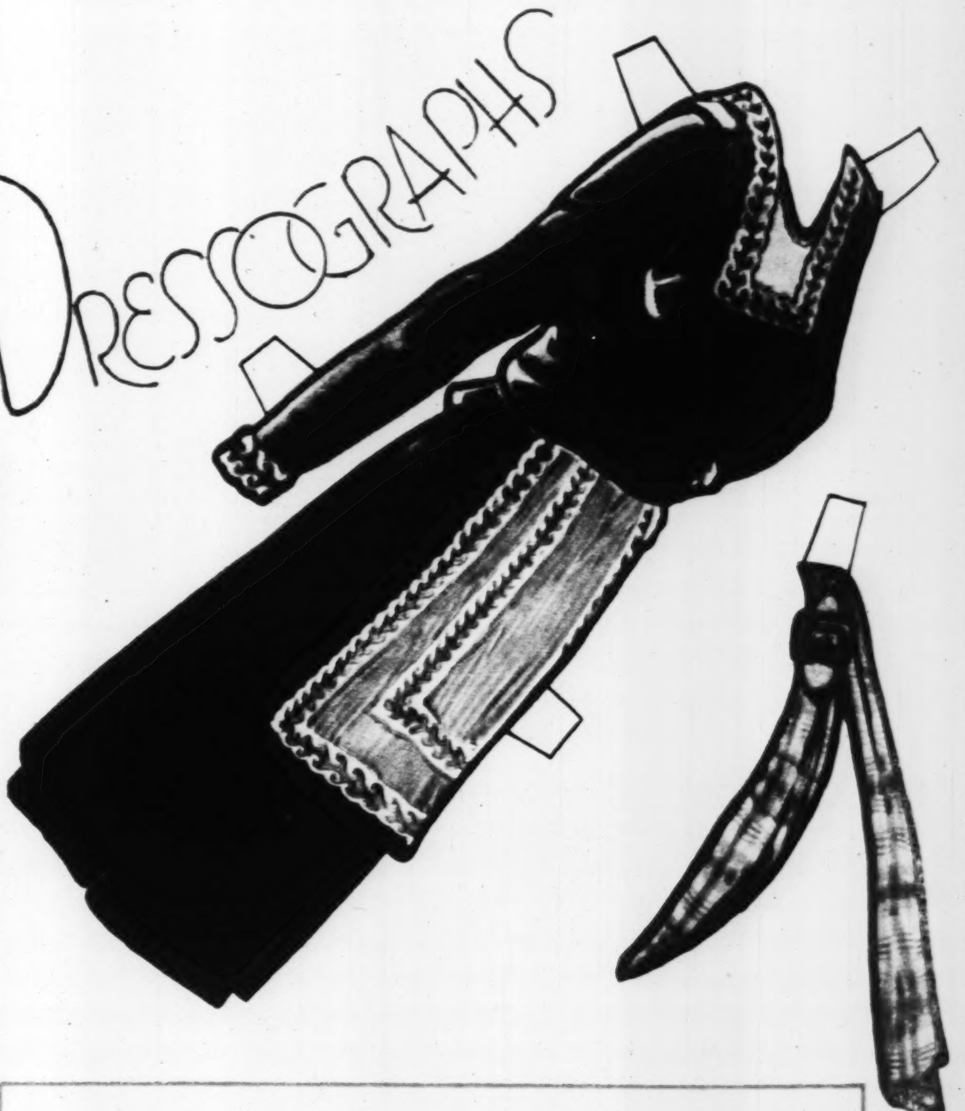
MOVIE DRESSOGRAPHS





NANCY CARROLL.

A different movie star will make his or her appearance in this space every week. Accompanying will be three costumes this particular player wore in various roles she has played on the screen.

Cut out the player and paste on cardboard. Then cut out the costumes. Now dress the star in her proper outfits, being careful to assemble each costume correctly.

This week's star is Nancy Carroll. The three sets of costumes shown here were worn by her in these roles in the following movies:

Nora Ryan in "Personal Maid;" Yula in "Night Angel;" Lora Moore in "Follow Thru."

Next week: Maurice Chevalier.

The Peanut and the Coffee Bean

THE peanut vender is smart . . . "Fresh-roasted peanuts," he cries, and everybody buys. And, when you know how much better fresh-roasted coffee is, you'll never accept a pound that has lingered long on the shelf.

For, when coffee lingers, it loses much of its goodness. And here's the reason why. In each little coffee bean, there are hundreds of little cells—hiding places for tiny drops of aromatic, flavor-giving oil. The minute the coffee is roasted, these oils come to life. They become active, restless, eager to escape. And, before long, they do escape, taking the flavor and the fragrance with them. That's why the fresher coffee is, the better it is.

That's why Kroger rushes the roasted coffee to the stores. That's why Kroger grinds it for you when you buy it—or packs it in an air-sealed vacuum can. That's why you can be sure you're getting the freshest coffee at Kroger's—the finest coffee at less cost.

Coffee that is imported direct by us—roasted and blended and retailed direct to you. Try any one of these four brands—taste what a difference freshness makes!

HER GRACE . . . A new blend of coffees from Colombia and Brazil that produces an unusually fine flavored beverage. Sealed in a bag immediately after roasting, and ground for you at the time of purchase.

JEWEL . . . A mild, sweet-drinking coffee of unusual body and bouquet. Millions of pounds of this most popular Brazilian blend are sold every year.

RIGHT NOW . . . while you have this paper in your hand—cut out these 14 "Budget-Saving" Dinner Menus, and tack them up where you can refer to them when you are making up your grocery list. Remember, by following these menus and planning your meals ahead for the next two weeks, you can buy to better advantage, save more money, and never have any left-overs to throw away.

ISN'T it fun to sit there and read about the simply delicious dinners, with the many tempting surprises, that you can afford to serve to your family, every day, for the next two weeks? Isn't it a happy experience not to have to worry about meal-planning or marketing lists . . . to know that you won't over-spend the first part of the week, and run short of cash along about Friday or Saturday?

During the past month, hundreds of thousands of women (surely you are one of them) have discovered that by letting The Kroger Food Foundation guide them in their meal-planning and marketing, the food dollars do take care of themselves.

As you glance through the "Budget-Saving" dinner menus given here, you can see that there's no skimping on quality or variety—that your husband will have the meats and desserts he likes . . . that the children will get the fruits and vegetables they need . . . and, best of all, you will all really enjoy these meals planned so carefully for the sake of nutrition, taste and economy.

BUT what about "Budget-Saving" breakfast and luncheon menus? The Kroger Food Foundation has them all worked out for you, too, and is offering them to you, together with these dinner menus, in its latest Bulletin—"Stretching your Food Dollars for the Next Two Weeks." In fact, there are two complete groups of menus in this Bulletin. One is planned for a family of four whose food budget for the week is $15. The other (no less wholesome, no less appetizing) is planned for a family of four with a food budget of $10 a week.

Besides taking care of all your meal-planning, this Bulletin also includes complete marketing lists, gives recipes, tells you how to use left-overs, so there's not a crumb wasted, and has all the costs figured out, down to the last penny, so you can be sure that, day after day, your food dollars (even though they are fewer) are buying the very best foods . . . the foods that are best for the health and happiness of your family.

Every Kroger Store has a supply of these Bulletins, "Stretching your Food Dollars for the Next Two Weeks." So, go to the store nearest you tomorrow morning, get your copy, and start making your food dollars go farther. But if the supply is gone before you get there, then write to The Kroger Food Foundation at Cincinnati, Ohio.

*This is the approximate cost of the first Monday dinner, based on actual retail food prices in a large Midwestern city at the time this was written.
